New Orleans Sgt. Testifies Before Probers

BATON ROUGE, March 9 (UP)—A New Orleans police sergeant declared before a Louisiana legislative committee today that "communism not only exists in Louisiana, it is operating in this very city."

Hubert Badeaux, 34, added the Communist party's influence "is not only widespread, it has infiltrated throughout the state."

He is head of the Intelligence Affairs Division in the New Orleans police department and testified before Congressional committees regarding communism in New Orleans, especially on the waterfront.

WISE CRACKS

Badeaux, who interspersed his testimony with wisecracks on such subjects as liquidation of legislators when the comrades take over, said a New Orleans longshoremen's local is Communist dominated.

"I will state categorically, local 207 of the International Longshoremen's Workers Union is still under domination of the Communist party. There is some dissention within the union which I don't mind promoting, however," Badeaux said.

Andrew Steve Nelson, once head of the union, was convicted of perjury for signing a non-Communist oath. He died, however, before actually serving time for the conviction.

CITES NON-REDS

Badeaux said that two other New Orleans locals, 1418 and 1419 of the International Longshoremen's Association are "definitely non-Communist. They are in fact quite anti-Communist and I don't think they will come under Communist control" for economic or other reasons.

Badeaux presented several documents which he said were found in a raid on the quarters of Hunter Pitts O'Dell, whom he called the top Communist in Louisiana.

One document, Badeaux said, was a report of a divisional meeting of the Communist party, held in the Birmingham, Ala., area apparently in the spring of 1955. He read sections of it, quoting a statement that the party should build up such organizations as the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in the right-to-vote movement. He said the report stated the party should organize NAACP branches itself.

NAACP MEETING

Badeaux described a 1943 meeting of the New Orleans NAACP chapter at which Willie Dorsey, ousted 207 local president, asked for help in regaining control of the union from the Communists. He quoted a newspaper article on the meeting in which one NAACP leader said the organization was not interested in political affairs.

"Whenever Negro Communists want to discredit a person, they shout Uncle Tom" Badeaux commented, "and that was what they called Dorsey."

Another witness told the committee today that the Communists stirred up race incidents to gain Negro party members.

Mrs. Martha Edmiston, a reporter for the Waynesville, Ohio, Journal, said she and her husband were instructed in 1940 to take two Negro girls into Ohio restaurants while on a trip to Chicago. They were to raise a "fuss" if they were not served, she said.

Walker Named President Of La. Press Assn.

SHREVEPORT, La., March 9 (UP)—The Louisiana Press Assn. today elected Ken Walker, publisher of The Colfax Chronicle, president as it closed its two-day convention.

Walker, who moved up from first vice president, succeeds Ralph Bienvenue of Abbeville.

Others elected were Eddie Jackson, Thibodaux Lafourche Comet, first vice president; and John Thistlethwaite, Opelousas Daily World, second vice president.

Max Thomas of The Crowley Daily Signal was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Directors include:

Mrs. Louise Lipp of Winnsboro George Larsen of Winnfield, Harold Anthony of Mansfield, Milton Beckerman of Natchitoches, C. Leroy Miller of Denham Springs, Sam Reeks of Metairie, and James M. Robinson of St. Francisville.

At a separate meeting, the Louisiana Daily Newspaper Publishers Assn. elected Nathan Bolton, Bastrop Daily Enterprise, president and Thistlethwaite, vice president.

C. P. Liter of Baton Rouge, general manager of The Morning Advaocate and State Times, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Ike Inks U. S. Mid East Plan

WASHINGTON, March 9 (UP) — President Eisenhower Saturday signed his name to an historic declaration pledging that the United States is prepared to fight if necessary to protect the Middle East from Communist aggression.

Even as the President signed the Mid East doctrine resolution, Egypt raised the prospect of new tension in the Middle East by denying Israeli ships passage through the Suez Canal. Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban called at the State Department to protest.

The declaration, backed by Congress and popularly known as the "Eisenhower Doctrine," closes the last major gap in U. S. defense commitments for territory surrounding Russia and Red China.

COVERS ANY DIRECTION

The United States, through defensive alliances or by congressional mandate, now is committed to fight should either of the two major Communist powers try to expand in almost any direction.

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization covers Europe and Turkey; the Middle East Doctrine, the stretch from Turkey to Pakistan; and the Southeast Asian Treaty Organization, the area from Pakistan to the Philippines. Formosa is covered by congressional resolution and treaty with the Nationalist Chinese, and there are separate defensive alliances with Japan and South Korea.

Mr. Eisenhower said in a 300-word statement that the declaration "is a further demonstration of the will of the American people to preserve peace and freedom in the world."

IMPORTANT STEP FORWARD

He also said it marks "an important forward step" in developing friendly relations between the United States and the Middle East.

There was no elaborate ceremony at the White House for the occasion. Newsmen, photographers and presidential aides were the only witnesses.

Besides endorsing the fight - if-we-must declaration, Congress authorized Mr. Eisenhower to spend up to $200 million in already-appropriated funds for military and economic aid to bolster Middle East nations against internal Communist subversion.

In his statement to reporters, Mr. Eisenhower announced that James P. Richards. (D-S. C.) his ambassador and adviser, will leave for the Middle East Tuesday to explain the resolution's purposes to beneficiary nations.

State Writers Top Award To Tech Student

Dwight Rudisell, Louisiana Tech student, captured the grand prize which goes annually to the highest point winner in contests sponsored by the College Writers Society of Louisiana.

His feature story, "The Revelation of Carbon 14," won the $100 government bond, given each year by The Shreveport Times as the top prize. The award, along with others, was given last night at a banquet which climaxed the one-day conference held at Northeast State College. Keith Coulbourn, Sunday editor, made the presentation.

Louisiana Tech also won the high point cup which is given by the Writers Club of Northeast and the college chapter of Sigma Tau Delta, national English Society. This award was presented by President Lewis C. Slater of Northeast.

IN SECOND PLACE

Northwestern State placed second in total points and Centenary scored third.

First, second, and third places were given in the various literary fields: short story, poetry, feature article, and one-act play. Honorable mention also was awarded for the next three highest ranking works in each division.

First prize in the short story went to Andre Dubus of McNeese State. Second place was won by Allen Brown of Louisiana Tech, and third place by Ted Pebworth of Centenary.

Highest prize in poetry was won by Walter R. Eagles, Northwestern State student. Second place was received by Ted L. Pebworth of Centenary, and third place was captured by James Bolner of Louisiana State University.

Feature story winners included: Dwight R. Rudisill, Louisiana Tech, first; Carolyn E. Davis, Northwestern State, second; and Truly Ann Drake, Centenary, third.

Taking top place in one-act play competition was Lorene Denny, Northeast State student. Second place went to Floyd Stoute of Southwestern, and third place to Walt Ryland of Louisiana Tech.

CASH AWARDS

Cash awards of $25 were presented to first place winners; $10 to second place winners; and $5 to third place. First prize for the short story was given by Sigma Tau Delta, national English fraternity. A similar award for poetry was given in memory of Joel Fletcher, Sr., by his son and daughters. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Faulk of Ruston gave the feature article prize, and Northeast

Strikers At Negro College Are Expelled

President Fired In Emergency Board Session

JACKSON, Miss., March 9 (AP) — The state college board today expelled the striking Negro students at Alcorn A/M College and fired Dr. J. R. Otis as president.

The board announcement after an emergency session said students had taken over the college with "the acquiescence if not the consent" of Otis.

KING UNMENTIONED

The announcement made no reference to Clennon King, a history professor whose newspaper articles were blamed by the students for the walkout. King dealt with segregation in his articles and criticized the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People for having done nothing locally for southern Negroes.

Asked what King's status is, president H. G. Carpenter of the all-white board said, "he's still a member of the faculty. Prof. King's name was not brought up. There was no reason to bring it up."

Assuring that the school will be "continued in operation" for those students who have returned, the board put president-elect J. D. Boyd into immediate authority. Boyd, now president of Utica Institute, a state-supported Negro school near Jackson, was named to succeed Otis recently when the board announced Otis' resignation, effective in March 31. Otis, under treatment recently for ulcers, said he was in ill health.

Otis told reporters "I'm not surprised" by his discharge as head of the 86-year-old land-grant college. Otis had recommended Kings dismissal on grounds similar to the students' complaints — that King had involved the college in controversial issues.

THREATENED

King left the campus hurriedly yesterday, saying his life had been threatened, after he made a tearful appeal to the students to read his articles and then take a secret ballot on whether they wanted him to go. They had been told at the mass meeting by Dean H. A. Wilson that King would appear before them to resign.

King, apparently highly disturbed, did not offer the signed resignation they asked and the students walked out, in apparent agreement to desert the campus en masse.

Before his discharge today, Otis told reporters an undetermined number of students, possibly as many as 95, had sought re-admission and that some were back in class.

Otis said 489 of the 561 students had signed "final withdrawal" slips but a number had asked to retract that action.

Sunny Skies In Prospect

A pleasant Sunday is in store for the Twin Cities area, with mild temperatures and only a few clouds. The high here yesterday was 66. The low 35.

Today will be fine across the state border in Arkansas, where clear to partly cloudy skies and a high of 55-65 are expected.

Negro Woman Is Shot To Death; Suspect Is Held

A 22 - year - old Negro was charged with murder in the shooting of his commonlaw wife early yesterday at 1016 Breard street.

Monroe city police identified the Negro as James Griffin, Jr. The dead woman was Magnolia Butler, 30, Negro.

DEAD ON ARRIVAL

The Negro woman was pronounced dead on arrival at Charity Hospital. There was a .38 calibre bullet wound in the right side of her face.

James was reported to have said first that the woman shot herself, but later changed his story and said that he had shot her, the officers' report stated. He stated that he had been out and when he came in around 3 a.m. he told her that he had been out drinking with the boys and she said "that was not doing her right."

James said that he picked up a revolver and put it in his pocket and when he turned around the Negro woman had a gun in her hand. He said that he grabbed the gun from her hand, stepped back, and cocked the hammer. When she got up from the couch he said he shot her in the face.

City police transferred James to the Ouachita parish jail.

Shreveport Man Killed In Crash

SHREVEPORT, La., (UP) — Charles Archie Preston, 74, Shreveport, became the city's second traffic fatality of 1957 today after a two-car collision near the city limits.

Preston died less than two hours after his car was struck broadside by a car driven by James Williams, 28, Negro.

Police said Williams, who was uninjured, will be held pending further investigation.

Preston was the city's first traffic death in 65 days.

Soviet Union Tests Another Nuclear Bomb

WASHINGTON, March 9 (UP) — The United States announced Saturday that Russia has exploded another nuclear test bomb but indicated it was not an H-bomb.

A brief statement by Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission said the explosion took place Friday.

The announcement was the 18th by the United States disclosing various Soviet nuclear explosions since September, 1949.

Many of the announcements, however, have referred to a series of explosions rather than individual shots. This means Russia has tested many more than 18 weapons.

40 EXPLOSIONS

Informed sources have told the United Press the total probably is in the neighborhood of 40.

This compares with at least 75 U. S. nuclear explosions. Great Britain has tested nine atomic weapons and soon will explode her first H-bomb in the Christmas Island area of the pacific 1,200 miles south of Hawaii.

Saturday's brief announcement said:

"The Soviet Union has conducted another nuclear test. The latest detonation occurred March 8, 1957, and was in the range and size of their recent explosions."

WEAKER THAN H-BOMB

The AEC previously had said that Soviet weapons exploded in the current test series stretching back to last summer have been below a megaton in power.

DENIES MURDER

Agent Admits Robbing N. Y. Duo In Mex.

ACAPULCO, Mexico, March 9 (UP) — A Mexican travel agent confessed Saturday that he robbed a pair of missing New York tourists, but denied murdering them and hiding the bodies.

The travel agent is Luis Fenton. Police said that he confessed that he and two tourist guides stole jewelry belonging to Mrs. Edith Hallock. She was a rich Brooklyn widow who has been missing with lawyer Joseph Michel for 18 days.

Fenton confessed as investigators tried to identify two bodies that washed ashore on a lonely beach 50 miles north of Acapulco as bodies of the missing Mrs. Hallock and Michel. She was 63 and Michel was 70.

The bodies appeared to be of a man and a woman, but they were so badly deteriorated experts were summoned to determine whether the remains were of Mrs. Hallock and Michel.

FOUND SEVERAL DAYS AGO

A farmer found the bodies several days ago at Arenal De Gomez and buried them in the sand. The news of his discovery eventually got to authorities in Acapulco.

Mexican FBI agents said Fenton implicated tourist guides Roberto Zuniga and Claudio (Shorty) Fernandez in the robbery. But neither Zuniga, Fernandez or Fenton would admit having anything to do with murder.

"Their story is still confused and they admit only robbing Michel and Mrs. Hallock," agents, who continued to question them at their headquarters, said.

Fenton's confession led to the recovery of some of Mrs. Hallock's jewelry hidden at a home at Pie De La Cuesta, a beach eight miles north of Acapulco.

To reach the bodies, police traveled by car and then had to walk the last two miles over sand dunes and rocks.

Gonzalez said he believed the finding of the bodies solved the disappearance of Michel, a New York attorney, and Mrs. Halleck, a wealthy Brooklyn widow. Mrs. Halleck's sister, Mrs. Walter Hoffman, came here from New York to aid police in their search but said from the outset she thought the two were dead.

Hawaiian Villages Hard Hit

By The Associated Press

Alaska and the Aleutian Islands were rocked by three earthquakes Saturday, sending destructive tidal waves into the Hawaiian Islands.

The tidal wave was indirectly responsible for the death of a woman reporter when a small plane crashed in Hawaii. Rescuers saved her two men companions.

SWEPT INTO SEA

Fourteen homes were reported swept into the sea from Kauai Island, and two small villages were destroyed by the first series waves. Coral boulders were piled along coastal highways of the islands.

The submarine Wahoo reported a "harrowing experience" when the waves struck it in Nawiliwili Harbor on Kauai Island, and washed two sailors overboard. They were rescued.

Waves from the first Aleutian quake to hit Hawaii were less than five feet high.

A second series of waves was expected.

Sarah Park, 29, reporter for the Honlulu Star-Bulletin and former war correspondent, was killed in the plane crash. Jack Matsumoto, photographer for the newspaper, and the pilot, Paul O. Beam, Honolulu advertising and former Associated Press reporter during World War II, were rescued.

BEGAN AT 6:07 A.M.

The Alaska quake began at 6:07 a.m. PST. It had a Richter magnitude of 8, compared with the 1906 San Francisco quake of 8.25. The biggest quake ever recorded was 8.6 on the Richter scale.

50-50 Pay Program Refused By Egypt

CAIRO, March 9 (UP)—Egypt rejected Saturday a reported Western proposal for a 50-50 split in payment of Suez Canal shipping tolls. A government spokesman said the Egyptians would demand full payment of tolls once the canal is fully opened.

A statement by Egyptian Information Director Abdel-Kader Hattem implied strongly that Egypt would bar passage to all ships failing to pay the full tolls to the Cairo government.

(The statement, as heard in London over Cairo Radio, also hinted strongly that Israeli ships will be barred from the 101-mile waterway.)

The Egyptian statement, sharply attacking "proposals aimed at reviving the Suez Canal issue," came as a new crisis threatened over whether the United Nations or Egypt will control the Gaza Strip.

REFUGEES DEMONSTRATE

The UN announced that its trouble-shooting Assistant Secretary-General Ralph Bunche, was flying here Sunday to inspect the explosive Gaza Strip where UN troops have taken over from the Israelis. Thousands of Arab refugees there have staged demonstrations demanding that Gaza return to Egypt

Hattem announced Egypt's position on the Suez tolls just after the canal was opened to small shipping up to 500 tons. But UN salvage officials were still awaiting an Egyptian go-ahead to proceed with the removal of two sunken vessels that still blocked passage for larger freighters and tankers.

The Egyptian statement commented on a reported U. S., British and French plan for a 50-50 plan for running the Suez Canal until a final settlement is reached. Under the proposal half of the tolls would go to Egypt and half into an international bank escrow account to pay for salvage and maintenance.

PAST NINE MONTHS

13th Marine DI Is Disciplined

PARRIS ISLAND, S.C., March 9 (UP) — The 13th Marine instructor to be disciplined at this troubled "boot camp" in nine months was sentenced Saturday to three months at hard labor and reduction to private for laying his hands on three recruits.

A five-member court martial board also ordered Cpl. William R. Walsh of Lyndhurst, N.J., to forfeit $40 pay a month for three months. Under the charges he could have received a maximum penalty of six months at hard labor and a bad conduct discharge without any pay.

'TOUCHED' RECRUIT

Walsh was found guilty of "touching" one recruit, striking another, and "tapping" and hitting a third, for a total of four counts. The six-foot-two, 25-year-old drill instructor was cleared on 20 other counts when the board turned in its verdict Friday.

The sentence was announced after two hours deliberation Saturday.

SPIRITED DEFENSE

Walsh had the most spirited defense of any of the instructors on trial since the case of Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon which set off the "house-cleaning" of boot training methods last July.

McKeon was convicted of negligence in the drowning of six recruits whom he led into a tidal creek on a night disciplinary march last April 8. At this trial three months later Emil Zola Berman, a volunteer civilian attorney, attempted to show that Sergeant McKeon had only been unlucky in carrying out the accepted stern training methods of the corps. The commandant of the entire corps was among the witnesses Berman put on the stand.

Fred Shields of Mount Vernon, Va., another well-known attorney, was retained by Walsh's family to defend the corporal. He accused a brigadier general of issuing prejudicial statements in the case and produced a series of witnesses seeking to discredit the statements of the main witness against Walsh, Pvt. David L. Porter, 18, of Hartford, Vt.

One defense witness, Sgt. Joseph Zembrowski, another drill instructor, said Porter was a "liar" whom he would not believe under oath.

Ray Green, Morehouse Clerk, Dies

BASTROP, March 9 (Special) — Ray Green, 43, popular Clerk of District Court here died at his home on Crossett Road Saturday afternoon about 2 p.m.

According to officials, he was stricken with a heart attack and died before aid could be summoned.

SERVICES SLATED

Funeral services will be held Sunday at 3 p.m. at the Christ Episcopal Church in Bastrop with Rev. Richard Cook officiating.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Johnnie Cox Green, daughter of Fagan J. Cox, 4202 South Grand street, Monroe; three daughters, Jennie Kate Green, Tommie Ray Green, and Elizabeth Green all of Bastrop; one sister, Mrs. Wilson Cain also of Bastrop.

He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Green of Bastrop and a resident of Morehouse parish for many years. He attended Bastrop public schools and later attended Ouachita Junior College, now Northeast State, where he excelled in football as a tackle on the Indian football team in 1931.

ACTIVE IN CHURCH

He was an active member of the Christ Episcopal Church. He served as Superintendent of the Sunday School as well as a Vestryman.

In civic affairs he was always active having been a past president of the Bastrop Kiwanis Club, and a past Lt. Governor of the Louisiana - Mississippi - Tennessee Kiwanis District.

Pallbearers will be John Madison Smith, Baily Grant, George N. Orr, Robert Harp, Judge Jessie Heard, Charlie Jacob, Edwin F. Madison and Dr. Jack Rawls.

Interment will be in Memorial Park Cemetery in Bastrop under the direction of Blackwell and Golden Funeral Home.

The body will lie in state at the Blackwell-Golden Chapel until time for services.

Boyd, now president of Utica Institute, a state-supported Negro school near Jackson, was named to succeed Otis recently when the board announced Otis' resignation, effective in March 31. Otis, under treatment recently for ulcers, said he was in ill health.

Otis told reporters "I'm not surprised" by his discharge as head of the 86-year-old land-grant college. Otis had recommended Kings dismissal on grounds similar to the students' complaints — that King had involved the college in controversial issues.

THREATENED

King left the campus hurriedly yesterday, saying his life had been threatened, after he made a tearful appeal to the students to read his articles and then take a secret ballot on whether they wanted him to go. They had been told at the mass meeting by Dean H. A. Wilson that King would appear before them to resign.

King, apparently highly disturbed, did not offer the signed resignation they asked and the students walked out, in apparent agreement to desert the campus en masse.

Before his discharge today, Otis told reporters an undetermined number of students, possibly as many as 95, had sought re-admission and that some were back in class.

Otis said 489 of the 561 students had signed "final withdrawal" slips but a number had asked to retract that action.

Sunny Skies In Prospect

A pleasant Sunday is in store for the Twin Cities area, with mild temperatures and only a few clouds. The high here yesterday was 66. The low 35.

Today will be fine across the state border in Arkansas, where clear to partly cloudy skies and a high of 55-65 are expected.

Negro Woman Is Shot To Death; Suspect Is Held

A 22 - year - old Negro was charged with murder in the shooting of his commonlaw wife early yesterday at 1016 Breard street.

Monroe city police identified the Negro as James Griffin, Jr. The dead woman was Magnolia Butler, 30, Negro.

DEAD ON ARRIVAL

The Negro woman was pronounced dead on arrival at Charity Hospital. There was a .38 calibre bullet wound in the right side of her face.

James was reported to have said first that the woman shot herself, but later changed his story and said that he had shot her, the officers' report stated. He stated that he had been out and when he came in around 3 a.m. he told her that he had been out drinking with the boys and she said "that was not doing her right."

James said that he picked up a revolver and put it in his pocket and when he turned around the Negro woman had a gun in her hand. He said that he grabbed the gun from her hand, stepped back, and cocked the hammer. When she got up from the couch he said he shot her in the face.

City police transferred James to the Ouachita parish jail.

Shreveport Man Killed In Crash

SHREVEPORT, La., (UP) — Charles Archie Preston, 74, Shreveport, became the city's second traffic fatality of 1957 today after a two-car collision near the city limits.

Preston died less than two hours after his car was struck broadside by a car driven by James Williams, 28, Negro.

Police said Williams, who was uninjured, will be held pending further investigation.

Preston was the city's first traffic death in 65 days.

Soviet Union Tests Another Nuclear Bomb

WASHINGTON, March 9 (UP) — The United States announced Saturday that Russia has exploded another nuclear test bomb but indicated it was not an H-bomb.

A brief statement by Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission said the explosion took place Friday.

The announcement was the 18th by the United States disclosing various Soviet nuclear explosions since September, 1949.

Many of the announcements, however, have referred to a series of explosions rather than individual shots. This means Russia has tested many more than 18 weapons.

40 EXPLOSIONS

Informed sources have told the United Press the total probably is in the neighborhood of 40.

This compares with at least 75 U. S. nuclear explosions. Great Britain has tested nine atomic weapons and soon will explode her first H-bomb in the Christmas Island area of the pacific 1,200 miles south of Hawaii.

Saturday's brief announcement said:

"The Soviet Union has conducted another nuclear test. The latest detonation occurred March 8, 1957, and was in the range and size of their recent explosions."

WEAKER THAN H-BOMB

The AEC previously had said that Soviet weapons exploded in the current test series stretching back to last summer have been below a megaton in power.

DENIES MURDER

Agent Admits Robbing N. Y. Duo In Mex.

ACAPULCO, Mexico, March 9 (UP) — A Mexican travel agent confessed Saturday that he robbed a pair of missing New York tourists, but denied murdering them and hiding the bodies.

The travel agent is Luis Fenton. Police said that he confessed that he and two tourist guides stole jewelry belonging to Mrs. Edith Hallock. She was a rich Brooklyn widow who has been missing with lawyer Joseph Michel for 18 days.

Fenton confessed as investigators tried to identify two bodies that washed ashore on a lonely beach 50 miles north of Acapulco as bodies of the missing Mrs. Hallock and Michel. She was 63 and Michel was 70.

The bodies appeared to be of a man and a woman, but they were so badly deteriorated experts were summoned to determine whether the remains were of Mrs. Hallock and Michel.

FOUND SEVERAL DAYS AGO

A farmer found the bodies several days ago at Arenal De Gomez and buried them in the sand. The news of his discovery eventually got to authorities in Acapulco.

Mexican FBI agents said Fenton implicated tourist guides Roberto Zuniga and Claudio (Shorty) Fernandez in the robbery. But neither Zuniga, Fernandez or Fenton would admit having anything to do with murder.

"Their story is still confused and they admit only robbing Michel and Mrs. Hallock," agents, who continued to question them at their headquarters, said.

Fenton's confession led to the recovery of some of Mrs. Hallock's jewelry hidden at a home at Pie De La Cuesta, a beach eight miles north of Acapulco.

To reach the bodies, police traveled by car and then had to walk the last two miles over sand dunes and rocks.

Gonzalez said he believed the finding of the bodies solved the disappearance of Michel, a New York attorney, and Mrs. Halleck, a wealthy Brooklyn widow. Mrs. Halleck's sister, Mrs. Walter Hoffman, came here from New York to aid police in their search but said from the outset she thought the two were dead.

50-50 Pay Program Refused By Egypt

CAIRO, March 9 (UP)—Egypt rejected Saturday a reported Western proposal for a 50-50 split in payment of Suez Canal shipping tolls. A government spokesman said the Egyptians would demand full payment of tolls once the canal is fully opened.

A statement by Egyptian Information Director Abdel-Kader Hattem implied strongly that Egypt would bar passage to all ships failing to pay the full tolls to the Cairo government.

(The statement, as heard in London over Cairo Radio, also hinted strongly that Israeli ships will be barred from the 101-mile waterway.)

The Egyptian statement, sharply attacking "proposals aimed at reviving the Suez Canal issue," came as a new crisis threatened over whether the United Nations or Egypt will control the Gaza Strip.

REFUGEES DEMONSTRATE

The UN announced that its trouble-shooting Assistant Secretary-General Ralph Bunche, was flying here Sunday to inspect the explosive Gaza Strip where UN troops have taken over from the Israelis. Thousands of Arab refugees there have staged demonstrations demanding that Gaza return to Egypt

Hattem announced Egypt's position on the Suez tolls just after the canal was opened to small shipping up to 500 tons. But UN salvage officials were still awaiting an Egyptian go-ahead to proceed with the removal of two sunken vessels that still blocked passage for larger freighters and tankers.

The Egyptian statement commented on a reported U. S., British and French plan for a 50-50 plan for running the Suez Canal until a final settlement is reached. Under the proposal half of the tolls would go to Egypt and half into an international bank escrow account to pay for salvage and r aintenance.

PAST NINE MONTHS

13th Marine DI Is Disciplined

PARRIS ISLAND, S.C., March 9 (UP) — The 13th Marine instructor to be disciplined at this troubled "boot camp" in nine months was sentenced Saturday to three months at hard labor and reduction to private for laying his hands on three recruits.

A five-member court martial board also ordered Cpl. William R. Walsh of Lyndhurst, N.J., to forfeit $40 pay a month for three months. Under the charges he could have received a maximum penalty of six months at hard labor and a bad conduct discharge without any pay.

'TOUCHED' RECRUIT

Walsh was found guilty of "touching" one recruit, striking another, and "tapping" and hitting a third, for a total of four counts. The six-foot-two, 25-year-old drill instructor was cleared on 20 other counts when the board turned in its verdict Friday.

The sentence was announced after two hours deliberation Saturday.

SPIRITED DEFENSE

Walsh had the most spirited defense of any of the instructors on trial since the case of Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon which set off the "house-cleaning" of boot training methods last July.

McKeon was convicted of negligence in the drowning of six recruits whom he led into a tidal creek on a night disciplinary march last April 8. At this trial three months later Emil Zola Berman, a volunteer civilian attorney, attempted to show that Sergeant McKeon had only been unlucky in carrying out the accepted stern training methods of the corps. The commandant of the entire corps was among the witnesses Berman put on the stand.

Fred Shields of Mount Vernon, Va., another well-known attorney, was retained by Walsh's family to defend the corporal. He accused a brigadier general of issuing prejudicial statements in the case and produced a series of witnesses seeking to discredit the statements of the main witness against Walsh, Pvt. David L. Porter, 18, of Hartford, Vt.

One defense witness, Sgt. Joseph Zembrowski, another drill instructor, said Porter was a "liar" whom he would not believe under oath.

Hawaiian Villages Hard Hit

By The Associated Press

Alaska and the Aleutian Islands were rocked by three earthquakes Saturday, sending destructive tidal waves into the Hawaiian Islands.

The tidal wave was indirectly responsible for the death of a woman reporter when a small plane crashed in Hawaii. Rescuers saved her two men companions.

SWEPT INTO SEA

Fourteen homes were reported swept into the sea from Kauai Island, and two small villages were destroyed by the first series waves. Coral boulders were piled along coastal highways of the islands.

The submarine Wahoo reported a "harrowing experience" when the waves struck it in Nawiliwili Harbor on Kauai Island, and washed two sailors overboard. They were rescued.

Waves from the first Aleutian quake to hit Hawaii were less than five feet high.

A second series of waves was expected.

Sarah Park, 29, reporter for the Honlulu Star-Bulletin and former war correspondent, was killed in the plane crash. Jack Matsumoto, photographer for the newspaper, and the pilot, Paul O. Beam, Honolulu advertising and former Associated Press reporter during World War II, were rescued.

BEGAN AT 6:07 A.M.

The Alaska quake began at 6:07 a.m. PST. It had a Richter magnitude of 8, compared with the 1906 San Francisco quake of 8.25. The biggest quake ever recorded was 8.6 on the Richter scale.

'56 Top Year For Expansion By Southern Bell Telephone

The Southern Bell Telephone Company had its greatest year of expansion in 1956, according to the company's annual report, which was received in Monroe today.

The report was released here by W. F. Whetstone, district manager of Southern Bell, which serves Monroe and 141 exchanges in Louisiana.

The annual report for the company was made by Fred J. Turner, chairman of the board, for the directors. Mr. Turner revealed that the company added 462,000 telephones in its nine-state area and was operating 5,358,000 telephones at year-end. The company connected 1,558,000 telephones, including 456,000 moved from one local address to another.

In Louisiana, 67,000 telephones were added, bringing the total to 776,000, nearly 450,000 more than in 1946. New exchanges were opened at Pointe A La Hache, St. Landry, Harrisonburg, Haughton and Keithville. Dial conversions or major additions occurred at New Orleans, Ruston, St. Joseph, Waterproof, Lake Charles, Greenwood and Mandeville. There are 9,909 company employes in the state.

Equipment permitting operator dialing of long distance calls was introduced in 33 additional cities. Almost 50 per cent of the long distance calls originating in Southern Bell exchanges are now being dialed directly by long distance operators.

During the year 40 central offices, with 150,000 telephones, were converted to dial operation, bringing 88.9 per cent of the company's telephones to dial operation.

Mr. Turner said in the report that the company spent over $1,000,000 each working day last year in constructing telephone facilities, or almost $312,000,000. The company's total investment in telephone facilities grew to more than $1.7 billion.

On an average day last year, about 767,000 long distance calls and 33,000,000 local calls were handled.

The number of employes increased to over 69,000 and the company, operating in 1,071 exchanges, paid southerners a total of $266,000,000 in wages — almost $32,000,000 more than in 1955.

The company paid almost $119,000,000 in taxes to federal, state and local governments. Its customers paid an additional $55,000,000 in excise taxes, bringing the total tax on telephone service to about $174,000,000. This is equal to about $2.84 per company telephone per month.

The Lenwil School will hold a summer round-up Tuesday, March 12 at the school from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. it was announced yesterday.

Parents are requested to have their child prepared to spend the day at the round-up. Birth certificate of the child must be available. The services of Dr. A. B. Gregory and Dr Doyle Hamilton have been secured for the round-up. Inoculations will begin at 1 p.m.

Mrs. C. L. Crowell and Mrs. F. G. Buchanan are co-chairmen of the summer round-up for this year.

Higgins Key Speaker At Meeting Here

Lawrence Higgins, executive secretary of the Louisiana Youth Commission, will be keynote speaker at the Louisiana Conference of Juvenile Correctional Workers, a dinner and executive board meeting, slated at the Rendevouz Restaurant on Wednesday, March 13 at 7 p.m.

Speaking on "Current Trends in Youth Correction," Higgins will discuss the directions now being taken in efforts to prevent juvenile crime, and to head youngsters on the right paths.

Judge Mack E. Barham of Bastrop will comment on "Positive Approaches to Youth Correction" as a featured speaker on the program.

Paul Gross, president of the La. Conference of Juvenile Correctional Workers, will preside at the meeting, which will be attended by many noted authorities in the field of juvenile and youth work.

According to Jack W. Windham, juvenile probation officer for Morehouse parish, and a member of the executive board, an open discussion period will be held, with those attending making comments on the ideas stressed in the two main speeches.

14th Air Force Sets Anniversary

ROBINS AIR FORCE BASE, Ga., March 9 (Special) — The famous Fourteenth "Flying Tiger" Air Force, commanded by Major General George G. Finch, will celebrate its fourteenth anniversary Sunday, March 10. It is the parent organization of the 9798th Air Reserve Squadron in Monroe.

The Fourteenth was activated at Kunming, China on March 10, 1943, almost within the sound of Japanese guns. On that occasion Major General Claire L. Chennault of Monroe, La. was sworn in as the first commander. General Chennault had commanded the American Volunteer Group, the "flying Tigers," for two years. It was this famed group which formed the nucleus of the Fourteenth Air Force.

Since that historic occasion, the Fourteenth has undergone several changes of mission. The Fourteenth now supervises and administers the training of the Air Force Reserve in twelve southern and southwestern states. Its headquarters is located at Robins Air Force Base, Ga.

Lt. Col. Thomas Kelley, commander of the Monroe squadron said, "We are proud to be a part of the Fourteenth Air Force. Our organization will strive to uphold the traditions which have earned the 'Flying Tiger' Air Force an honored place in America's history."

Anniversary Of Monroe AA's Is Being Observed

The eleventh birthday celebration of the Monroe group of Alcoholics Anonymous is being held this weekend, at the Alanon Club, 4300 South Grand street, and in the Crystal Ball Room of the Virginia Hotel.

Guest speakers from Shreveport Kilgore, Texas, Minden, La., Reidsville, N.C., and Gulfport, Miss. will highlight today's sessions.

A continuous meeting, with speakers at random, will be held at the clubhouse from 9:30 to 11:30 this morning. At the same time, the Alanon family group meeting will take place in the Alanon Clubrooms.

A luncheon is scheduled from 12 to 1 p.m., in the clubrooms.

At 2 p.m., an open meeting will start, in the Crystal Ball Room of the Virginia Hotel, and continue until 4 p.m.

Sessions began yesterday afternoon, with chairmen from Shreveport, Bastrop, and Philadelphia, Miss. in charge. At a semi-open meeting last night, two non-members, Dr. A. M. Serex, founder of the Monroe group, and Florence Crawford of Kilgore, Texas, addressed the group.

Board To Fight Federal 'Limit'

JACKSON, Miss., Mar. 9 (UP)— The president of the Miss., Economic Council today said the council's board of directors had agreed to oppose "any attempt by government to limit the amount of forest lands which can be owned by an individual, partnership, corporation or any other legal business entity."

Fred B. Smith of Ripley, Miss., said the policy was adopted following introduction in the Legislature of several proposals to limit ownership and place graduated taxes on the amount of land owned by a corporation.

The council said, "...history and common sense show that attempts...to restrict sie of ownership result in disrupting healthy economic change and...create artificial barriers to an area's progress."

Riverview Church Plans Revival

The Riverview Baptist Church in West Monroe, Rev. E. D. Smith, pastor, will initiate a week of revival services beginning with the Sunday morning service at 11 o'clock today. Through the week at 7:30 p.m., there will be services daily with Rev. Burl Carlon, from Calvary Baptist Church, Post Acres, Tex. as the evangelist.

The musical programs will be directed by Bobby Witt of the church staff.

The West Monroe radio station will at 8:30 a.m daily carry selections from this church Monday through Friday.

The church pastor states that a goal of attendance has been set which will be 200 in the Sunday school and 100 in the training union on Sunday, March 17, at the close of the revival.

Wilson Move On Missiles Starts Issue

WASHINGTON, March 9 (UP)— Congressional critics were reported Saturday to have raised the possibility that Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson's controversial decision on missiles could leave the nation without a robot weapon in the 200-to-1,000 mile range.

The Army, now barred by Wilson from developing guided Missiles with more than 200-mile range, was said to be encouraged by the congressional development and hopeful that it can retrieve some of the missile responsibility it lost to the Air Force in November.

On Nov. 26 Wilson issued an order limiting Army ballistic missile development to ranges under 200 miles and turning over to the Air Force responsibility for developing and operating so-called intermediate range ballistic missiles (IRBM) in the 1,500-mile category.

The Army fumed and one officer, Col. John C. Nickerson Jr., missile expert at Redstone Arsenal, Alabama, wrote a memorandum critical of Wilson's order. Nickerson is now under court martial charges alleging he leaked secret defense information in the memorandum.

Army officers are known to believe they can convert their 60-foot Redstone missile into a weapon that would go up to 500 miles instead of the 200 for which it is now designed. They also believe a new, lighter weight and more mobile weapon can be developed to meet the specifications suggested by congressmen.

Wilson ruled that tactical support of Army battle operations beyond 200 miles would continue to be an Air Force responsibility.

The Air Force, it was reported, will oppose any more to reopen the question on grounds the Army position was carefully considered before Wilson reached his decision.

Defense sources said Saturday that at the moment no move is seriously underway to alter Wilson order.

North Central, Western Areas Nation's Biggest Meat-Eaters

WASHINGTON, March 9 (UP)— An agriculture department survey shows that more meat is eaten per person in the North Central region and the west than in other parts of the United States. The northeast ranks next, the south lowest.

This was brought out in a house hold food consumption survey which covered only use of food at home.

The nation's eating habits were checked in 6,060 households representing all income classes in cities, rural non - farm and farm areas.

The report provides patterns of consumption and money values for more than 200 items. These included fruits and vegetables, meats, poultry, fish, dairy products, cereals and bakery products, fats and oils, sugar, and sweets. The information will be useful to many kinds of businesses and to agricultural groups in determining food demand by type.

Household food expenditures during the survey week in the northeast region averaged $30.75, the highest of any area. In the north central states the average was $28.21. In the west it was $29.57, and in the south, $21.45. For the United States as a whole it was $27.05.

Per person consumption of all meat in the north central states was 3.38 pounds. The west almost matched this with 3.37 pounds, northeast consumption was 3.07 pounds, while the south trailed with 2.58 pounds.

Western households on the average consumed a pound more of beef a week. Households in the south used more flour, fats, sugar, and soups and purchased smaller amounts of bakery products.

The northeast reported the smallest rate of use of flour per family among the four regions.

The survey showed farm families fare as well or better than non-farm families in all regions except the south. Southern farm residents are at the lowest point on the nation's meat-consumption scale. Because so much of the farm population is in the south, U. S. averages show less meat consumed per persons on farms than in towns and cities.

Gruenther Warns Against Losing Cold War To Reds

SAN FRACISCO, Mar. 9 (AP) — Alfred M. Gruenther says Americans must show more interest in foreign affairs or risk losing the cold war to the Russians.

The retired four-star general, former commander of NATO in Europe and now president of the American Red Cross, told a news conference yesterday Soviet Russia operates in "a faster league" than does the United States.

"I am not sure by our tradition or eduction we are able to handle this load—the propaganda battle for men's minds," Gruenther said.

"We are not exercising our full talents in the psychological aspects of the cold war because our basic concern, historically, has been in North America."

Higgins Key Speaker At Meeting Here

Lawrence Higgins, executive secretary of the Louisiana Youth Commission, will be keynote speaker at the Louisiana Conference of Juvenile Correctional Workers, a dinner and executive board meeting, slated at the Rendevouz Restaurant on Wednesday, March 13 at 7 p.m.

Speaking on "Current Trends in Youth Correction," Higgins will discuss the directions now being taken in efforts to prevent juvenile crime, and to head youngsters on the right paths.

Judge Mack E. Barham of Bastrop will comment on "Positive Approaches to Youth Correction" as a featured speaker on the program.

Paul Gross, president of the La. Conference of Juvenile Correctional Workers, will preside at the meeting, which will be attended by many noted authorities in the field of juvenile and youth work.

According to Jack W. Windham, juvenile probation officer for Morehouse parish, and a member of the executive board, an open discussion period will be held, with those attending making comments on the ideas stressed in the two main speeches.

14th Air Force Sets Anniversary

ROBINS AIR FORCE BASE, Ga., March 9 (Special) — The famous Fourteenth "Flying Tiger" Air Force, commanded by Major General George G. Finch, will celebrate its fourteenth anniversary Sunday, March 10. It is the parent organization of the 9798th Air Reserve Squadron in Monroe.

The Fourteenth was activated at Kunming, China on March 10, 1943, almost within the sound of Japanese guns. On that occasion Major General Claire L. Chennault of Monroe, La. was sworn in as the first commander. General Chennault had commanded the American Volunteer Group, the "flying Tigers," for two years It was this famed group which formed the nucleus of the Fourteenth Air Force.

Since that historic occasion, the Fourteenth has undergone several changes of mission. The Fourteenth now supervises and administers the training of the Air Force Reserve in twelve southern and southwestern states. Its headquarters is located at Robins Air Force Base, Ga.

Lt. Col. Thomas Kelley, commander of the Monroe squadron said, "We are proud to be a part of the Fourteenth Air Force. Our organization will strive to uphold the traditions which have earned the 'Flying Tiger' Air Force an honored place in America's history."

Anniversary Of Monroe AA's Is Being Observed

The eleventh birthday celebration of the Monroe group of Alcoholics Anonymous is being held this weekend, at the Alanon Club, 4300 South Grand street, and in the Crystal Ball Room of the Virginia Hotel.

Guest speakers from Shreveport Kilgore, Texas, Minden, La., Reidsville, N.C., and Gulfport, Miss. will highlight today's sessions.

A continuous meeting, with speakers at random, will be held at the clubhouse from 9:30 to 11:30 this morning. At the same time, the Alanon family group meeting will take place in the Alanon Clubrooms.

A luncheon is scheduled from 12 to 1 p.m., in the clubrooms.

At 2 p.m., an open meeting will start, in the Crystal Ball Room of the Virginia Hotel, and continue until 4 p.m.

Sessions began yesterday afternoon, with chairmen from Shreveport, Bastrop, and Philadelphia, Miss. in charge. At a semi-open meeting last night, two non-members, Dr. A. M. Serex, founder of the Monroe group, and Florence Crawford of Kilgore, Texas, addressed the group.

Board To Fight Federal 'Limit'

JACKSON, Miss., Mar. 9 (UP)—The president of the Miss., Economic Council today said the council's board of directors had agreed to oppose "any attempt by government to limit the amount of forest lands which can be owned by an individual, partnership, corporation or any other legal business entity."

Fred B. Smith of Ripley, Miss., said the policy was adopted following introduction in the Legislature of several proposals to limit ownership and place graduated taxes on the amount of land owned by a corporation.

The council said, "...history and common sense show that attempts...to restrict sie of ownership result in disrupting healthy economic change and...create artificial barriers to an area's progress."

Riverview Church Plans Revival

The Riverview Baptist Church in West Monroe, Rev. E. D. Smith, pastor, will initiate a week of revival services beginning with the Sunday morning service at 11 o'clock today. Through the week at 7:30 p.m., there will be services daily with Rev. Burl Carlon, from Calvary Baptist Church, Post Acres, Tex. as the evangelist.

The musical programs will be directed by Bobby Witt of the church staff.

The West Monroe radio station will at 8:30 a.m daily carry selections from this church Monday through Friday.

The church pastor states that a goal of attendance has been set which will be 200 in the Sunday school and 100 in the training union on Sunday, March 17, at the close of the revival.

Busy, Not Missing

CARBONDALE, Ill.— (UP) — An art student at Southern Illinois University who had been reported missing for two days turned out to be merely a diligent workman. He told officials he had several art projects to do and didn't want to leave the art department until he had finished.

Wilson Move On Missiles Starts Issue

WASHINGTON, March 9 (UP)—Congressional critics were reported Saturday to have raised the possibility that Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson's controversial decision on missiles could leave the nation without a robot weapon in the 200-to-1,000 mile range.

The Army, now barred by Wilson from developing guided Missiles with more than 200-mile range, was said to be encouraged by the congressional development and hopeful that it can retrieve some of the missile responsibility it lost to the Air Force in November.

On Nov. 26 Wilson issued an order limiting Army ballistic missile development to ranges under 200 miles and turning over to the Air Force responsibility for developing and operating so-called intermediate range ballistic missiles (IRBM) in the 1,500-mile category.

The Army fumed and one officer, Col. John C. Nickerson Jr., missile expert at Redstone Arsenal, Alabama, wrote a memorandum critical of Wilson's order. Nickerson is now under court martial charges alleging he leaked secret defense information in the memorandum.

Army officers are known to believe they can convert their 60-foot Redstone missile into a weapon that would go up to 500 miles instead of the 200 for which it is now designed. They also believe a new, lighter weight and more mobile weapon can be developed to meet the specifications suggested by congressmen.

Wilson ruled that tactical support of Army battle operations beyond 200 miles would continue to be an Air Force responsibility.

The Air Force, it was reported, will oppose any more to reopen the question on grounds the Army position was carefully considered before Wilson reached his decision.

Defense sources said Saturday that at the moment no move is seriously underway to alter Wilson order.

North Central, Western Areas Nation's Biggest Meat-Eaters

WASHINGTON, March 9 (UP)—An agriculture department survey shows that more meat is eaten per person in the North Central region and the west than in other parts of the United States. The northeast ranks next, the south lowest.

This was brought out in a household food consumption survey which covered only use of food at home.

The nation's eating habits were checked in 6,060 households representing all income classes in cities, rural non - farm and farm areas.

The report provides patterns of consumption and money values for more than 200 items. These included fruits and vegetables, meats, poultry, fish, dairy products, cereals and bakery products, fats and oils, sugar, and sweets. The information will be useful to many kinds of businesses and to agricultural groups in determining food demand by type.

Household food expenditures during the survey week in the northeast region averaged $30.75, the highest of any area. In the north central states the average was $28.21. In the west it was $29.57, and in the south, $21.45. For the United States as a whole it was $27.05.

Per person consumption of all meat in the north central states was 3.38 pounds. The west almost matched this with 3.37 pounds, northeast consumption was 3.07 pounds, while the south trailed with 2.58 pounds.

Western households on the average consumed a pound more of beef a week. Households in the south used more flour, fats, sugar, and soups and purchased smaller amounts of bakery products.

The northeast reported the smallest rate of use of flour per family among the four regions.

The survey showed farm families fare as well or better than non-farm families in all regions except the south. Southern farm residents are at the lowest point on the nation's meat-consumption scale. Because so much of the farm population is in the south, U. S. averages show less meat consumed per persons on farms than in towns and cities.

Gruenther Warns Against Losing Cold War To Reds

SAN FRACISCO, Mar. 9 (AP) — Alfred M. Gruenther says Americans must show more interest in foreign affairs or risk losing the cold war to the Russians.

The retired four-star general, former commander of NATO in Europe and now president of the American Red Cross, told a news conference yesterday Soviet Russia operates in "a faster league" than does the United States.

"I am not sure by our tradition or eduction we are able to handle this load—the propaganda battle for men's minds," Gruenther said.

"We are not exercising our full talents in the psychological aspects of the cold war because our basic concern, historically, has been in North America."

Little Theatre Curtain Call

By BETH BREECE

Told you Thursday we'd announce the cast for the current production, DANGEROUS CORNER today, and since Ivan has given us the go-ahead — well here goes! Del Moore will be on our stage again in the role of Maud Mockridge. You'll remember Del as the little maid, Varya, in ANASTASIA before Christmas and from her work on STALAG 17 last time. Olwen Peel is the role being portrayed by Kay Causey, who has been connected with our theatre in an active capacity ever since she's lived in Monroe. Most recently (last year, in fact) she was Lizzie in THE RAINMAKER.

Sandra Johnson will be seen once more at the Playhouse when this show opens. And that's happy news! Sandra and husband, Art have supported the Little Theatre actively for quite some time, too, making one of our first husband and wife teams as the servants in last season's THE LITTLE FOXES. Sandra will do the role of Freda in this play.

Robert (Freda's husband in DANGEROUS CORNER) is being portrayed by Bill Smith, whom you will remember as the character of Horney in STALAG. STALAG marked Bill's first time on our local stage — we're glad he's back.

Jeanine Renfrow — a newcomer to our Little Theatre is doing the role of Betty in this show. Welcome to the group! Jeanine, we know of your recent success in LADIES IN RETIREMENT at the College last year. We're looking forward to good things from your role on our stage this time.

Gordon will be played by another newcomer to our "boards": Bob Jones. Bob, as we're sure you know, is a local disc jockey. His voice is familiar to all of us — now Bob, in person, will be familiar to all theatre-goers.

And Stanton — the remaining member of the cast — well, Stanton has not materialized yet. He's the one for whom we ran the "Help Wanted" column on Thursday. We still need a Stanton, a man between the ages of 30 and fifty. Would you like to try your hand at acting? It's fun! You'll get a real kick out of it. If you're interested, please give Ivan a call.

RECENT VISITORS TO REHEARSALS: We've seen Laura Worsham, Joan Magruder Walter Speed, Barbara West, Mac Ward, Ron Weede as interested onlookers at our rehearsals this past week. Ray and Kay Magruder, Joanne Genung, and Clyde Culpepper have joined us for coffee after rehearsals.

DUE BACK IN TOWN this weekend is Bobbie Siragusa and her young son, Flip, after a visit with her family, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Fernandez of New Orleans.

And we'll see you next week!

Past And Present

By MARIE T. KENT

"Does Louisiana really have a history worth preserving?" This question has been asked in reference to the plea that is being made by members of the Ouachita Genealogical and Historical Society for help in collecting and preserving records and relics of historical value to our state. Every state has a history worth preserving, and every southern state except Florida and Louisiana has a state supported program for doing so. We still boast that Louisiana ranks among the top in having a most romantic and historical background.

How many other states have been ruled under ten flags? Louisiana has come a long way since Hernando DeSoto first planted the flag of Castile and Leon (which was also carried by Columbus) in 1541. But progress did not just happen and it did not happen overnight. Marquet, Jolict, and LaSalle found Louisiana the same trackless wilderness of marshy low - lands when they arrived in 1673.

In 1862 LaSalle claimed Louisiana for France and flew the Lily of the Kingdom of France. A part that was then believed to be a part of Florida was given to England by the Treaty of Paris. This section flew the Union Jack in 1763.

In 1769 O'Reilly raised the flag of Bourbon Spain. Napoleon took Louisiana back in 1803 under the French Tricolor and twenty days later sold it to the United States who flew the fifteen striped banner. There was some doubt that west Florida had been included in the purchase and this section flew the Lone Star in 1810.

In 1861 Louisiana seceded from the Union and flew her own national banner until it was replaced by the Stars and Bars of the Confederacy a few days afterwards. In 1865 the Old Glory took over.

The gentlemen of Spain and gay cavaliers of France blazed a trail through the swamps of a wasteland covered with hostile Indians, wild animals, disease, and man eating crocodiles to bring forth a civilized nation. The cassette dowrie girls joined them in pioneering adventures to become the mothers of a great state.

The Acadian exiles who found sanctuary here repaid with sturdy and loyal citizenship. So did the pioneers from the Virginias and Carolinas who came westward by keelboat along the rivers and in covered wagons and afoot along the Natchez trace.

Lafitte's pirates and smugglers and other buccaneer crews cast aside an empire to join Andrew Jackson in the great fight that was to make Louisiana a part of a great nation.

The beautiful highways of concrete ribbons and sweeping overpasses of today were once palmetto bordered, deep wagon rutted marsh trails.

Along with the vast wilderness and many wars Louisiana fought and conquered other plagues such as "Bronze John," (yellow fever), economic and political ills such as the tragedy of the dark reconstruction era that followed the war between the states and the yoke of the carpet baggers.

Doesn't this review of the "high lights" of our state history give a mental picture of romantic background? It is a fact that many of the main events of our history have been recorded in history books but most of the true history behind the main events has not been preserved. If it was worth the time and effort of our forefathers to make this history it is worth our time and effort to preserve the few remaining record, and relics that reflect their ways of life. The only place left to find the true facts is in private owned diaries, Bibles and letters. There are deteriorating more each day. The history of many of our landmarks that still exist has not been recorded. Many have gone forever along with their history and unless more is done about those left they too are soon to be lost and forgotten.

We do not propose to try to block the path of progress but we do propose to do our share towards collecting and preserving the records, relics and history of those people who gave their life blood to make possible the great progress being made today. The fact that the first plow was made in Louisiana, the first cotton grown in the south was cultivated in this area, and that we live in the center of the largest gas field, and many others have a history behind them; a history worth preserving.

We realize that since our records have been stored in attics, closets, barns and other unkept places and the fact that they were written in many languages we have a huge task before us. It is the duty of every citizen and descendant of these people to help in this project.

Louisiana needs an archival program and other projects for preserving the remaining records and relics not only as a tribute to our people but for the sake of posterity. We do not wish to give the impression that people of this area have not responded to our plea because many of you have done so graciously and generously. The members of the Ouachita Genealogical and Historical Society thank you for your help in our success of a good beginning towards a great project. We need the help of all of the people of this area. You may do a part today by making your donation to [illegible] cal museum collection. For information call your museum curator, Mrs. Travis Tynes, phone 2-6476.

Nautilus Being Refueled With New Substance

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP) — The navy said today it expects the submarine Nautilus, now being equipped with a new type of atomic fuel, to go much farther than the amazing 60,000 miles it attained with its first fuel loading.

The Nautilus, the world's first atomic-powered vessel, is now being refueled for the first time since it set sail on Jan. 17, 1955. The refueling is being done at the Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics Corp., Groton, Conn., where the Nautilus was built.

The Navy did not disclose the exact amount of uranium used by the Nautilus in traveling more than 60,000 miles. But it said a conventional diesel-powered submarine, operating the same distance, would have used about three million gallons, or 300 tank cars of oil weighing 22½ million pounds.

Electric Boat said that the fuel used in the Nautilus would represent a lump of uranium smaller than a light bulb.

Paper Company To Host 124 Tech Students

RUSTON, March 9 (Special) — One hundred and twenty - four engineering students, business students, forestry seniors and instructors from the college here will be guests of the International Paper Company in Springhill on Friday, March 15, for a "Louisiana Tech Day" at the paper mill.

The students and teachers will leave early Friday morning for Springhill, where they will be given a refreshment hour upon arrival. They will be welcomed in a speech by one of the company officials.

Following the welcome, the students will divide into groups and go on guided tours of various divisions of the plant in which they have a specific interest.

Students and professors will have lunch at the Springhill Country Club as guests of the paper company. The group will return to Ruston at about 4 p.m.

Coordinator of the special "Tech Day" at the paper mill is Margory Hedge of the company's Shreveport office.

Thirty - six engineering students — electrical and mechanical — will make the trip. Members of the engineering faculty planning to accompany them include David L. Johnson, R. M. Steer, R. S. Wynn, Albert McKee, all of the electrical engineering department, and Stewart Baggarly of the mechanical engineering department.

Burton R. Risinger, dean of the School of Business Administration, and four members of the business school faculty will accompany 74 business students on the trip. The faculty members are Dr. J. Leslie Bayless, marketing; W. S. Knight, accounting, and Dr. Wilbur T. Meek, management.

Lloyd P. Blackwell, forestry department head, and five members of the forestry faculty will accompany 14 forestry seniors on the trip. The faculty members are Edward R. Andrulot, O. L. Fitzgerald, John Kuprionis and Ernest J. Russell.

Banquet Slated For 1957 Red Cross Campaign

LAKE PROVIDENCE, March 9 (Special) — A "kick-off" banquet for workers in the 1957 Red Cross Fund Drive will be held Monday at 7:00 p.m. at the American Legion Home, according to Mark H. Brown, parish chairman of the East Carroll chapter.

Brown and George S. Lensing, chairman of the fund drive, have completed their roster of workers and state that they plan to make a concerted drive to raise the approximately $3,500 which is the parish quota, within the next ten days.

The workers already selected are — Mrs. E. H. Johnston, Mrs. J. B. Wilhite, Mrs. P. S. Thornton, Mrs. Kiley Thames, Jr., Mrs. Ted Ramsey, Golden Leigh Levy, J. S. Ghana Becomes Member Of UN

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., March 9 (AP)—Ghana became the 81st member of the United Nations today less than three days after it came into existence.

The new African nation was welcomed by unanimous vote of the General Assembly. Its action came a day after the 11-nation Security Council unanimously recommended Ghana for membership.

Ghana combines the former British Gold Coast colony and the U. N. trust territory of British Togoland. It became independent Wednesday.

Napoleon took Louisiana back in 1803 under the French Tricolor and twenty days later sold it to the United States who flew the fifteen striped banner. There was some doubt that west Florida had been included in the purchase and this section flew the Lone Star in 1810.

In 1861 Louisiana seceded from the Union and flew her own national banner until it was replaced by the Stars and Bars of the Confederacy a few days afterwards. In 1865 the Old Glory took over.

The gentlemen of Spain and gay cavaliers of France blazed a trail through the swamps of a wasteland covered with hostile Indians, wild animals, disease, and man eating crocodiles to bring forth a civilized nation. The cassette dowrie girls joined them in pioneering adventures to become the mothers of a great state.

The Acadian exiles who found sanctuary here repaid with sturdy and loyal citizenship. So did the pioneers from the Virginias and Carolinas who came westward by keelboat along the rivers and in covered wagons and afoot along the Natchez trace.

Lafitte's pirates and smugglers and other buccaneer crews cast aside an empire to join Andrew Jackson in the great fight that was to make Louisiana a part of a great nation.

The beautiful highways of concrete ribbons and sweeping overpasses of today were once palmetto bordered, deep wagon rutted marsh trails.

Along with the vast wilderness and many wars Louisiana fought and conquered other plagues such as "Bronze John," (yellow fever), economic and political ills such as the tragedy of the dark reconstruction era that followed the war between the states and the yoke of the carpet baggers.

Doesn't this review of the "high lights" of our state history give a mental picture of romantic background? It is a fact that many of the main events of our history have been recorded in history books but most of the true history behind the main events has not been preserved. If it was worth the time and effort of our forefathers to make this history it is worth our time and effort to preserve the few remaining records and relics that reflect their ways of life. The only place left to find the true facts is in private owned diaries, Bibles and letters. There are deteriorating more each day. The history of many of our landmarks that still exist has not been recorded. Many have gone forever along with their history and unless more is done about those left they too are soon to be lost and forgotten.

We do not propose to try to block the path of progress but we do propose to do our share towards collecting and preserving the records, relics and history of those people who gave their life blood to make possible the great progress being made today. The fact that the first plow was made in Louisiana, the first cotton grown in the south was cultivated in this area, and that we live in the center of the largest gas field, and many others have a history behind them; a history worth preserving.

We realize that since our records have been stored in attics, closets, barns and other unkept places and the fact that they were written in many languages we have a huge task before us. It is the duty of every citizen and descendant of these people to help in this project.

Louisiana needs an archival program and other projects for preserving the remaining records and relics not only as a tribute to our people but for the sake of posterity. We do not wish to give the impression that people of this area have not responded to our plea because many of you have done so graciously and generously. The members of the Ouachita Genealogical and Historical Society thank you for your help in our success of a good beginning towards a great project. We need the help of all of the people of this area. You may do a part today by making your donation to your local museum collection. For information call your museum curator, Mrs. Travis Tynes, phone 2-6476.

APPOINTED — The Southern Regional Chairman of the U. S. O., Chas. R. Yates, of Atlanta, Ga., announced the appointment of C. A. Von Hoene of New Orleans, as the U. S. O. Campaign Chairman of Louisiana. Von Hoene, who is Louisiana Commercial Manager for Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Company, is a past president of the Louisiana Safety Association. Last year he served as chairman of the Crusade for Freedom.

Nautilus Being Refueled With New Substance

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP) — The navy said today it expects the submarine Nautilus, now being equipped with a new type of atomic fuel, to go much farther than the amazing 60,000 miles it attained with its first fuel loading.

The Nautilus, the world's first atomic-powered vessel, is now being refueled for the first time since it set sail on Jan. 17, 1955. The refueling is being done at the Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics Corp., Groton, Conn., where the Nautilus was built.

The Navy did not disclose the exact amount of uranium used by the Nautilus in traveling more than 60,000 miles. But it said a conventional diesel-powered submarine, operating the same distance, would have used about three million gallons, or 300 tank cars of oil weighing 22½ million pounds.

Electric Boat said that the fuel used in the Nautilus would represent a lump of uranium smaller than a light bulb.

Paper Company To Host 124 Tech Students

RUSTON, March 9 (Special) — One hundred and twenty - four engineering students, business students, forestry seniors and instructors from the college here will be guests of the International Paper Company in Springhill on Friday, March 15, for a "Louisiana Tech Day" at the paper mill.

The students and teachers will leave early Friday morning for Springhill, where they will be given a refreshment hour upon arrival. They will be welcomed in a speech by one of the company officials.

Following the welcome, the students will divide into groups and go on guided tours of various divisions of the plant in which they have a specific interest.

Students and professors will have lunch at the Springhill Country Club as guests of the paper company. The group will return to Ruston at about 4 p.m.

Coordinator of the special "Tech Day" at the paper mill is Margory Hedge of the company's Shreveport office.

Thirty - six engineering students — electrical and mechanical — will make the trip. Members of the engineering faculty planning to accompany them include David L. Johnson, R. M. Steer, R. S. Wynn, Albert McKee, all of the electrical engineering department, and Stewart Baggarly of the mechanical engineering department.

Burton R. Risinger, dean of the School of Business Administration, and four members of the business school faculty will accompany 74 business students on the trip. The faculty members are Dr. J. Leslie Bayless, marketing; W. S. Knight, accounting, and Dr. Wilbur T. Meek, management.

Lloyd P. Blackwell, forestry department head, and five members of the forestry faculty will accompany 14 forestry seniors on the trip. The faculty members are Edward R. Andrulot, O. L. Fitzgerald, John Kuprionis and Ernest J. Russell.

Banquet Slated For 1957 Red Cross Campaign

LAKE PROVIDENCE, March 9 (Special) — A "kick-off" banquet for workers in the 1957 Red Cross Fund Drive will be held Monday at 7:00 p.m. at the American Legion Home, according to Mark H. Brown, parish chairman of the East Carroll chapter.

Brown and George S. Lensing, chairman of the fund drive, have completed their roster of workers and state that they plan to make a concerted drive to raise the approximately $3,500 which is the parish quota, within the next ten days.

The workers already selected are — Mrs. E. H. Johnston, Mrs. J. B. Wilhite, Mrs. P. S. Thornton, Mrs. Kiley Thames, Jr., Mrs. Ted Ramsey, Golden Leigh Levy, J. S. Ghana Becomes Member Of UN

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., March 9 (AP)—Ghana became the 81st member of the United Nations today less than three days after it came into existence.

The new African nation was welcomed by unanimous vote of the General Assembly. Its action came a day after the 11-nation Security Council unanimously recommended Ghana for membership.

Ghana combines the former British Gold Coast colony and the U. N. trust territory of British Togoland. It became independent Wednesday.

2 Judges And Editor To Be In N. O. Meet

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 9 (AP)—Two federal district judges and an Alabama newspaper editor who have been intimately involved in racial segregation news are scheduled to take part in a May 30 panel at New Orleans.

U. S. District Judges Frank M Johnson Jr., Montgomery, and H. Hobart Grooms, Birmingham, with Grover C. Hall, editor-in-chief of the Montgomery Advertiser, are to take part in the program before the May 30-31 U. S. Fifth Circuit Judicial Conference.

The panelists are to discuss the first amendment to the federal constitution and administration of justice from the viewpoint of the press, criminal and civil procedure.

U. S. District Judge Seybourn Lynn of Birmingham, senior federal district judge in Alabama, will direct the panel.

Hall launched an editorial campaign in the Advertiser attempting to show that newspapers in other sections of the nation frequently "spotlight" racial news in the South while "passing up similar incidents in their own backyards."

He started his campaign after Montgomery was flooded by newspapermen from the North and East, as well as a number of foreign countries, assigned to cover the Montgomery bus boycott.

Lynne and Johnson were members of a three-judge panel which held city and state bus segregation laws unconstitutional in a suit which grew out of the long Montgomery Negro bus boycott.

Grooms heard suits growing out of an effort by two Negro women to enroll at the all-white University of Alabama. One of them, Mrs. Autherine Lucy Foster, was ordered admitted, but later was expelled for her unproven charges against university officials.

She contended that university officials were part of a conspiracy which resulted in mob violence after she showed up to attend classes.

Federal district and circuit judges from Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, Texas, Georgia and Louisiana will attend the judicial conference along with lawyers who practice in the six southern states.

LOUISIANA

Judge Won't Order Key Figure 'Out'

NEW ORLEANS, March 9 (AP)—U.S. District Judge Herbert Christenberry today refused to order political figure James E. Comiskey removed to North Carolina to face federal liquor law charges.

Judge Christenberry heard witnesses testify that Comiskey, a New Orleans liquor wholesaler, was of good character, then said the indictment of Comiskey and two other local men was mixed with an indictment of "moonshiners with bad reputations from North Carolina."

He said the indictment was "fantastic," but that denying removal "will not thwart the government's case. These indictments can be tried in this district."

Named in the indictment were Comiskey, James Mahan, his office manager, and Dominick Sansone of adjacent Jefferson Parish. They were indicted last March 20 at Statesville, N.C., with a group of North Carolina residents in connection with an alleged bootlegging ring.

Judge Christenberry asked government attorney E. E. Talbot Jr., "Mr. Talbot, do you really believe these men can get a fair trial in North Carolina?" Sansone has no more business in that indictment than you or I have, on the basis of information."

He said if the district attorney in North Carolina "is conscientious, then he will dismiss the indictments against these three men."

Elvis Haircuts Must Get Trim

COLUMBIA, Tenn., Mar. 9 (UP)—Any national guardsmen here with "Elvis Presley" haircuts have until March 18 to get a "regulation" hair cut or be fined.

A circular given the men of headquarters and service company, 173rd tank battalion, said Presley haircuts present "an unmanly appearance and detract from the accepted appearance expected of soldiers."

Capt. Joe Matthews said the fine after March 18 would be a day's pay for each appearance at a guard meeting with a "Presley" trim.

IN MISS.

Would 'Dry Up' County If Folks Showed Interest

BOONEVILLE, Miss., March 9 (AP)—Prentiss County Sheriff George Rutherford, against whom re-call action has been planned on the grounds bootleggers are uncontrolled, said today he would dry up the county if the "people show me they want no whisky or beer."

Rutherford, labeled "weak and timid" by Gov. J. P. Coleman, said in a statement he would continue to do his best to enforce law and order.

"Maybe I am weak and timid," Rutherford said, "but if so, it is due to a power-crazed dictator sitting in Jackson trying to run everybody's business from justice of the peace up."

He obviously referred to Coleman, who also has said he would "watch with a great deal of interest to see what the sheriff will do" about vandalism and bootlegging.

Last January, Coleman ordered National Guard raids in Prentiss County on the request of citizens. The Guard smashed whiskey and beer and arrested eight persons. No indictments were returned by the grand jury.

A citizens committee, headed by attorney J. A. Cunningham Sr., has begun proceedings to recall the sheriff and elect another under a 1956 re-call law sponsored by Coleman.

The group has called a county-wide meeting for tomorrow to obtain signatures on the re-call petition.

The committee said the vandalism was an outgrowth of the raids on bootleggers. I hold the drinking citizens responsible for the situation. I want to say that if the people of Prentiss County show me they want no whisky or beer, I can make the county as dry as the Sahara Desert and I will with their co-operation.

Doctor Labels Two Negro Ex-Reds Liars

BATON ROUGE, March 9 (AP)—Dr. Rufus E. Clement, president of Atlanta University, today termed two Negro ex-Communists liars after they were witnesses in a legislative probe of racial unrest.

The Negro educator used the label in referring to Negro ex-Communists Manning Johnson and Leonard Patterson, both from New York.

The two were communist leaders in the 1930's who later turned against the party.

The Joint Legislative Committee on Segregation concluded public hearings in the state capitol today.

Johnson and patterson had testified about what they described as communist penetration of the South through Negro churches and Negro fronts.

Dr. Clement was a Founders Day speaker at Southern University, state college for Negroes, after a week-long tribute to Dr. J. S. Clark and others who helped found the school.

Johnson yesterday told the legislators the Southern Regional Council was formed by a Red named James E. Jackson. Clement said he was one of the four founders of the council and the name of Jackson never had been linked with it.

In his address, Dr. Clement warned, "unless we in the United States can finally make good in our practice of democracy as much as we make good in the preaching of it, we are doomed to have the greatest war the world has ever had—World War III."

That war will come, he said, unless the races in America are reconciled in harmony to the conviction of the rest of the world.

He said, however, job opportunities for Negroes were improving and leading industrialists tell him they want to hire men of ability, "regardless of race or creed."

Hill Disputes Texan's Claim On 1st Elephant

HOLLYWOOD, March 9 (UP)—Archery expert Howard Hill today disputed a Texan's claim that he was the first person to kill an elephant with a bow-and-arrow.

Hill referred to recent reports that William Negley, of San Antonio, killed two Arican elephants as the result of a $10,000 bet.

"Of course, a Texan would make the claim," Hill said. "He was reported to have scored a first with elephants, but I dropped not only two but three during a movie safari to Africa in 1950."

Hill, a native of Alabama, has set out on many expeditions in recent years from his San Fernando Valley home. He said the proof of his claim is in the movie "Tembo," which was made in Africa and shows him killing all sorts of animals with a bow-and-arrow.

Hill whose target shooting friends say would have put Robin Hood to shame, also expressed surprise that Negley bagged two of the huge animals on the dark continent. He said pictures that he has seen of the Texan's equipment were "surprising."

"I'd bet Negley $10,000 myself tht he couldn't get the job done with that equipment," Hill said. "It just didn't look right to me."

Alaska's mineral-rich soil has yielded more than one billion dollars worth of gold, copper, silver, coal, lead, tin, platinum, and mercury, the National Geographic Society says.

Hattinger Held After Gun Fray

James C. Hattinger, of Monroe, was arrested in a Jackson street business house shortly before noon Saturday on charges of carrying a concealed weapon and being drunk and disorderly.

Monroe city police were notified by an unidentified caller that Hattinger was "going to harm his wife" who was with him at the time of his arrest.

Officers arrested Hattinger who had a fully loaded 25 automatic in his coat pocket

Arkansas U. President To Speak Here

JOHN TYLER CALDWELL

"The Needs of Families in Our Changing Times" will be the topic of the keynote address by Dr. John Tyler Caldwell, president of the University of Arkansas at Fayetteville, for the 42nd Annual Meeting of the Louisiana Conference of Social Welfare, to be held Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week at the Virginia Hotel.

The meeting, which is open to the public, will use "Louisiana - Its Services to Families" as the general subject, according to H. R. Golson, West Monroe conference member.

Mrs. Jean Benson, Director of the Division of Family and Child Welfare of the New Orleans Council of Social Agencies, will preside at her second year as conference president.

Four speakers from New Orleans will be featured on the program, according to Mrs. Joyce Miller, program chairman. Dr. Waldo Treuting, professor of Public Health Administration at Tulane University Medical School, will preside at the session on "Mentl Health Services to Families," and will discuss some of the broad health problems and needs of the state.

Dr. Loyd Rowland, Professor Walter Kindelsperger, and the Rev. Fred Digby, all of New Orleans, will speak on various aspects of social work and family welfare in the state.

UMC Maintains Full Production Despite Strike

BOSSIER CITY, La., March 9 (UP)—The Universal Manufacturing Co., Inc., today was maintaining full production by using an entire staff of non-union workers.

On Feb. 27, 180 steel workers walked off their jobs, but plant officials said a number of workers have returned.

Negotiations between the company and United Steel Workers local 5069 were called off Thursday when a New Orleans union official said settlement talks had not been authorized.

Plant officials said they have been turning away 25 to 40 job applicants daily.

Shock Victim's Condition Better

WINNSBORO, March 9 (Special)—Marcus Emfinger, 38, of Winnsboro, who was seriously burned on Friday afternoon when he came in contact with 8,000 volts of electricity, is "doing better," and able to have visitors, according to officials at Rogers Clinic.

Emfinger, an employee of the La. Power and Light Co., was installing a new transformer adjacent to the home of Willie Ezell, two and one-half miles north of Wisner, when a wrench he was using slipped down across the 8,000 volt line.

His safety belt prevented him falling to the ground as he went limp after contact with the electricity, which badly burned his right hand and shoulder.

Willie Gipson, Emfinger's Negro helper, had to radio for help, since no equipment was on hand to enable him to climb the pole and bring the injured man down.

Grooms heard suits growing out of an effort by two Negro women to enroll at the all-white University of Alabama. One of them, Mrs. Autherine Lucy Foster, was ordered admitted, but later was expelled for her unproven charges against university officials.

She contended that university officials were part of a conspiracy which resulted in mob violence after she showed up to attend classes.

Federal district and circuit judges from Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, Texas, Georgia and Louisiana will attend the judicial conference along with lawyers who practice in the six southern states.

LOUISIANA

Judge Won't Order Key Figure 'Out'

NEW ORLEANS, March 9 (AP) — U.S. District Judge Herbert Christenberry today refused to order political figure James E. Comiskey removed to North Carolina to face federal liquor law charges.

Judge Christenberry heard witnesses testify that Comiskey, a New Orleans liquor wholesaler, was of good character, then said the indictment of Comiskey and two other local men was mixed with an indictment of "moonshiners with bad reputations from North Carolina."

He said the indictment was "fantastic," but that denying removal "will not thwart the government's case. These indictments can be tried in this district."

Named in the indictment were Comiskey, James Mahan, his office manager, and Dominick Sansone of adjacent Jefferson Parish. They were indicted last March 20 at Statesville, N.C., with a group of North Carolina residents in connection with an alleged bootlegging ring.

Judge Christenberry asked government attorney E. E. Talbot Jr., "Mr. Talbot, do you really believe these men can get a fair trial in North Carolina? Sansone has no more business in that indictment than you or I have, on the basis of information."

He said if the district attorney in North Carolina "is conscientious, then he will dismiss the indictments against these three men."

Elvis Haircuts Must Get Trim

COLUMBIA, Tenn., Mar. 9 (UP) —Any national guardsmen here with "Elvis Presley" haircuts have until March 18 to get a "regulation" hair cut or be fined.

A circular given the men of headquarters and service company, 173rd tank battalion, said Presley haircuts present "an unmanly appearance and detract from the accepted appearance expected of soldiers."

Capt. Joe Matthews said the fine after March 18 would be a day's pay for each appearance at a guard meeting with a "Presley" trim.

IN MISS.

Would 'Dry Up' County If Folks Showed Interest

BOONEVILLE, Miss., March 9 (AP)—Prentiss County Sheriff George Rutherford, against whom re-call action has been planned on the grounds bootleggers are uncontrolled, said today he would dry up the county if the "people show me they want no whisky or beer."

Rutherford, labeled "weak and timid" by Gov. J. P. Coleman, said in a statement he would continue to do his best to enforce law and order.

"Maybe I am weak and timid," Rutherford said, "but if so, it is due to a power-crazed dictator sitting in Jackson trying to run everybody's business from justice of the peace up."

He obviously referred to Coleman, who also has said he would "watch with a great deal of interest to see what the sheriff will do" about vandalism and bootlegging.

Last January, Coleman ordered National Guard raids in Prentiss County on the request of citizens. The Guard smashed whiskey and beer and arrested eight persons. No indictments were returned by the grand jury.

A citizens committee, headed by attorney J. A. Cunningham Sr., has begun proceedings to recall the sheriff and elect another under a 1956 re-call law sponsored by Coleman.

The group has called a county-wide meeting for tomorrow to obtain signatures on the re-call petition.

The committee said the vandalism was an outgrowth of the raids on bootleggers. I hold the drinking citizens responsible for the situation. I want to say that if the people of Prentiss County show me they want no whisky or beer, I can make the county as dry as the Sahara Desert and I will with their co-operation.

Hattinger Held After Gun Fray

James C. Hattinger, of Monroe, was arrested in a Jackson street business house shortly before noon Saturday on charges of carrying a concealed weapon and being drunk and disorderly.

Monroe city police were notified by an unidentified caller that Hattinger was "going to harm his wife" who was with him at the time of his arrest.

Officers arrested Hattinger who had a fully loaded 25 automatic in his coat pocket

Doctor Labels Two Negro Ex-Reds Liars

BATON ROUGE, March 9 (AP)—Dr. Rufus E. Clement, president of Atlanta University, today termed two Negro ex-Communists liars after they were witnesses in a legislative probe of racial unrest.

The Negro educator used the label in referring to Negro ex-Communists Manning Johnson and Leonard Patterson, both from New York.

The two were communist leaders in the 1930's who later turned against the party.

The Joint Legislative Committee on Segregation concluded public hearings in the state capitol today.

Johnson and patterson had testified about what they described as communist penetration of the South through Negro churches and Negro fronts.

Dr. Clement was a Founders Day speaker at Southern University, state college for Negroes, after a week-long tribute to Dr. J. S. Clark and others who helped found the school.

Johnson yesterday told the legislators the Southern Regional Council was formed by a Red named James E. Jackson. Clement said he was one of the four founders of the council and the name of Jackson never had been linked with it.

In his address, Dr. Clement warned, "unless we in the United States can finally make good in our practice of democracy as much as we make good in the preaching of it, we are doomed to have the greatest war the world has ever had—World War III."

That war will come, he said, unless the races in America are reconciled in harmony to the conviction of the rest of the world.

He said, however, job opportunities for Negroes were improving and leading industrialists tell him they want to hire men of ability, "regardless of race or creed."

Hill Disputes Texan's Claim On 1st Elephant

HOLLYWOOD, March 9 (UP) — Archery expert Howard Hill today disputed a Texan's claim that he was the first person to kill an elephant with a bow-and-arrow.

Hill referred to recent reports that William Negley, of San Antonio, killed two Arican elephants as the result of a $10,000 bet.

"Of course, a Texan would make the claim," Hill said. "He was reported to have scored a first with elephants, but I dropped not only two but three during a movie safari to Africa in 1950."

Hill, a native of Alabama, has set out on many expeditions in recent years from his San Fernando Valley home. He said the proof of his claim is in the movie "Tembo," which was made in Africa and shows him killing all sorts of animals with a bow-and-arrow.

Hill whose target shooting friends say would have put Robin Hood to shame, also expressed surprise that Negley bagged two of the huge animals on the dark continent. He said pictures that he has seen of the Texan's equipment were "surprising."

"I'd bet Negley $10,000 myself tht he couldn't get the job done with that equipment," Hill said. "It just didn't look right to me."

Arkansas U. President To Speak Here

"The Needs of Families in Our Changing Times" will be the topic of the keynote address by Dr. John Tyler Caldwell, president of the University of Arkansas at Fayetteville, for the 42nd Annual Meeting of the Louisiana Conference of Social Welfare, to be held Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week at the Virginia Hotel.

The meeting, which is open to the public, will use "Louisiana - Its Services to Families" as the general subject, according to H. R. Golson, West Monroe conference member.

Mrs. Jean Benson, Director of the Division of Family and Child Welfare of the New Orleans Council of Social Agencies, will preside at her second year as conference president.

Four speakers from New Orleans will be featured on the program, according to Mrs. Joyce Miller, program chairman. Dr. Waldo Treuting, professor of Public Health Administration at Tulane University Medical School, will preside at the session on "Mentl Health Services to Families," and will discuss some of the broad health problems and needs of the state.

Dr. Loyd Rowland, Professor Walter Kindelsperger, and the Rev. Fred Digby, all of New Orleans, will speak on various aspects of social work and family welfare in the state.

UMC Maintains Full Production Despite Strike

BOSSIER CITY, La., March 9 (UP)—The Universal Manufacturing Co., Inc., today was maintaining full production by using an entire staff of non-union workers.

On Feb. 27, 180 steel workers walked off their jobs, but plant officials said a number of workers have returned.

Negotiations between the company and United Steel Workers local 5069 were called off Thursday when a New Orleans union official said settlement talks had not been authorized.

Plant officials said they have been turning away 25 to 40 job applicants daily.

Shock Victim's Condition Better

WINNSBORO, March 9 (Special)— Marcus Emfinger, 38, of Winnsboro, who was seriously burned on Friday afternoon when he came in contact with 8,000 volts of electricity, is "doing better," and able to have visitors, according to officials at Rogers Clinic.

Emfinger, an employee of the La. Power and Light Co., was installing a new transformer adjacent to the home of Willie Ezell, two and one-half miles north of Wisner, when a wrench he was using slipped down across the 8,000 volt line.

His safety belt prevented him falling to the ground as he went limp after contact with the electricity, which badly burned his right hand and shoulder.

Willie Gipson, Emfinger's Negro helper, had to radio for help, since no equipment was on hand to enable him to climb the pole and bring the injured man down.

WORD OF WARNING TO BEACH LOVERS—A mounted policeman gestures as he orders a group of teen-age beach lovers to abandon a beach bonfire (foreground) and move to higher ground after a warning was issued that a tidal wave was expected to hit this area as the aftermath of a strong Aleutian earthquake. In background (left) are hundreds of automobiles which crowded San Francisco's "playland at the beach" after the tidal wave "warning" had been broadcast. No perceptable rise in water was recorded at this beach. (AP Wirephoto) nities near the Aleutians quake they wouldn't be left today," said an official of the Victoria, B. C., Observatory.

"That's putting it conservatively," commented Dr. Don Tocher, seismologist at University of California at Berkeley.

Dr. Tocher said a third quake began recording at 12:46:19 p.m. PST Saturday and had a Richter reading of 7.

He said it probably was another submarine quake in the Aleutians.

BRUNT OF WAVES

Hawaii, 2,400 miles from the center of the first big quake, took the brunt of the tidal waves. They swept on the shores of Midway harmlessly at 3½ foot height.

Kodiak Navy district headquarters reported only minor damage from the wave at Adak, nearest the quake's epicenter, and no damage at Dutch Harbor or Kodiak. Dutch Harbor, Alaska, had an unstable tide rise of one foot in five minutes, then it receded quickly two feet.

The waves at Oahu were about 4½ feet high. In 1946 a tidal wave of 10½ feet high hit Hawaii, claiming 200 lives.

Fears were experienced Saturday's tital wave would hit the California coast. Beaches were cleared. Thousands flocked to the shoreline to see the waves come in. But nothing happened.

Dr. Tocher said Saturday's biggest quake was probably deep on the ocean floor west of Adak. It was recorded on the Berkeley seismograph for more than six hours.

Demand For Salk Polio Vaccine Up

WASHINGTON, March 9 (UP)— A government spokesman said Saturday the demand for Salk polio vaccine has picked up sharply since January but there is no shortage.

The spokesman said a backlog of 26 million cubic centimeters of the vaccine that piled up in production plants during the fall and winter has now moved out to wholesalers, druggists and doctors.

Although this means producers' supplies are low it does not mean there is a current shortage. The vaccine has merely moved into the distribution system for eventual injections

In Detroit, Parke Davis & Co., one of the nation's largest suppliers of Salk vaccine, said its supplies are exhausted and no more will be available for about a month.

A spokesman for the firm said many state and local public health agencies have been paging drug supply houses during the last few days, asking for vaccine, but none has been available.

The principal suppliers are Eli Lilly and Co., Indianapolis; Pitman-Moore, Indianapolis; Sharpe Dohme, Philadelphia, and Wyeth, near Philadelphia.

Lilly said it would have no vaccine for a month. A spokesman said it takes several months to manufacture and test a batch of vaccine.

The Health, Education and Welfare Department had no current figures on how many additional persons have received shots from the 26 million cc backlog.

But it said the sudden movement of the backlog from production plants indicates more people want the shots with the approach of another polio season.

The disease year begins April 1 but cases do not begin mounting until May and the peak is not reached until August. The disease hits heaviest first in the South and then moves north.

ers and timbermen assembled Friday afternoon, closing with a big barbecue at night, attended by approximately 400.

Printers and Stationers bound together in an association of statewide scope, opened here Friday a three - day session with Hotel Frances headquarters. Six or seven states were represented by delegates. Their big banquet was Friday night at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club and another banquet and dance was held Saturday night.

High school of the fifth district, by no means left out, sent to Monroe an estimated 200 students from 15 such institutions for a speech tournament. A banquet was held Friday night at Hotel Virginia.

Women bowlers, state - wide, comprising 113 teams, came here for a two - day tournament, Saturday and Sunday.

The most scholarly of all the week - end affairs held here, this one of scientific scope was that of Tulane lecture panels open to the public today at Hotel Frances. Many from out of town are expected and in various cases they were Tulane graduates, and others.

The conference opens today at noon and luncheon on the roof of Hotel Frances will be held. Following the luncheon, panel sessions will be held through the afternoon. A reception at 5:30 p.m. will be the closing event.

At 8 p. m. last night KLSE-TV went on the air here, as the state of Louisiana's first educational TV. It was purchased by the state a year ago from "Red" Willett. It cost the state at that time $159,750.

Lack of funds have caused it to be closed down. More than a year ago, before acquired by the state, it was a commercial TV on channel 43 but was later switched to channel 13.

School administrators of the Monroe area will serve as advisers. Monroe is highly pleased that it is to be favored with such a means of education for all who so desire. It will probably be followed by other non - commercial stations in this and other states.

The bus traveling public now is able to be seated as they await the next bus for cars to take them here and there. The city of Monroe derives revenue from the "ads" that are painted on the back of the large wooden seats at various stopping places. Buses, too, have large broadside signs on their exteriors that advertise auto sales, loans of money made available, and other business signs. The city is deriving revenue from this source.

2 Juveniles Held In Bank Break-In Try

BERNICE, March 9 (Special)—An unsuccessful attempt was made here this morning by two Negro juveniles to burglarize the bank of Bernice.

Sheriff Jurd G. Stewart said that the two juveniles had been arrested and charged with burglary. One of the youths is 16 and the other 17.

The Union parish sheriff said that Bernice night marshal, Earl Jinks noticed that a screen was off of a back window of the bank. Jinks caught one of the Negroes as he was attempting to leave the bank and the other was arrested at the home of a relative, Stewart said.

The two Negroes attempted to implicate three soldiers stationed near Bernice on maneuvers in the burglary, Sheriff Stewart said. Stewart reported that after investigating the matter he did not think the soldiers were involved.

Stationers, Printers To Elect Today

Election of new officers of the Printers and Stationers Association of Louisiana will take place this morning as the ninth annual convention draws to a close.

The last session of the three-day program will be held in the Hotel Frances, with Armand V. Breard, out-going president, presiding.

Committee reports and the invitation for next year's convention will be featured parts of the program, being attended by more than 120 delegates from all over the pelican state.

During the afternoon session yesterday, Donald Kenyon, technical representative for Eastman Kodak Company of Rochester, N.Y., discussed the means by which new products and processes can aid the commercial printer and lithographer.

Cortland Hoor of Chicago spoke on form designs for office stationary, and a color film, "The World Behind a Watermark" was shown by R. W. Flicker, of Port Edwards, Michigan.

Monroe printers and stationers were hosts to a cocktail party for the delegates at 6:30 last night, and this was followed by a banquet, at which Father Dennis A. Curren, Ass't. Pastor of Our Curren, Ass't. Pastor of Our Lady of Fatima Church in Monroe, was

Unidentified Man Dies In Railroad Car

ELDORADO Ark., March 9 (AP)—A Rock Island Railroad employe today found the body of an elderly, shabbily dressed man in a railroad car here.

Dr. J. H. Pinson, Union County coroner, said the man apparently had been killed accidentally while the car was en route from Alexandria, La., to El Dorado last night. He said that there was no clue to the man's identity.

Dr. Pinson said a preliminary investigation indicated the man suffocated when a 900-pound door in the gondola-type car fell and struck him in the neck. The car is of the type used to haul coal and other bulk material.

The coroner said an autopsy would be performed.

Railroad officials said the car left Alexandria early last night and arrived in El Dorado about 12:45 a.m. Dr. Pinson estimated the man died between 9 p.m., last night and 3 a.m., today. The body was discovered about 2:30 p.m.

The coroner said the man was about 60 years old, 5 feet, 7 inches tall and weighed about 150 pounds.

State Writers Top Award To Tech Student

State College gave the one-act play award.

In each division, the second and third prizes were given by the College Writers Society of Louisiana.

Students winning honorable mention in poetry included: Hugh S. Brown, Centenary, and James Bolner of LSU, who tied for first place; Ned Boagni, McNeese, second place; and Jeanne Garvey, LSU, third.

Honorable mention for the one-act play was won by Jerry Brasher, Southwestern, first; Jerry Byrd Northwestern State, second; and Imogene McDaniel, Northeast State, third.

Recipients of honorable mention in the feature story division were: Wallace Anthony, Louisiana Tech, first place; Vanelle Widich, Louisiana Tech, second; and Philip Oramus, Louisiana College, third.

Receiving honorable mention for the short story were: Barbara Kehoe, LSU, first; Andre J. Dubus, McNeese State, second; and Inez Kirk, Northwestern State, third.

Presentation of awards in each field were made accordingly: short story, Dr. A. L. Crabb, former professor of education at George Peabody College; poetry, Dr. Frances Fletcher of the Louisiana Tech faculty; feature story, Richard Hale, general manager, Monroe News-Star — and Morning World; one-act play, Mrs. Albin P. Lassiter, president of Northeast State's Writers Club.

WORD OF WARNING TO BEACH LOVERS—A mounted policeman gestures as he orders a group of teen-age beach lovers to abandon a beach bonfire (foreground) and move to higher ground after a warning was issued that a tidal wave was expected to hit this area as the aftermath of a strong Aleutian earthquake. In background (left) are hundreds of automobiles which crowded San Francisco's "playland at the beach" after the tidal wave "warning" had been broadcast. nities near the Aleutians quake they wouldn't be left today," said an official of the Victoria, B. C., Observatory.

"That's putting it conservatively," commented Dr. Don Tocher, seismologist at University of California at Berkeley.

Dr. Tocher said a third quake began recording at 12:46:19 p.m. PST Saturday and had a Richter reading of 7.

He said it probably was another submarine quake in the Aleutians.

BRUNT OF WAVES

Hawaii, 2,400 miles from the center of the first big quake, took the brunt of the tidal waves. They swept on the shores of Midway harmlessly at 3½ foot height.

Kodiak Navy district headquarters reported only minor damage from the wave at Adak, nearest the quake's epicenter, and no damage at Dutch Harbor or Kodiak. Dutch Harbor, Alaska, had an unstable tide rise of one foot in five minutes, then it receded quickly two feet.

The waves at Oahu were about 4½ feet high. In 1946 a tidal wave of 10½ feet high hit Hawaii, claiming 200 lives.

Fears were experienced Saturday's tital wave would hit the California coast. Beaches were cleared. Thousands flocked to the shoreline to see the waves come in. But nothing happened.

Dr. Tocher said Saturday's biggest quake was probably deep on the ocean floor west of Adak. It was recorded on the Berkeley seismograph for more than six hours.

Demand For Salk Polio Vaccine Up

WASHINGTON, March 9 (UP)—A government spokesman said Saturday the demand for Salk polio vaccine has picked up sharply since January but there is no shortage.

The spokesman said a backlog of 26 million cubic centimeters of the vaccine that piled up in production plants during the fall and winter has now moved out to wholesalers, druggists and doctors.

Although this means producers' supplies are low it does not mean there is a current shortage. The vaccine has merely moved into the distribution system for eventual injections

In Detroit, Parke Davis & Co., one of the nation's largest suppliers of Salk vaccine, said its supplies are exhausted and no more will be available for about a month.

A spokesman for the firm said many state and local public health agencies have been paging drug supply houses during the last few days, asking for vaccine, but none has been available.

The principal suppliers are Eli Lilly and Co., Indianapolis; Pitman-Moore, Indianapolis; Sharpe Dohme, Philadelphia, and Wyeth, near Philadelphia.

Lilly said it would have no vaccine for a month. A spokesman said it takes several months to manufacture and test a batch of vaccine.

The Health, Education and Welfare Department had no current figures on how many additional persons have received shots from the 26 million cc backlog.

But it said the sudden movement of the backlog from production plants indicates more people want the shots with the approach of another polio season.

The disease year begins April 1 but cases do not begin mounting until May and the peak is not reached until August. The disease hits heaviest first in the South and then moves north.

ers and timbermen assembled Friday afternoon, closing with a big barbecue at night, attended by approximately 400.

Printers and Stationers bound together in an association of statewide scope, opened here Friday a three - day session with Hotel Frances headquarters. Six or seven states were represented by delegates. Their big banquet was Friday night at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club and another banquet and dance was held Saturday night.

High school of the fifth district, by no means left out, sent to Monroe an estimated 200 students from 15 such institutions for a speech tournament. A banquet was held Friday night at Hotel Virginia.

Women bowlers, state - wide, comprising 113 teams, came here for a two - day tournament, Saturday and Sunday.

The most scholarly of all the week - end affairs held here, this one of scientific scope was that of Tulane lecture panels open to the public today at Hotel Frances. Many from out of town are expected and in various cases they were Tulane graduates, and others.

The conference opens today at noon and luncheon on the roof of Hotel Frances will be held. Following the luncheon, panel sessions will be held through the afternoon. A reception at 5:30 p.m. will be the closing event.

At 8 p. m. last night KLSE-TV went on the air here, as the state of Louisiana's first educational TV. It was purchased by the state a year ago from "Red" Willett. It cost the state at that time $159,750.

Lack of funds have caused it to be closed down. More than a year ago, before acquired by the state, it was a commercial TV on channel 43 but was later switched to channel 13.

School administrators of the Monroe area will serve as advisers. Monroe is highly pleased that it is to be favored with such a means of education for all who so desire. It will probably be followed by other non - commercial stations in this and other states.

The bus traveling public now is able to be seated as they await the next bus for cars to take them here and there. The city of Monroe derives revenue from the "ads" that are painted on the back of the large wooden seats at various stopping places. Buses, too, have large broadside signs on their exteriors that advertise auto sales, loans of money made available, and other business signs. The city is deriving revenue from this source.

2 Juveniles Held In Bank Break-In Try

BERNICE, March 9 (Special)—An unsuccessful attempt was made here this morning by two Negro juveniles to burglarize the bank of Bernice.

Sheriff Jurd G. Stewart said that the two juveniles had been arrested and charged with burglary. One of the youths is 16 and the other 17.

The Union parish sheriff said that Bernice night marshal, Earl Jinks noticed that a screen was off of a back window of the bank. Jinks caught one of the Negroes as he was attempting to leave the bank and the other was arrested at the home of a relative, Stewart said.

The two Negroes attempted to implicate three soldiers stationed near Bernice on maneuvers in the burglary, Sheriff Stewart said. Stewart reported that after investigating the matter he did not think the soldiers were involved.

The last session of the three-day program will be held in the Hotel Frances, with Armand V. Breard, out-going president, presiding.

Committee reports and the invitation for next year's convention will be featured parts of the program, being attended by more than 120 delegates from all over the pelican state.

During the afternoon session yesterday, Donald Kenyon, technical representative for Eastman Kodak Company of Rochester, N.Y., discussed the means by which new products and processes can aid the commercial printer and lithographer.

Cortland Hoor of Chicago spoke on form designs for office stationary, and a color film, "The World Behind a Watermark" was shown by R. W. Flicker, of Port Edwards, Michigan.

Monroe printers and stationers were hosts to a cocktail party for the delegates at 6:30 last night, and this was followed by a banquet, at which Father Dennis A. Curren, Ass't. Pastor of Our Curren, Ass't. Pastor of Our Lady of Fatima Church in Monroe, was

Unidentified Man Dies In Railroad Car

ELDORADO Ark., Harch 9 (AP)—A Rock Island Railroad employe today found the body of an elderly, shabbily dressed man in a railroad car here.

Dr. J. H. Pinson, Union County coroner, said the man apparently had been killed accidentally while the car was en route from Alexandria, La., to El Dorado last night. He said that there was no clue to the man's identity.

Dr. Pinson said a preliminary investigation indicated the man suffocated when a 900-pound door in the gondola-type car fell and struck him in the neck. The car is of the type used to haul coal and other bulk material.

The coroner said an autopsy would be performed.

Railroad officials said the car left Alexandria early last night and arrived in El Dorado about 12:45 a.m. Dr. Pinson estimated the man died between 9 p.m., last night and 3 a.m., today. The body was discovered about 2:30 p.m.

The coroner said the man was about 60 years old, 5 feet, 7 inches tall and weighed about 150 pounds.

Eisenhower Seeking Increased Control

President Eisenhower is demonstrating forcibly that enactment of the 22nd amendment to the Constitution, which prohibits a president from serving more than two terms, was a wise piece of legislation.

Eisenhower is said to fear that U. S. influence in the Arab world will decline because Arab leaders, not familiar with our form of government, will conclude that the president has not the power which they associate with a strong government.

We have traveled a long way from traditional American democracy if the president feels that he must be given absolute power in order to maintain status in the eyes of a nation that rates so far down the scale as a world power that it scarcely received any notice until oil squabbles, the Suez situation and the Israel incident threw it into the limelight. Must we base our democracy on the opinions of other nations, which we have so long criticized for being despotic or ruled by dictatorships, going so far as to be influenced by nations that do not even rate as third-class powers?

Of course, as far as Eisenhower is concerned, the two-term limit can hardly be considered a factor, since, because of his health and age, he was able to enter the last race only by a close squeeze. The probability that he could enter a third race, even if not prohibited, is extremely remote. Nevertheless, the president's constant craving for more power and his increasing impatience with American democratic processes, shows that the longer a man holds a high office, the more he thinks his word should be law.

The president is represented as being distinctly irritated with the "contrary attitude" of senate Democrats on his middle east resolution as originally drafted. In other words, he is irritated and impatient with any discussion or an opinion other than his own. This is contrary to the principals of a democracy. Even if the president were right in his middle east policy (and this is certainly open to debate) he should not expect the congress to accept all his ideas without question.

There can be no doubt that the president is sincere in his efforts to handle the world situation.

The trouble is that the president is trying to handle the whole situation alone He is trying to carry the world on his own shoulders. This can't be done and the president should realize the power of concerted minds in action, even if those minds include the Democrats, as well as his own Republicans.

Girl Scouting Will Be Honored For Week

Recognized as a deterrent to delinquency, Girl Scouting in the Monroe area, as well as throughout the United States, will be accorded honor during the week of March 10-16. The occasion will be the celebration of the 45th birthday of the organization on March 12.

As in former years, the Girl Scouts will observe Girl Scout week in a different manner on each of the seven days. These days are known as Girl Scout Sunday, Homemaking Monday, Citizenship Tuesday, Health and Safety Wednesday, International Friendship Thursday, Arts and Crafts Friday and Out-of-Doors Saturday.

"Girl Scouting—A Family Affair" will be the theme of the celebration throughout the nation and in the 1,300 Girl Scout councils. It is a way of paying tribute to the thousands of men who help make Girl Scouting a "family affair." Many of these men are registered Girl Scouts themselves, while many more make contributions to the organization by serving as fund-raisers, program consultants, camp specialists and in other capacities.

Founded on March 12, 1912, by Juliette Gordon Low, the Girl Scout organization has grown from 12 girls and one leader to 2,190,000 girls and 670,000 adults. Today there are 135,983 troops in the 48 states,, territories and in 34 foreign countries in which American citizens are living.

Like the Boy Scouts of America, the Girl Scouts and their numerous leaders are a living, active and vital force working always toward a higher and more wholesome standard of life.

The Girl Scouts deserve the praise and support of every citizen.

If recent rains have ended the drouth in Texas, as is hopefully predicted, it cannot be denied that when it comes to dry spells the Lone Star state does it bigger and better.

Population Pressures Are Called Explosive

Population pressures, now described as explosive, are presenting the United States with new problems and new challenges in almost every realm of human endeavor.

A recent Census Bureau estimate places the present U. S. population at 170 million, approximately 20 million more than the peak predicted only 20 years ago for the year 2000. A 1975 population of 215 million is now predicted.

The explosion has been brought about by the higher birth rates which have accompanied prosperity, declining death rates and greatly extended life expectancies.

The problems posed probably are as obvious as they are numerous: new schools and other public facilities all the way from rubbish incinerators to playgrounds, along with taxes to support them; highways, streets and parking facilities to accommodate 1957's predicted 100 million automobiles, nearly twice the present number; revisions of both domestic and foreign policy should this become a "have-not" nation in a world running out of new frontiers.

Of the challenges, perhaps the most imperative have to do with land and water conservation. The question has been raised many times whether the time is approaching when the nation's arable lands will not produce enough food for the populace. And in many sections of the country, the watershed problem already has become acute.

This is a young nation, but no longer a nation of seemingly limitless natural resources. And while science and human ingenuity may be depended upon to provide new sources of energy, or synthetic food substitutes, or any number of other miracles, the time for dependence on technology assuredly is not yet here. Nor is it foreseeable.

In many respects, the problems and challenges will be the concern of future generations. But they also deserve to be a present, pressing concern.

Czechoslovakia Sets Maximum Home Space

It is often difficult for Americans to translate into meaningful terms the stories printed about the rigid controls of communist governments over their peoples.

A new law in Czechoslovakia, however, may help in this understanding. This law will go into effect in July. It is termed a means to eliminate "unjustified social privileges."

The measure sets up the "maximum living space" to be permitted each person in his own home. The limit, which applies to rented apartments as well as private dwellings, is 130 square feet for each individual (kitchens excluded).

A fine will be assessed for every square yard over the limit. And the fines will be so high that for two square yards, a Czech will pay as much as for a whole apartment—in addition to his rent.

The top limit for a family of four will be 520 square feet, or about half what is considered a minimum in this country. And persons with larger homes—particularly elderly persons who are on small pensions—will face confiscation or else sharing their small quarters.

This is almost the ultimate in state control, state forcing of all persons into a mold. In a country that once was free, it must rankle deeply.

Busy Protocol In Washington Faced

There is one government activity in Washington which has had a smaller increase in personnel in the last 20 years than perhaps any other, but whose work load, in a manner of speaking, has increased manyfold. This activity is State Department protocol.

There is a never-ending procession of very important foreign visitors, creating endless problems for Wiley T. Buchanan, Jr., new chief of protocol and his staff of 20 women and seven men. In 1937, when protocol became a separate division of the Department of State, the staff totaled 14, and the Governor General of Canada, Lord Tweedsmuir, was the only official visitor to the country.

Now visits of heads of state to Washington frequently overlap. Mr. Buchanan has many more duties today than those formerly associated with his job, which in the public mind consisted mainly of seating officials and visitors in order of their precedence.

With spring scheduled to make its appearance a few days hence, has anyone notified the weatherman?

BASCOM TIMMONS REPORTS

U. S. Will Continue Foreign Aid To Tune Of About $8 Billion Annually

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The Fairless committee on foreign aid, reporting to President Eisenhower with the dismaying information that the United States must continue shoveling out foreign aid at the rate of around 8 billions annually for some years to come, has given those who are demanding slashing cuts in government spending another illustration of the magnitude of the problem which confronts congressional appropriations committees.

The findings of a group headed by a former president and board chairman of the U. S. Steel Corp., Benjamin F. Fairless, in effect sets up another untouchable in the expenditure categories, second only to the vast defense appropriations. Furthermore they disclose that the American taxpayer has really been misinformed about the amount spent on foreign aid, which is closer to 8 billion than the 4 billion usually publicized.

The difference is accounted for the failure to include the cost of American military forces abroad, which is 2.1 billion annually, sales of agricultural commodities where the receipts around 1.5 billions are spent inside the purchasing country, and 200 million spent by American civilian agencies.

At that rate, foreign aid amounts to one tenth of the federal government's annual expenditure. Under the heaviest pressure from voters in many years, the House has reduced the federal budget by approximately 700 millions or less than one per cent, while the Senate has already restored some of that total, so the net reduction in appropriations cannot be forecast with any degree of accuracy.

The breakdown in foreign aid also reveals that half our national expenditure, now estimated at 96 billion dollars, (including vast sums not included in the budget) now goes for military purposes. In addition to 37 billions in the defense budget for the armed forces and related items, the U. S. now spends 3.9 billion in military assistance to foreign countries and the previously mentioned 2.1 billions for our military forces abroad, a total of 43 billions.

The report possibly loses some of its effectiveness because of the rashness of its criticism. The committee members, for example, intimates that it found confusion in the whole foreign aid situation — in accounting as well as administration — but only suggests that there be a separation between economic and military contribution to the collective security program, and that the International Cooperative Administration, which is a semi-independent agency administering civilian foreign aid, be put under the State Department.

The recommended changes might be helpful, but they would leave the American taxpayer still confused because one dollar out of every ten he pays in federal taxes is spent abroad, another five dollars goes for defense purposes, and only four dollars out of ten goes for domestic civilian purposes, with which he has a general familiarity and from which he theoretically derives some benefit.

The Fairless report also points out that the United States is engaged in an inescapable struggle for existence against the Communist world. There are other reports from other U. S. travelers however, that Soviet aid is handled much more skillfully and that in frequent instances, Communist infiltration is apparent in the very nations where U. S. aid funds are freely spent, with no apparent advantage to this free - handed republic.

CONGRESSIONAL QUARTERLY

Illness Becalms One Of Stormiest Men In Senate

WASHINGTON, March 10 (CQ) —Illness has becalmed one of the stormiest men in the Senate—William Langer of North Dakota.

The galloping, political lone ranger from the Western Prairies has been seriously ill with pneumonia and pleurisy since Feb. 4 when he entered Bethesda Naval Hospital.

Senators say his illness has robbed them of their most faithful audience of one. For Langer habitually sits in front of the Senator making a speech — no matter how dull or long the speech may be—and stares at him with all the intentness of a lip-reader. Often Langer is the only other Senator in the chamber.

His presence is missed markedly for other reasons, too. Who else, for instance, can chain-smoke cigars during a committee hearing without ever lighting one? He sucks on them instead, usually with the cellophane still on. And who else, Senators ask, is so thoroughly unpredictable?

Even his party affiliation is often doubtful. Listed as a Republican, he often pays less attention to President Eisenhower's legislative requests than any other Senator. Congressional Quarterly's analysis of the number of times Langer supported the President's position where it was known before a roll call shows Langer supporting the President only 26 per cent of the time in the 83rd Congress, the lowest score in the Senate. And in the 84th Congress Langer's Eisenhower Support score was 27 per cent, the second lowest.

Care for Constituents

So how did someone with so much independence get so far in the back-slapping profession of politics? He breaks all the political rules but one: take care of the voters back home. He voted against the Marshall Plan and the United Nations, but the records don't show him subordinating North Dakota's interests.

To get the picture of the man who is so colorful that he comes into the spotlight just because he is not active these days, you have to go back to his first taste of politics. That came in 1890 when he was not yet four years old. His father became a member of North Dakota's first state legislature.

His own first political mark was made at Columbia University where he was named "the biggest politician, most popular man and the one most likely to succeed." He earned his law degree from the University of North Dakota before coming to Columbia and had passed the state bar when he was 18. He was graduated with a liberal arts degree from Columbia in 1910. He was class president and valedictorian.

His first election to public office was in 1914 when he became state's attorney for Morton County, North Dakota. He won the state's attorney generalship in 1916 with the backing of the Non-Partisan League, at that time a newly formed farmers' political organization that controlled the Republican party.

After a slam-bang career in those legal posts, he ran for governor in 1920. He lost then but ran again in 1932, emerging as the only Republican governor elected in a state that supported Franklin D. Roosevelt. He no sooner sat in the governor's chair than he became a headline figure from coast to coast. One of his first acts was to declare a moratorium on farm foreclosures. He also embargoed the state's wheat and fought New Deal farm measures at every turn.

His eagerness to combat newspaper criticism by starting a paper of his own led to a Federal grand jury indictment. He was charged with soliciting subscriptions from state employes, some of whom were on relief.

As Langer himself put it in a speech last year before the West Virginia Bar Assn.: "I want you to know that I was up for disbarment twice . . . I was arrested . . . and sentenced to 18 months in the penitentiary. But, I didn't serve the sentence. We had the right kind of supreme court."

The trials forced him out of the governor's chair in 1934 but he regained it in 1937. In 1940 he ran for the Senate and won. But his earlier escapades caused him to wait 15 months before he could take his Senate seat.

A group of North Dakotans Feb. 3, 1941, filed a sworn petition alleging "Langer is, and long has been, openly notoriously and admittedly corrupt in his official and public life." The Senate subcommittee that heard the charges concluded Langer was guilty of "gross impropriety, lawlessness, shotgun law enforcement, jail-breaking, violation of oath as an attorney, rabble-rousing, civil disobedience, breach of the peace, obstruction of the administration of justice and tampering with court officials."

Hollywood Scenario

The investigation unearthed legal escapades that rivaled a Hollywood two-reeler for brass and resourcefulness. There was the time, for instance, when Langer held up a telephone office to make sure it did not tip off a disorderly house his men were raiding. And then he talked a divorcee into remarrying her husband so she couldn't testify that she saw her husband shoot her lover.

The Senate voted 52-30 to seat Langer. He galloped off on a new trail astride two political horses. He voted with isolationists on foreign policy and with liberals on domestic policy. He wanted the government to spend more money in this country and preferably none abroad.

Langer chaired the Post Office and Civil Service Committee during the 80th Congress and fought for such things as raises for postal workers and maternity payments to unwed mothers. He was Chairman of the Judiciary Committee in the 83rd Congress and is currently its ranking Republican and the third-ranking Senate Republican. His chairmanship was spiced with pre-dawn raids he made on Federal prisons to check conditions.

He has won re-election to the Senate by large majorities, carrying every county in the state in 1952 and beating his Democratic opponent by a 3-1 margin.

Loss Of Loan Up To $1,000 Deductible For Taxation

BY SYLVIA PORTER

(In collaboration with the Research Institute of America)

Today's column will give you tax - saving hints on miscellaneous deductions which go on page two and also on certain common and important business expenses.

QUESTION: I had to pay a fee to an employment agency last year to get a new job. Can I deduct the fee?

ANSWER: Yes.

QUESTION: I loaned a friend $1,500 in 1955. He died in 1956 and left no funds to pay the loan. Can I deduct the $1,500?

ANSWER: Yes, but you may not be able to claim more than $1,000 this year. The remaining $500 will be deductible in 1957. The reason is that a loss of this kind from a non - business debt is viewed as a short - term capital loss. This means that the entire amount can be used to reduce capital gains — such as any profits you may have from the sale of stock. However, any amounts which can't be used to reduce capital gains - say, because you don't have any - can only be claimed in one year up to $1,000. The rest can be carried over for use in the next five years.

QUESTION: My wife and I were separated in 1955 under a written separation agreement which provides for monthly payments to her. Can I deduct these payments even though we aren't divorced?

ANSWER: Yes. They are fully deductible as alimony as long as the written separation agreement was executed after August 16, 1954. It does not have to be connected with a court decree.

QUESTION: I own a safe deposit box in which I keep all my stocks and other documents. Can I deduct the cost of the box?

ANSWER: Yes.

QUESTION: My job requires me to wear a uniform which I must supply and maintain. Can I deduct these costs?

ANSWER: Yes, as long as the uniform isn't suitable for general wear.

QUESTION: I had to spend over $500 last year making various repairs to my home. Are these deductible?

ANSWER: No. The law clearly forbids these as deductions even though many taxpayers think home repairs are deductible.

QUESTION: I changed jobs last year and had to spend a considerable sum moving my family to the new location. Can I deduct the expense?

ANSWER: No. These are nondeductible personal expenses.

QUESTION: Are my union dues deductible:

ANSWER: Yes. Dues paid to a union can be claimed as a deduction. So can dues to professional societies.

QUESTION: I attended evening classes at college last year in order to get a degree. This would qualify me for a better job. Can I deduct the costs of attending the course?

ANSWER: No. Educational expenses incurred to get a job or a better job, to become established in a trade, business or profession, etc., are nondeductible personal expenses.

QUESTION: I use a car in my small business. Last March I bought a new one for $2,800. How much depreciation can I take?

ANSWER: You have a choice of ways to take depreciation. But the one which will give you the greatest deduction for 1956 is the so-called declining balance depreciation, Under this "stepped-up" depreciation method, you can deduct 50 per cent of the cost of your car in the first year - if we assume that you generally hold on to your car for 4 years.

Thus, for 1956 you will be able to claim a deduction of three quarter (March through December) of $1,400, or $1,050. You can't claim the full $1,400 since you only owned the car during nine months of 1956.

If you used the straight line method of depreciation, you would be able to take a deduction of only $394 in 1956 (assuming that after four years your car will be worth $700).

QUESTION: Can I use this same "speedy depreciation" for my other business purchases such as machines, office equipment, furniture, trucks, etc.?

ANSWER: Yes. The fast depreciation is available to help you cut your taxes whether you are big business or small.

'Around World' By Todd Grosses Over One Million

By WALTER WINCHELL

M. Todd's "Around the World in 80 Days" (in 8 weeks) has grossed over one million in about ten theaters around the country. Not including the Broadway run at the Rivoli. No other picture enjoys such prosperity . . . Fritz Loewe, composer of "My Fair Lady" and "Brigadoon," made a fortune from each hit. He reportedly told intimates he squandered it all . . . Sammy Davis, Jr. hopes to settle his tax debt with Uncle Sam by mid-58. The sum involved is $30,000 . . . The NBC high command will try to end contracts of many stars and others who cannot attract sponsors. Still on the payroll at tall wages are Martha Raye, J. Durante and M. Berle . . . Playwright Dashiell Hammett, who clashed with the Gov't and wrecked his career, is ill at his upstate home . . . "Mangos," the newest Calypso hit (via Rosemary Clooney's platter), was written by Dec Libbey. She's a looker with many classical music degrees. Her first attempt at pop music . . . Easy Money: The backers of "Tunnel of Love" got half their investment back in the hit's first dozen days . . . If the Army doesn't get him first, 20th Century-Fox will marry Elvis to Jayne in a picture with a ticket - selling title: "Love Maniac."

Power of Publicity: Kay Kendall, a relatively unknown actress until linked with Rex Harrison (and the Sinatra incident), now has her name in type twice the title of her film, "Simon & Laura" . . . Barbara Rush is getting a big one from E. Pauley, Jr. Despite 20th Century - Fox exec Frank McCarthy's handsome interference . . . The Babs Beckwith - Peter Crosby romance has a Lohengrin look about it. The Romeo Salta's crowd are "sure" of it . . . Millie Vernon, the lark, opens at the Red Carpet Sunday night. Eisenhower Seeking Increased Control

President Eisenhower is demonstrating forcibly that enactment of the 22nd amendment to the Constitution, which prohibits a president from serving more than two terms, was a wise piece of legislation.

Eisenhower is said to fear that U. S. influence in the Arab world will decline because Arab leaders, not familiar with our form of government, will conclude that the president has not the power which they associate with a strong government.

We have traveled a long way from traditional American democracy if the president feels that he must be given absolute power in order to maintain status in the eyes of a nation that rates so far down the scale as a world power that it scarcely received any notice until oil squabbles, the Suez situation and the Israel incident threw it into the limelight. Must we base our democracy on the opinions of other nations, which we have so long criticized for being despotic or ruled by dictatorships, going so far as to be influenced by nations that do not even rate as third-class powers?

Of course, as far as Eisenhower is concerned, the two-term limit can hardly be considered a factor, since, because of his health and age, he was able to enter the last race only by a close squeeze. The probability that he could enter a third race, even if not prohibited, is extremely remote. Nevertheless, the president's constant craving for more power and his increasing impatience with American democratic processes, shows that the longer a man holds a high office, the more he thinks his word should be law.

The president is represented as being distinctly irritated with the "contrary attitude" of senate Democrats on his middle east resolution as originally drafted. In other words, he is irritated and impatient with any discussion or an opinion other than his own. This is contrary to the principals of a democracy. Even if the president were right in his middle east policy (and this is certainly open to debate) he should not expect the congress to accept all his ideas without question.

There can be no doubt that the president is sincere in his efforts to handle the world situation.

The trouble is that the president is trying to handle the whole situation alone He is trying to carry the world on his own shoulders. This can't be done and the president should realize the power of concerted minds in action, even if those minds include the Democrats, as well as his own Republicans.

Girl Scouting Will Be Honored For Week

Recognized as a deterrent to delinquency, Girl Scouting in the Monroe area, as well as throughout the United States, will be accorded honor during the week of March 10-16. The occasion will be the celebration of the 45th birthday of the organization on March 12.

As in former years, the Girl Scouts will observe Girl Scout week in a different manner on each of the seven days. These days are known as Girl Scout Sunday, Homemaking Monday, Citizenship Tuesday, Health and Safety Wednesday, International Friendship Thursday, Arts and Crafts Friday and Out-of-Doors Saturday.

"Girl Scouting—A Family Affair" will be the theme of the celebration throughout the nation and in the 1,300 Girl Scout councils. It is a way of paying tribute to the thousands of men who help make Girl Scouting a "family affair." Many of these men are registered Girl Scouts themselves, while many more make contributions to the organization by serving as fund-raisers, program consultants, camp specialists and in other capacities.

Founded on March 12, 1912, by Juliette Gordon Low, the Girl Scout organization has grown from 12 girls and one leader to 2,190,000 girls and 670,000 adults. Today there are 135,983 troops in the 48 states,, territories and in 34 foreign countries in which American citizens are living.

Like the Boy Scouts of America, the Girl Scouts and their numerous leaders are a living, active and vital force working always toward a higher and more wholesome standard of life.

The Girl Scouts deserve the praise and support of every citizen.

If recent rains have ended the drouth in Texas, as is hopefully predicted, it cannot be denied that when it comes to dry spells the Lone Star state does it bigger and better.

Population Pressures Are Called Explosive

Population pressures, now described as explosive, are presenting the United States with new problems and new challenges in almost every realm of human endeavor.

A recent Census Bureau estimate places the present U. S. population at 170 million, approximately 20 million more than the peak predicted only 20 years ago for the year 2000. A 1975 population of 215 million is now predicted.

The explosion has been brought about by the higher birth rates which have accompanied prosperity, declining death rates and greatly extended life expectancies.

The problems posed probably are as obvious as they are numerous: new schools and other public facilities all the way from rubbish incinerators to playgrounds, along with taxes to support them: highways, streets and parking facilities to accommodate 1957's predicted 100 million automobiles, nearly twice the present number; revisions of both domestic and foreign policy should this become a "have-not" nation in a world running out of new frontiers.

Of the challenges, perhaps the most imperative have to do with land and water conservation. The question has been raised many times whether the time is approaching when the nation's arable lands will not produce enough food for the populace. And in many sections of the country, the watershed problem already has become acute.

This is a young nation, but no longer a nation of seemingly limitless natural resources. And while science and human ingenuity may be depended upon to provide new sources of energy, or synthetic food substitutes, or any number of other miracles, the time for dependence on technology assuredly is not yet here. Nor is it foreseeable.

In many respects, the problems and challenges will be the concern of future generations. But they also deserve to be a present, pressing concern.

Czechoslovakia Sets Maximum Home Space

It is often difficult for Americans to translate into meaningful terms the stories printed about the rigid controls of communist governments over their peoples.

A new law in Czechoslovakia, however, may help in this understanding. This law will go into effect in July. It is termed a means to eliminate "unjustified social privileges."

The measure sets up the "maximum living space" to be permitted each person in his own home. The limit, which applies to rented apartments as well as private dwellings, is 130 square feet for each individual (kitchens excluded).

A fine will be assessed for every square yard over the limit. And the fines will be so high that for two square yards, a Czech will pay as much as for a whole apartment—in addition to his rent.

The top limit for a family of four will be 520 square feet, or about half what is considered a minimum in this country. And persons with larger homes —particularly elderly persons who are on small pensions—will face confiscation or else sharing their small quarters.

This is almost the ultimate in state control, state forcing of all persons into a mold. In a country that once was free, it must rankle deeply.

Busy Protocol In Washington Faced

There is one government activity in Washington which has had a smaller increase in personnel in the last 20 years than perhaps any other, but whose work load, in a manner of speaking, has increased manyfold. This activity is State Department protocol.

There is a never-ending procession of very important foreign visitors, creating endless problems for Wiley T. Buchanan, Jr., new chief of protocol and his staff of 20 women and seven men. In 1937, when protocol became a separate division of the Department of State, the staff totaled 14, and the Governor General of Canada, Lord Tweedsmuir, was the only official visitor to the country.

Now visits of heads of state to Washington frequently overlap. Mr. Buchanan has many more duties today than those formerly associated with his job, which in the public mind consisted mainly of seating officials and visitors in order of their precedence.

With spring scheduled to make its appearance a few days hence, has anyone notified the weatherman?

BASCOM TIMMONS REPORTS

U. S. Will Continue Foreign Aid To Tune Of About $8 Billion Annually

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The Fairless committee on foreign aid, reporting to President Eisenhower with the dismaying information that the United States must continue shoveling out foreign aid at the rate of around 8 billions annually for some years to come, has given those who are demanding slashing cuts in government spending another illustration of the magnitude of the problem which confronts congressional appropriations committees.

The findings of a group headed by a former president and board chairman of the U. S. Steel Corp., Benjamin F. Fairless, in effect sets up another untouchable in the expenditure categories, second only to the vast defense appropriations. Furthermore they disclose that the American taxpayer has really been misinformed about the amount spent on foreign aid, which is closer to 8 billion than the 4 billion usually publicized.

The difference is accounted for the failure to include the cost of American military forces abroad, which is 2.1 billion annually, sales of agricultural commodities where the receipts around 1.5 billions are spent inside the purchasing country, and 200 million spent by American civilian agencies.

At that rate, foreign aid amounts to one tenth of the federal government's annual expenditure. Under the heaviest pressure from voters in many years, the House has reduced the federal budget by approximately 700 millions or less than one per cent, while the Senate has already restored some of that total, so the net reduction in appropriations cannot be forecast with any degree of accuracy.

The breakdown in foreign aid also reveals that half our national expenditure, now estimated at 66 billion dollars, (including vast sums not included in the budget) now goes for military purposes. In addition to 37 billions in the defense budget for the armed forces and related items, the U. S. now spends 3.9 billion in military assistance to foreign countries and the previously mentioned 2.1 billions for our military forces abroad, a total of 43 billions.

The report possibly loses some of its effectiveness because of the mildness of its criticism. The committee members, for example, intimates that it found confusion in the whole foreign aid situation — in accounting as well as administration — but only suggests that there be a separation between economic and military contribution to the collective security program, and that the International Cooperative Administration, which is a semi-independent agency administering civilian foreign aid, be put under the State Department.

The recommended changes might be helpful, but they would leave the American taxpayer still confused because one dollar out of every ten he pays in federal taxes is spent abroad, another five dollars goes for defense purposes, and only four dollars out of ten goes for domestic civilian purposes, with which he has a general familiarity and from which he theoretically derives some benefit.

The Fairless report also points out that the United States is engaged in an inescapable struggle for existence against the Communist world. There are other reports from other U. S. travelers however, that Soviet aid is handled much more skillfully and that in frequent instances, Communist infiltration is apparent in the very nations where U. S. aid funds are freely spent, with no apparent advantage to this free - handed republic.

CONGRESSIONAL QUARTERLY

Illness Becalms One Of Stormiest Men In Senate

WASHINGTON, March 10 (CQ) —Illness has becalmed one of the stormiest men in the Senate—William Langer of North Dakota.

The galloping, political lone ranger from the Western Prairies has been seriously ill with pneumonia and pleurisy since Feb. 4 when he entered Bethesda Naval Hospital.

Senators say his illness has robbed them of their most faithful audience of one. For Langer habitually sits in front of the Senator making a speech — no matter how dull or long the speech may be—and stares at him with all the intentness of a lip-reader. Often Langer is the only other Senator in the chamber.

His presence is missed markedly for other reasons, too. Who else, for instance, can chain-smoke cigars during a committee hearing without ever lighting one? He sucks on them instead, usually with the cellophane still on. And who else, Senators ask, is so thoroughly unpredictable?

Even his party affiliation is often doubtful. Listed as a Republican, he often pays less attention to President Eisenhower's legislative requests than any other Senator. Congressional Quarterly's analysis of the number of times Langer supported the President's position where it was known before a roll call shows Langer supporting the President only 26 per cent of the time in the 83rd Congress, the lowest score in the Senate. And in the 84th Congress Langer's Eisenhower Support score was 27 per cent, the second lowest.

Care for Constituents

So how did someone with so much independence get so far in the back-slapping profession of politics? He breaks all the political rules but one: take care of the voters back home. He voted against the Marshall Plan and the United Nations, but the records don't show him subordinating North Dakota's interests.

To get the picture of the man who is so colorful that he comes into the spotlight just because he is not active these days, you have to go back to his first taste of politics. That came in 1890 when he was not yet four years old. His father became a member of North Dakota's first state legislature.

His own first political mark was made at Columbia University where he was named "the biggest politician, most popular man and the one most likely to succeed." He earned his law degree from the University of North Dakota before coming to Columbia and had passed the state bar when he was 18. He was graduated with a liberal arts degree from Columbia in 1910. He was class president and valedictorian.

His first election to public office was in 1914 when he became state's attorney for Morton County, North Dakota. He won the state's attorney generalship in 1916 with the backing of the Non-Partisan League, at that time a newly formed farmers' political organization that controlled the Republican party.

After a slam-bang career in those legal posts, he ran for governor in 1920. He lost then but ran again in 1932, emerging as the only Republican governor elected in a state that supported Franklin D. Roosevelt. He no sooner sat in the governor's chair than he became a headline figure from coast to coast. One of his first acts was to declare a moratorium on farm foreclosures. He also embargoed the state's wheat and fought New Deal farm measures at every turn.

His eagerness to combat newspaper criticism by starting a paper of his own led to a Federal grand jury indictment. He was charged with soliciting subscriptions from state employes, some of whom were on relief.

As Langer himself put it in a speech last year before the West Virginia Bar Assn.: "I want you to know that I was up for disbarment twice . . . I was arrested . . . and sentenced to 18 months in the penitentiary. But I didn't serve the sentence. We had the right kind of supreme court."

'Around World' By Todd Grosses Over One Million

By WALTER WINCHELL

M. Todd's "Around the World in 80 Days" (in 8 weeks) has grossed over one million in about ten theaters around the country. Not including the Broadway run at the Rivoli. No other picture enjoys such prosperity . . . Fritz Loewe, composer of "My Fair Lady" and "Brigadoon," made a fortune from each hit. He reportedly told intimates he squandered it all . . . Sammy Davis, Jr. hopes to settle his tax debt with Uncle Sam by mid-58. The sum involved is $30,000 . . . The NBC high command will try to end contracts of many stars and others who cannot attract sponsors. Still on the payroll at tall wages are Martha Raye, J. Durante and M. Berle . . . Playwright Dashiell Hammett, who clashed with the Gov't and wrecked his career, is ill at his upstate home . . . "Mangos," the newest Calypso hit (via Rosemary Clooney's platter), was written by Dee Libbey. She's a looker with many classical music degrees. Her first attempt at pop music . . . Easy Money: The backers of "Tunnel of Love" got half their investment back in the hit's first dozen days . . . If the Army doesn't get him first, 20th Century-Fox will marry Elvis to Jayne in a picture with a ticket - selling title: "Love Maniac."

Power of Publicity: Kay Kendall, a relatively unknown actress until linked with Rex Harrison (and the Sinatra incident), now has her name in type twice the title of her film, "Simon & Laura" . . . Barbara Rush is getting a big one from E. Pauley, Jr. Despite 20th Century - Fox exec Frank McCarthy's handsome interference . . . The Babs Beckwith - Peter Crosby romance has a Lohengrin look about it. The Romeo Salta's crowd are "sure" of it . . . Millie Vernon, the lark, opens at the Red Carpet Sunday night. She is tobacco - heir L. Lorillard's protegee - whiz . . . Guy Mitchell, who subbed for Godfrey, was a Godfrey winner ten years ago . . . Lisa Kirk has bids from the London Palladium and the Cafe de Paris in Paree . . . Pat Boone is closing in on Presley. He's had 11 big hit records in 2½ years. Nine went over a million. Passed Como, Fisher and Laine.

The Earl of Coventry, a handsome fellow, and his American heiress bride are neck turners at El Morocco these nights. She's the former Mimi Medart of St. Louis. Before their wedding in 1955 the dazzling Mimi made headlines when her mater (alarmed at her rendezvous with King Farouk) ordered her home. . . . Mother was actress Blossom Donal, who appeared in Westerns with Buck Jones. . . Joanne Connelly's crutch (during her ex-husband's slander trial in London) was Mrs. James Farley, Jr., the ex-Pat Dillon, who flew over to comfort her. . . . Artie Shaw confirmed the colyum's long-ago tip that Evelyn Keyes would be his 8th wife. European columns insisted the gal would be Janice Werbley, one of London's top models. . . . The rumors persist that comic Geo. DeWitt will blend with Ann Lorraine. She's the Chas. Spivak band's vocallure.

Winthrop Rockefeller did the cafe circuit sporting a ten-gallon hat plus Presley sideburns. His get-up on his Arkansas retreat. . . . Grace Kelly and family expect to celebrate their 1st Ann'y in Philly. . . Hope Hampton keeps saying no one is Very Special in her heart, but Michael Stuart appeared to be when the Monsignore violins did their spellbinding. . . . Johnnie Ray staged a "show" on the plane that brought him back from the West Indies which rocked passengers and crew . . . Mario Trombone, publicist, has it real bad for pert Sandra Church of "Holiday For Lovers." They had that glazed look at the new Chevy Chase the other after-curtain time. . . . "Broadway in a Barn," the new book about summer stock, is getting happy response from reviewers. . . . Swiss beauty Anna Duringer, who stars in 20th's "Fraulein," is rated "another Dietrich."

Nasser Expected To Remain Firm On Canal Terms

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

President Nasser of Egypt appears to be ready to put his country through an increasingly severe belt-tightening process rather than yield any part of the political position he attained by nationalization of the Suez Canal.

The fact that Israel has withdrawn from Egyptian territory, thus alleviating the tension which has existed throughout the area for months, has brought a resumption of canal-opening work. But all evidence from Cairo is that Nasser intends to see it operated under his own terms.

Among these is payment of all tolls directly to Egypt. This is counter to an internationally supported proposal for payment of part of the tolls to Egypt and part to an international fund which could be held as a guarantee of proper operating conditions until the World Court can pass on the whole question.

Egypt has also said that the canal will not be open to Israeli shipping. This constitutes an exception to a previously reported Egyptian view that a settlement can be reached under the terms of the international treaty of 1888.

This is also a key to Egypt's attitude in the whole matter of Middle Eastern settlements. She refuses to alter the attitude that she is still at war with Israel despite the 1949 armistice.

She thus maintains the basis for continuation of the Arab campaign of hate against Israel.

Israel has just given at least partial token that she is not guilty of the Arab charge that she plans eventual expansion at Arab expense to meet the demands of her unlimited immigration policy.

But the Arabs are by no means satisfied regarding Jerusalem's attitude toward Jordan.

Jordan is a state founded after World War I on a political rather than a nationalistic or economic foundation. Britain has supported it but Jordan has bucked her out in favor of support from other Arab states, primarily Egypt and Saudi Arabia. How long that will prevent collapse is a question.

The Arabs expected Israel to make a move toward Jordan as soon as the Sinai campaign was cleaned up. World reaction to that campaign has probably put a damper on Israel's intentions toward Jordan, if any.

Israel has a vital interest, however, in what happens. So has Iraq, which might complete its split with Egypt and Syria if they try to absorb Jordan.

The canal situation is closely entwined in Nasser's mind with his prospects in these other matters. He is gambling that Egypt can get by economically until his strength from canal control can have its effect elsewhere.

When canal negotiations are resumed, however, as they should be soon, Nasser's time will begin to run out. He will be faced by the necessity for an agreement or the danger of application of more stringent economic sanctions by the Western powers.

Long Bill Aimed At Cutting Air Baggage Rates

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP) — A bill aimed at cutting the charges of airlines for personal baggage of passengers was introduced today by Sen. Long (D-La)

The measure would have the effect of requiring air lines to carry up to 150 pounds of additional personal baggage at the same rate that would be paid if it were sent by air freight.

The present free baggage limit of 50 pounds would not be affected by the proposal.

Long told the Senate that air line customers now pay for all baggage over 40 pounds at a rate two to three times that charged for air freight carried on the same planes.

Long's proposal is similar to others he has introduced in previous years. He said that the Civil Aeronautics Board has taken note of his protests and has ordered a hearing into the matter later this month.

If the hearing results in a substantial reduction in the personal baggage charges, Long said, he won't press for action by Congress on his bill.

He Should Have

LOS ANGELES, March 9 (AP) —Superior Judge Elmer D. Doyle arched an eyebrow and commented: "This must be the record—21 marriages between two people."

Before him yesterday were Mrs. Beverly Avery, 46, and her 13th ex-husband, Raymond J. O'Malley, 41. Mrs. Avery's 14th mate, Gabriel Avery, 46, was with her when she sought $233 back alimony from O'Malley, who informed the court she had been his seventh bride. He said he would pay up and that he never would marry again.

"You mean you've had it?" queried the court.

"I've had it," O'Malley solemnly replied.

Demo-Controlled House Group Puts Budget Cutting Back In Ike's Lap

WASHINGTON, March 9 (UP) The Democratic-controlled House Appropriations Committee Friday threw back to President Eisenhower the issue of cutting his $71.8 billion record peace-time budget.

The committee, by a 22-12 party-line vote, adopted a resolution calling on the President to say where and by how much he thinks his fiscal 1958 spending outlay can be reduced.

At the same time the House Government Operations Committee weighed a resolution demanding the President submit a new budget of no more than $60 billion.

Mr. Eisenhower submitted the budget in January and tacitly invited the legislators to cut it if they could. They have been doing that but to no appreciable extent. They made clear Friday that they believed it was an administration responsibility.

However, the Appropriations Committee followed its own recommendations and took a third slice out of the budget. It ordered a 23 per cent cut in a spending bill for the White House and various minor agencies.

The committee previously had recommended, and the House approved, a 2 per cent cut in funds for the treasury and post office, and a 12 per cent reduction in Interior Department money. But in dollars, the committee cuts amounted to only $146 million.

Other developments as the budget-cutting drive picked up speed:

Chairman Howard W. Smith (D-Va.) of the House Rules Committee suggested Congress take the lead in the economy drive by halting work on multi-million dollar capitol construction program. It calls for new offices for House and Senate members.

AGENCIES SIT TIGHT

Some congressmen warned Mr. Eisenhower that unless he stopped talking about cuts some of his major legislation would be killed in the snowballing economy drive. They cited foreign aid and school aid construction.

A United Press spot survey of federal agencies produced no evidence that they were considering any cuts. The check was made after Mr. Eisenhower said Thursday he had ordered a new review of federal spending plans to see if reductions could be made.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.), leader of the Senate economy bloc, called on Budget Director Percival F. Brundage to "justify" the new budget. Byrd, in a letter, asked Brundage to specify the conditions that call for "an increase in spending of $7 billion more than in 1955."

Three American Boys Vanish In Cuba; May Be With Rebels

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP) — Three teen-age American boys have disappeared from homes of their parents on a U. S. Navy base in Cuba, presumably to join a group of Cuban rebels, the State Department said yesterday.

Officials at the State and Navy departments expressed concern for the youngsters, fearing that if it is true they have joined a rebel band in the Cuban mountains, they might get involved in a clash between the anti-government group and Cuban soldiers.

The youngsters disappeared from the Navy base at Guatanamo, in the eastern end of the Cuban republic. The rebel band is reported hiding in the Sierra Maestra Mounts, not far away. Cuban officials have said the rebel group is small, and is being hunted down.

The Navy said the missing boys are Victor Buehlman, 17; Charles E. Ryan Jr., 17, and Michael Garvey, 15.

The Navy said they were listed as dependents of James J. Garvey, chief machinist mate, 14 Carroll St., Watertown, Mass.; Charles E. Ryan Sr., hospitalman first class, 7 Lemon Rd., Monson, Mass., and Cmdr. Joseph Buehlman, 352 Pomona Ave., Coronado, Calif.

The State Department said the U. S. Embassy in Havana had advised Cuban police and Cuban authorities of disappearances of the boys, and circulated descriptions of them.

Officials here said they had no information as to why it was assumed the boys had joined the rebels, except that reports from Cuba gave that explanation.

Bakery Workers Conflict Erupts In Washington

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP) —A new conflict erupted in the Bakery and Confectionery Workers International Union today with the suspension of its insurgent secretary-treasurer, Curtis R. Sims.

Sims, appealing to AFL-CIO President George Meany, was promised an inquiry into his charge that the 160,000-member bakery workers union "is dominated by a corrupt influence in the person of its president, James G. Cross."

Meany issued this one-sentence statement: "The charges will be taken up by the Ethical Practices Committee next Friday."

Last night Sims lost his fight, in a closed-door meeting of the union's General Executive Board, to bring about the ouster of Cross and Vice President George Stuart, on grounds of misconduct and misuse of union funds.

Continuing the meeting into the small hours of this morning, the 20-member board then ordered Sims suspended on charges brought by Cross. It set a trial date of March 27 in Miami Beach, Fla.

Sims himself broke this news to reporters, saying he had learned of it by the union "grapevine" but had not yet been notified officially. Cross later verified the suspension saying Sims has been barred from the union premises.

Sims spread before the reporters documents which he said were the basis of his case against Cross and Stuart. Copies have been furnished to Meany, he said, and will be presented to the AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Committee.

The charges, of which Cross and Stuart were acquitted by their union board, included these allegations:

That Cross diverted union property to his "personal pleasures and uses" and maintained "an intimate relationship with a person of ill fame and criminal repute and record;" that Cross and Stuart abused their trusteeship of local unions "for their own unwarranted financial gain and profit"; and that Cross "falsely denied" to the union's convention last October he had participated in a violent disorder in a San Francisco hotel which led to a grand jury investigation but no indictments.

The AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Committee has no authority to remove any union's officials but can recommend to the AFL-CIO Executive Council that a union be "disaffiliated."

6. Snow White the Mouse

Tommy had a white mouse which he named Snow White. The mouse had little pink feet and ears and a long, almost hairless pink tail.

It was a fearless little mouse who ran around the house, in and out of boxes, up and down the chair legs, and even climbed up the clock, like the mouse in the nursery rhyme, Hickory Dickory Dock. If the clock struck while he was on it he went scurrying down in haste.

Paste this page on cardboard and color with crayons. The clock is brown with a light blue dial. Cut out the parts carefully. Cut the slit down the front of the clock. Fold back the sides of the clock on the dash lines and the clock will stand.

Fold the halves of the mouse forward at the dotted lines marked "F". Fold back at the dotted lines marked "B". Then paste the two inside parts of the mouse together. The base will be flat. Make two holes in this and tie a string into each end so that you can pull the mouse up or down the clock.

Slip the mouse into the slit of the clock from the back. The base will then hold the mouse at right angles to the clock and can be pulled up and down by the strings in the base from the back.

Nasser Expected To Remain Firm On Canal Terms

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

President Nasser of Egypt appears to be ready to put his country through an increasingly severe belt-tightening process rather than yield any part of the political position he attained by nationalization of the Suez Canal.

The fact that Israel has withdrawn from Egyptian territory, thus alleviating the tension which has existed throughout the area for months, has brought a resumption of canal-opening work. But all evidence from Cairo is that Nasser intends to see it operated under his own terms.

Among these is payment of all tolls directly to Egypt. This is counter to an internationally supported proposal for payment of part of the tolls to Egypt and part to an international fund which could be held as a guarantee of proper operating conditions until the World Court can pass on the whole question.

Egypt has also said that the canal will not be open to Israeli shipping. This constitutes an exception to a previously reported Egyptian view that a settlement can be reached under the terms of the international treaty of 1888.

This is also a key to Egypt's attitude in the whole matter of Middle Eastern settlements. She refuses to alter the attitude that she is still at war with Israel despite the 1949 armistice.

She thus maintains the basis for continuation of the Arab campaign of hate against Israel.

Israel has just given at least partial token that she is not guilty of the Arab charge that she plans eventual expansion at Arab expense to meet the demands of her unlimited immigration policy.

But the Arabs are by no means satisfied regarding Jerusalem's attitude toward Jordan.

Jordan is a state founded after World War I on a political rather than a nationalistic or economic foundation. Britain has supported it but Jordan has bucked her out in favor of support from other Arab states, primarily Egypt and Saudi Arabia. How long that will prevent collapse is a question.

The Arabs expected Israel to make a move toward Jordan as soon as the Sinai campaign was cleaned up. World reaction to that campaign has probably put a damper on Israel's intentions toward Jordan, if any.

Israel has a vital interest, however, in what happens. So has Iraq, which might complete its split with Egypt and Syria if they try to absorb Jordan.

The canal situation is closely entertwined in Nasser's mind with his prospects in these other matters. He is gambling that Egypt can get by economically until his strength from canal control can have its effect elsewhere.

When canal negotiations are resumed, however, as they should be soon, Nasser's time will begin to run out. He will be faced by the necessity for an agreement or the danger of application of more stringent economic sanctions by the Western powers.

Long Bill Aimed At Cutting Air Baggage Rates

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP) — A bill aimed at cutting the charges of airlines for personal baggage of passengers was introduced today by Sen. Long (D-La)

The measure would have the effect of requiring air lines to carry up to 150 pounds of additional personal baggage at the same rate that would be paid if it were sent by air freight.

The present free baggage limit of 50 pounds would not be affected by the proposal.

Long told the Senate that air line customers now pay for all baggage over 40 pounds at a rate two to three times that charged for air freight carried on the same planes.

Long's proposal is similar to others he has introduced in previous years. He said that the Civil Aeronautics Board has taken note of his protests and has ordered a hearing into the matter later this month.

If the hearing results in a substantial reduction in the personal baggage charges, Long said, he won't press for action by Congress on his bill.

He Should Have

LOS ANGELES, March 9 (AP) —Superior Judge Elmer D. Doyle arched an eyebrow and commented: "This must be the record—21 marriages between two people."

Before him yesterday were Mrs. Beverly Avery, 46, and her 13th ex-husband, Raymond J. O'Malley, 41. Mrs. Avery's 14th mate, Gabriel Avery, 46, was with her when she sought $233 back alimony from O'Malley, who informed the court she had been his seventh bride. He said he would pay up and that he never would marry again.

"You mean you've had it?" queried the court.

"I've had it," O'Malley solemnly replied.

Demo-Controlled House Group Puts Budget Cutting Back In Ike's Lap

WASHINGTON, March 9 (UP) The Democratic-controlled House Appropriations Committee Friday threw back to President Eisenhower the issue of cutting his $71.8 billion record peace-time budget.

The committee, by a 22-12 party-line vote, adopted a resolution calling on the President to say where and by how much he thinks his fiscal 1958 spending outlay can be reduced.

At the same time the House Government Operations Committee weighed a resolution demanding the President submit a new budget of no more than $60 billion.

Mr. Eisenhower submitted the budget in January and tacitly invited the legislators to cut it if they could. They have been doing that but to no appreciable extent. They made clear Friday that they believed it was an administration responsibility.

However, the Appropriations Committee followed its own recommendations and took a third slice out of the budget. It ordered a 23 per cent cut in a spending bill for the White House and various minor agencies.

The committee previously had recommended, and the House approved, a 2 per cent cut in funds for the treasury and post office, and a 12 per cent reduction in Interior Department money. But in dollars, the committee cuts amounted to only $146 million.

Other developments as the budget-cutting drive picked up speed:

Chairman Howard W. Smith (D-Va.) of the House Rules Committee suggested Congress take the lead in the economy drive by halting work on multi-million dollar capitol construction program. It calls for new offices for House and Senate members.

AGENCIES SIT TIGHT

Some congressmen warned Mr. Eisenhower that unless he stopped talking about cuts some of his major legislation would be killed in the snowballing economy drive. They cited foreign aid and school aid construction.

A United Press spot survey of federal agencies produced no evidence that they were considering any cuts. The check was made after Mr. Eisenhower said Thursday he had ordered a new review of federal spending plans to see if reductions could be made.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.), leader of the Senate economy bloc, called on Budget Director Percival F. Brundage to "justify" the new budget. Byrd, in a letter, asked Brundage to specify the conditions that call for "an increase in spending of $7 billion more than in 1955."

Three American Boys Vanish In Cuba; May Be With Rebels

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP) — Three teen-age American boys have disappeared from homes of their parents on a U. S. Navy base in Cuba, presumably to join a group of Cuban rebels, the State Department said yesterday.

Officials at the State and Navy departments expressed concern for the youngsters, fearing that if it is true they have joined a rebel band in the Cuban mountains, they might get involved in a clash between the anti-government group and Cuban soldiers.

The youngsters disappeared from the Navy base at Guatanamo, in the eastern end of the Cuban republic. The rebel band is reported hiding in the Sierra Maestra Mounts, not far away. Cuban officials have said the rebel group is small, and is being hunted down.

The Navy said the missing boys are Victor Buehlman, 17; Charles E. Ryan Jr., 17, and Michael Garvey, 15.

The Navy said they were listed as dependents of James J. Garvey, chief machinist mate, 14 Carroll St., Watertown, Mass.; Charles E. Ryan Sr., hospitalman first class, 7 Lemon Rd., Monson, Mass., and Cmdr. Joseph Buehlman, 352 Pomona Ave., Coronado, Calif.

The State Department said the U. S. Embassy in Havana had advised Cuban police and Cuban authorities of disappearances of the boys, and circulated descriptions of them.

Officials here said they had no information as to why it was assumed the boys had joined the rebels, except that reports from Cuba gave that explanation.

TODAY'S ASSIGNMENT FOR:

FRIENDS OF THE FAMILY
6. Snow White the Mouse

Tommy had a white mouse which he named Snow White. The mouse had little pink feet and ears and a long, almost hairless pink tail.

It was a fearless little mouse who ran around the house, in and out of boxes, up and down the chair legs, and even climbed up the clock, like the mouse in the nursery rhyme, Hickory Dickory Dock. If the clock struck while he was on it he went scurrying down in haste.

Paste this page on cardboard and color with crayons. The clock is brown with a light blue dial. Cut out the parts carefully. Cut the slit down the front of the clock. Fold back the sides of the clock on the dash lines and the clock will stand.

Fold the halves of the mouse forward at the dotted lines marked "F". Fold back at the dotted lines marked "B". Then paste the two inside parts of the mouse together. The base will be flat. Make two holes in this and tie a string into each end so that you can pull the mouse up or down the clock.

Slip the mouse into the slit of the clock from the back. The base will then hold the mouse at right angles to the clock and can be pulled up and down by the strings in the base from the back.

Bakery Workers Conflict Erupts In Washington

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP) —A new conflict erupted in the Bakery and Confectionery Workers International Union today with the suspension of its insurgent secretary-treasurer, Curtis R. Sims.

Sims, appealing to AFL-CIO President George Meany, was promised an inquiry into his charge that the 160,000-member bakery workers union "is dominated by a corrupt influence in the person of its president, James G. Cross."

Meany issued this one-sentence statement: "The charges will be taken up by the Ethical Practices Committee next Friday."

Last night Sims lost his fight, in a closed-door meeting of the union's General Executive Board, to bring about the ouster of Cross and Vice President George Stuart, on grounds of misconduct and misuse of union funds.

Continuing the meeting into the small hours of this morning, the 20-member board then ordered Sims suspended on charges brought by Cross. It set a trial date of March 27 in Miami Beach, Fla.

Sims himself broke this news to reporters, saying he had learned of it by the union "grapevine" but had not yet been notified officially. Cross later verified the suspension saying Sims has been barred from the union premises.

Sims spread before the reporters documents which he said were the basis of his case against Cross and Stuart. Copies have been furnished to Meany, he said, and will be presented to the AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Committee.

The charges, of which Cross and Stuart were acquitted by their union board, included these allegations:

That Cross diverted union property to his "personal pleasures and uses" and maintained "an intimate relationship with a person of ill fame and criminal repute and record;" that Cross and Stuart abused their trusteeship of local unions "for their own unwarranted financial gain and profit"; and that Cross "falsely denied" to the union's convention last October he had participated in a violent disorder in a San Francisco hotel which led to a grand jury investigation but no indictments.

The AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Committee has no authority to remove any union's officials but can recommend to the AFL-CIO Executive Council that a union be "disaffiliated."

EGYPT HINTS ACTION

Israel Seeking U. S. Aid To Prevent Ship Barring

WASHINGTON, March 9 (UP)—Israel Saturday sought U.S. support to keep Egypt from barring Israeli ships from the Suez Canal.

Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban called on acting secretary of State Christian A. Herter to discuss Egyptian hints that it will continue to forbid Israeli ships to use the vital waterway now that it is about to be reopened.

Eban told newsmen afterwards that Israel views such reports "with anxiety."

The move suggested that Israel wants swift U.S. support in the United Nations should Egypt carry out its threat.

U.S. officials said barring Israeli ships from Suez would violate at least two UN Security Council actions in 1951 and 1953.

This indicated the United States would be prepared to back UN action if Egypt formally bars Israeli shipping. But officials took a "wait - and - see" attitude until Egypt actually does so.

The chief "anxiety" mentioned by Eban was the one concerning the Suez Canal. He left no doubt that Israel will seek American support in the UN if Egypt does bar Israeli ships from the Canal.

The Israeli envoy noted that President Eisenhower, in his Feb. 20 speech to the nation, said firm action should be taken "by the society of nations" if Egypt barred Israeli ships from either Suez or the Gulf of Aqaba.

Eban was informed that the United States doubts Egypt will carry out its threat. Egypt has agreed to "free and open transit . . . without discrimination" in the canal, officials said, although it may use some excuse to keep Israeli ships out. If it does, this would violate the Oct. 13 UN security council approval of six principles for operating the canal which include the non-discriminatory principle of free passage.

Officials said a 1951 security council order to Egypt to quit barring Israeli ships from the canal also would be violated.

Diplomats hinted that Egypt may permit the International Court of Justice to decide whether it has the right to bar Israeli ships.

Israeli ships have been barred in the past on grounds no peace treaty was concluded in 1949. Egypt claims that article 10 of the 1888 Suez treaty gives it the right to bar the canal to its enemies. Under this reasoning Egypt still regards Israel as a belligerent power.

The United States disagrees with Egypt, and fully supports Israeli's right to use both the canal and the Gulf of Aqaba.

Three Missing West Monroe Girls Located

Three W. Monroe girls who have been the object of an intensive search this past week, were located about noon Saturday in Miami Beach, Fla.

Miami police located the three girls after being alerted by the Ouachita parish sheriff's department.

A 22-year-old A.W.O.L. air force man Julio Frankles was arrested by Miami officers on three warrants issued by the Ouachita parish sheriff's office charging him with contributing to the delinquency of juveniles.

The three girls were identified as Janice Redmond, 15, Carolyn Ann O'Neal, 14, and Ruth Wiley, 16.

Frankles was reported to have two aliases. They are Julius C. Jaucott and Josa Hernendic.

Frankles was arrested in Miami proper and the three girls in Miami Beach.

Parents of the three girls left here late Saturday to return them to their homes.

Columbia Journal Cites Press Meet

Columbia University's "The School Press Review," official organ of the Columbia Scholastic Press Association, recently ran an article concerning the coming the high school press conference to be held at Neville on March 22.

The Columbia journal gave a brief resume of the North Louisiana Press meet, stating that the Sizzler, Neville student newspaper, was the sponsor and that CSPA has given background information concerning past Louisiana press meetings. The news-magazine praised the work of the Sizzler and wished it luck in its venture.

The Neville meeting is expected to attract representatives of about a dozen of the larger schools of North Louisiana, according to the latest information received from the inividual institutions. Purpose of the conference is to give high school journalists an insight on the latest developments in scholastic journalism and to try to form a North Louisiana Press association, according to the convention head, Sammy R. Danna of the Neville faculty.

If an association is possible, its functions will be to unite its members and to offer them critical service on their publications and sponsor contests to determine outstanding school publications. A tentative schedule has already been prepared and sent to the schools that have indicated they will attend.

Various Monroe News - Star-World editorial, business and printing personnel have been invited to participate in the actual operation of discussions. Several representatives of large printing and photographic firms from Arkansas and Texas have been invited to impart information on yearbook production.

At least one local printer will be on hand to give the delegates an idea of how a smaller printing concern is operated in contrast to a larger unit. Neville students of journalism and several other high school journalists from North Louisiana are expected to give panel discussions or talks on some particular phase of newspaper or yearbook work.

Schools which have indicated they tentatively plan to attend the Neville meet include: Bolton of Alexandria, Byrd of Shreveport, West Monroe, Natchitoches, Winnfield, Calhoun, Bossier, Collinston, Pineville, Minden and possibly a number of others, according to the latest information received by the Sizzler staff.

IN THE SUN

Demo Whip Urges Ike To Take Rest

WASHINGTON, March 9 (UP)—Senate Democratic whip Mike Mansfield Saturday urged President Eisenhower to take an immediate rest in the sun to avoid endangering "his health and our security."

The Montana Democrat told the United Press that Mr. Eisenhower "should not take chances with his health.

"He is too important a man," Mansfield said. "So much is wrapped up in his personal prestige, and the western world depends on him so much, that he should not take chances which might endanger his health and our security."

The White House announced Friday that Mr. Eisenhower is considering going to Florida next week to see if the sun and a rest there will help him shake off a persistent cough and a related cold and ear infection.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty told reporters Saturday the President will wait until Monday to make a final decision on the trip.

If he does go, he will leave on Tuesday. Hagerty had a detailed map of Florida on his desk as he talked.

Hagerty reported the President was still suffering Saturday from the "slight head cold and a slight inflammation of that eustacian (ear) tube."

"He's fine with the exception of those irritating things," he said.

Despite his ailments, the President worked at his desk for three hours Saturday morning. He arrived at 8:20 a. m. (EST), chatted with two callers—Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.) and the Senate chaplain, the Rev. Frederick Brown Harris — and then signed the Middle East Doctrine resolution.

The President had a spell of coughing just after the signing ceremony but otherwise appeared in good spirits and joked with photographers who crowded around his desk.

The cotton that Mr. Eisenhower had in his left ear at his news conference Thursday for treatment of the inflammation there was missing Saturday.

Mansfield urged that the President definitely make the trip south. He said now that the Middle East resolution has cleared Congress and gone into effect, the President should take "a good rest in the sun" before leaving later in the month for Bermuda to confer with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan

Wheel Chair Drivers May Need License

SACRAMENTO, Mar. 9 (AP)— If you drive a motorized wheel chair — be you invalid or healthy — you would need a driver's license under a bill approved by the Assembly Transportation and Commerce Committee.

The author, Assemblyman Lee Backstrand, told the committee he saw one rolling furiously along the Hollywood Freeway and "it scared me."

Fred Williams, chief of the State Division of Driver's Licenses, said healthy drivers who have lost their licenses for various offenses have used power chairs and invalid tricycles.

Knowland Fears Aid To Poland Opening 'Wedge'

WASHINGTON, March 9 (UP)—Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland voiced fear Saturday that U.S. aid to Poland would be the "opening wedge for a Communist Marshall Plan" for Russian satellites.

He said the aid should be conditioned on a show of Polish independence from the Soviet Union. Among other ways, he said, this could be done by negotiating a withdrawal of Russian occupation forces.

"On the basis of the facts available to me now, I'm opposed to it (a Polish aid program)," he said.

He revealed that he made his views known to both the White House and the State Department.

He talked to reporters about the negotiations now under way in which Polish envoys are seeking grain, cotton and mining machinery. These requests have carried indicated price tags of $100 to $300 million although the administration was reported to be thinking in much smaller terms.

Knowland predicted "considerable opposition" on a number of counts from Congress.

"First of all," he said, "if the Soviet Union is presently withdrawing food and other commodities from Poland, as some believe, we would be filling in part of the gap and giving indirect aid to the Soviet Union.

On the other hand, he said, if Russia is putting goods into Poland, aid from the United States would relieve her of that "drain" and permit diversion of Soviet resources to woo uncommitted free nations.

Knowland said the basis for any U.S. aid to Poland would be that the present government is independent of Russia. Yet just a week ago, he said, Poland voted in the United Nations for a Soviet resolution charging the United States with intervention in the domestic affairs of Communist nations, including Poland itself. If Poland were truly independent, he added, it could at least have abstained.

State Police Report

Members of Troop "F" of the state police arrested seven persons for driving while intoxicated and 68 for lesser offenses during the past week.

Charged with drunk driving were: George H. Stephens, 26, Route 3, Jonesboro; Mose Jones, 65, Negro, Route 1 Calhoun; Donald L. Camp, 27, Vicksburg, Miss.; Henry A. Deal, 51, Monroe; Douglas B. Eason, 21, Oak Grove; Wallace P. Edmonds, 25, Emelle, Ala. and David Turner Jr., 25, Negro, Sterlington.

State troopers charged 24 with reckless driving, 14 with speeding, seven with no driver's license, one with improper brakes, one with no vehicle license, one with oversize load, two with vagrancy, and six with disturbing the peace.

Reds Said Not Included In Indonesia Plan

JAKARTA, March 9 (UP)—Jakarta newspapers said Saturday the military revolt in East Indonesia has forced President Sukarno to discard plans for including the Communists in a new "mutual help" government.

But Sukarno is reported determined to seat Reds on the National Council which would "advise" the government under his "guided Democracy" program.

Palace sources said Sukarno would confer Monday with former vice president Mohammad Hatta, an adamant anti-Communist who is opposed to Sukarno's program to end "Western - style" government in Indonesia.

According to these sources, Sukarno would announce the revisions in his plan after the meeting with Hatta. Hatta resigned after political differences with Sukarno.

The major Indonesian religious parties already have rejected the Sukarno plan. It was also denounced by the military leaders of the revolt against Jakarta central authority last weekend in East Indonesia.

Both the religious parties and the East Indonesian Revolutionary Council have demanded Hatta's inclusion in any new government. The Communists are determined to keep him out.

EGYPT HINTS ACTION

Israel Seeking U. S. Aid To Prevent Ship Barring

WASHINGTON, March 9 (UP)—Israel Saturday sought U.S. support to keep Egypt from barring Israeli ships from the Suez Canal.

Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban called on acting secretary of State Christian A. Herter to discuss Egyptian hints that it will continue to forbid Israeli ships to use the vital waterway now that it is about to be reopened.

Eban told newsmen afterwards that Israel views such reports "with anxiety."

The move suggested that Israel wants swift U.S. support in the United Nations should Egypt carry out its threat.

U.S. officials said barring Israeli ships from Suez would violate at least two UN Security Council actions in 1951 and 1955.

This indicated the United States would be prepared to back UN action if Egypt formally bars Israeli shipping. But officials took a "wait - and - see" attitude until Egypt actually does so.

The chief "anxiety" mentioned by Eban was the one concerning the Suez Canal. He left no doubt that Israel will seek American support in the UN if Egypt does bar Israeli ships from the Canal.

The Israeli envoy noted that President Eisenhower, in his Feb. 20 speech to the nation, said firm action should be taken "by the society of nations" if Egypt barred Israeli ships from either Suez or the Gulf of Aqaba.

Eban was informed that the United States doubts Egypt will carry out its threat. Egypt has agreed to "free and open transit . . . without discrimination" in the canal, officials said, although it may use some excuse to keep Israeli ships out. If it does, this would violate the Oct. 13 UN security council approval of six principles for operating the canal which include the non-discriminatory principle of free passage.

Officials said a 1951 security council order to Egypt to quit barring Israeli ships from the canal also would be violated.

Diplomats hinted that Egypt may permit the International Court of Justice to decide whether it has the right to bar Israeli ships.

Israeli ships have been barred in the past on grounds no peace treaty was concluded in 1949. Egypt claims that article 10 of the 1888 Suez treaty gives it the right to bar the canal to its enemies. Under this reasoning Egypt still regards Israel as a belligerent power.

The United States disagrees with Egypt, and fully supports Israeli's right to use both the canal and the Gulf of Aqaba.

Three Missing West Monroe Girls Located

Three W. Monroe girls who have been the object of an intensive search this past week, were located about noon Saturday in Miami Beach, Fla.

Miami police located the three girls after being alerted by the Ouachita parish sheriff's department.

A 22-year-old A.W.O.L. air force man Julio Frankles was arrested by Miami officers on three warrants issued by the Ouachita parish sheriff's office charging him with contributing to the delinquency of juveniles.

The three girls were identified as Janice Redmond, 15, Carolyn Ann O'Neal, 14, and Ruth Wiley, 16.

Frankles was reported to have two aliases. They are Julius C. Jaucott and Josa Hernendic.

Frankles was arrested in Miami proper and the three girls in Miami Beach.

Parents of the three girls left here late Saturday to return them to their homes.

Columbia Journal Cites Press Meet

Columbia University's "The School Press Review," official organ of the Columbia Scholastic Press Association, recently ran an article concerning the coming the high school press conference to be held at Neville on March 22.

The Columbia journal gave a brief resume of the North Louisiana Press meet, stating that the Sizzler, Neville student newspaper, was the sponsor and that CSPA has given background information concerning past Louisiana press meetings. The news-magazine praised the work of the Sizzler and wished it luck in its venture.

The Neville meeting is expected to attract representatives of about a dozen of the larger schools of North Louisiana, according to the latest information received from the inividual institutions. Purpose of the conference is to give high school journalists an insight on the latest developments in scholastic journalism and to try to form a North Louisiana Press association, according to the convention head, Sammy R. Danna of the Neville faculty.

If an association is possible, its functions will be to unite its members and to offer them critical service on their publications and sponsor contests to determine outstanding school publications. A tentative schedule has already been prepared and sent to the schools that have indicated they will attend.

Various Monroe News - Star--World editorial, business and printing personnel have been invited to participate in the actual operation of discussions. Several representatives of large printing and photographic firms from Arkansas and Texas have been invited to impart information on yearbook production.

At least one local printer will be on hand to give the delegates an idea of how a smaller printing concern is operated in contrast to a larger unit. Neville students of journalism and several other high school journalists from North Louisiana are expected to give panel discussions or talks on some particular phase of newspaper or yearbook work.

Schools which have indicated they tentatively plan to attend the Neville meet include: Bolton of Alexandria, Byrd of Shreveport, West Monroe, Natchitoches, Winnfield, Calhoun, Bossier, Collinston, Pineville, Minden and possibly a number of others, according to the latest information received by the Sizzler staff.

IN THE SUN

Demo Whip Urges Ike To Take Rest

WASHINGTON, March 9 (UP)—Senate Democratic whip Mike Mansfield Saturday urged President Eisenhower to take an immediate rest in the sun to avoid endangering "his health and our security."

The Montana Democrat told the United Press that Mr. Eisenhower "should not take chances with his health.

"He is too important a man," Mansfield said. "So much is wrapped up in his personal prestige, and the western world depends on him so much, that he should not take chances which might endanger his health and our security."

The White House announced Friday that Mr. Eisenhower is considering going to Florida next week to see if the sun and a rest there will help him shake off a persistent cough and a related cold and ear infection.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty told reporters Saturday the President will wait until Monday to make a final decision on the trip.

If he does go, he will leave on Tuesday. Hagerty had a detailed map of Florida on his desk as he talked.

Hagerty reported the President was still suffering Saturday from the "slight head cold and a slight inflammation of that eustacian (ear) tube."

"He's fine with the exception of those irritating things," he said.

Despite his ailments, the President worked at his desk for three hours Saturday morning. He arrived at 8:20 a. m. (EST), chatted with two callers—Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.) and the Senate chaplain, the Rev. Frederick Brown Harris — and then signed the Middle East Doctrine resolution.

The President had a spell of coughing just after the signing ceremony but otherwise appeared in good spirits and joked with photographers who crowded around his desk.

The cotton that Mr. Eisenhower had in his left ear at his news conference Thursday for treatment of the inflammation there was missing Saturday.

Mansfield urged that the President definitely make the trip south. He said now that the Middle East resolution has cleared Congress and gone into effect, the President should take "a good rest in the sun" before leaving later in the month for Bermuda to confer with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan

Wheel Chair Drivers May Need License

SACRAMENTO, Mar. 9 (UP)— If you drive a motorized wheel chair — be you invalid or healthy — you would need a driver's license under a bill approved by the Assembly Transportation and Commerce Committee.

The author, Assemblyman Lee Backstrand, told the committee he saw one rolling furiously along the Hollywood Freeway and "it scared me."

Fred Williams, chief of the State Division of Driver's Licenses, said healthy drivers who have lost their licenses for various offenses have used power chairs and invalid tricycles.

Skunk cabbage, often the first plant of spring, takes its name from the odor released when it is bruised. Rushing the sason, the herb grows up through frozen ground, sometimes pushing aside snow.

SMOOCH OF APPROVAL—"Nannie," pet goat of eight-year-old Charles Downs of Clear Springs, Md., bestows a buss of gratitude on the cheek of her young master for his gentle handling of her day-old quadruplets. Nannie has a feeding problem since nature provided her with facilities for feeding only two kids at a time. But the quads, rather rare statistically, have worked out their own rotation system for patronizing the family milk bar. (AP Wirephoto)

Knowland Fears Aid To Poland Opening 'Wedge'

WASHINGTON, March 9 (UP)—Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland voiced fear Saturday that U.S. aid to Poland would be the "opening wedge for a Communist Marshall Plan" for Russian satellites.

He said the aid should be conditioned on a show of Polish independence from the Soviet Union. Among other ways, he said, this could be done by negotiating a withdrawal of Russian occupation forces.

"On the basis of the facts available to me now, I'm opposed to it (a Polish aid program)," he said.

He revealed that he made his views known to both the White House and the State Department.

He talked to reporters about the negotiations now under way in which Polish envoys are seeking grain, cotton and mining machinery. These requests have carried indicated price tags of $100 to $300 million although the administration was reported to be thinking in much smaller terms.

Knowland predicted "considerable opposition" on a number of counts from Congress.

"First of all," he said, "if the Soviet Union is presently withdrawing food and other commodities from Poland, as some believe, we would be filling in part of the gap and giving indirect aid to the Soviet Union.

On the other hand, he said, if Russia is putting goods into Poland, aid from the United States would relieve her of that "drain" and permit diversion of Soviet resources to woo uncommitted free nations.

Knowland said the basis for any U.S. aid to Poland would be that the present government is independent of Russia. Yet just a week ago, he said, Poland voted in the United Nations for a Soviet resolution charging the United States with intervention in the domestic affairs of Communist nations, including Poland itself. If Poland were truly independent, he added, it could at least have abstained.

State Police Report

Members of Troop "F" of the state police arrested seven persons for driving while intoxicated and 68 for lesser offenses during the past week.

Charged with drunk driving were: George H. Stephens, 26, Route 3, Jonesboro; Mose Jones, 65, Negro, Route 1 Calhoun; Donald L. Camp, 27, Vicksburg, Miss.; Henry A. Deal, 51, Monroe; Douglas B. Eason, 21, Oak Grove; Wallace P. Edmonds, 25, Emelle, Ala. and David Turner Jr., 25, Negro, Sterlington.

State troopers charged 24 with reckless driving, 14 with speeding, seven with no driver's license, one with improper brakes, one with no vehicle license, one with oversize load, two with vagrancy, and six with disturbing the peace.

Reds Said Not Included In Indonesia Plan

JAKARTA, March 9 (UP)—Jakarta newspapers said Saturday the military revolt in East Indonesia has forced President Sukarno to discard plans for including the Communists in a new "mutual help" government.

But Sukarno is reported determined to seat Reds on the National Council which would "advise" the government under his "guided Democracy" program.

Palace sources said Sukarno would confer Monday with former vice president Mohammad Hatta, an adamant anti-Communist who is opposed to Sukarno's program to end "Western - style" government in Indonesia.

According to these sources, Sukarno would announce the revisions in his plan after the meeting with Hatta. Hatta resigned after political differences with Sukarno.

The major Indonesian religious parties already have rejected the Sukarno plan. It was also denounced by the military leaders of the revolt against Jakarta central authority last weekend in East Indonesia.

Both the religious parties and the East Indonesian Revolutionary Council have demanded Hatta's inclusion in any new government. The Communists are determined to keep him out.

Weaver Raps South In His Testimony

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP) — Lamar Weaver, a Birmingham prointegrationist, said in a statement for a Senate subcommittee today that he was mobbed and kicked after a racial incident at the Birmingham railroad terminal last Wednesday.

In his short statement filed with the Judiciary subcommittee on constitutional rights, Weaver said "violence and mob rule are king" in the South. "When you cross the Mason-Dixon line into the South you enter a foreign country," he said.

The subcommittee ended hearings Thursday on proposed civil rights legislation.

Rep. Huddleston (D-Ala.- called the affair related by Weaver a "put-up incident," designed to smear the South.

Weaver said he had been a candidate for public improvements commissioner in Birmingham, running on a prointegration ticket.

"After announcing my prointegration stand, I received threats not only to my life but to the life of individual members of my family," he said.

"My family left the city of Birmingham and I, myself, have had to leave the state of Alabama."

Weaver said he has withdrawn from the contest.

Weaver said he was kicked and mobbed after he went to the terminal to see the Rev. F. L. Shuttleworth and his wife, a Negro couple, off on a trip. The Shuttleworths sat in the "white and interstate" section of the waiting rooms and Weaver talked and shook hands with them.

When he left to go to his parked automobile, Weaver said he was "mobbed, kicked and struck with suitcase" and that his car was rocked "by an angry mob" which he said numbered between 50 and 100.

A crowd had gathered outside the terminal when word spread that the Shuttleworths planned to sit in the white waiting room.

Weaver was fined $25 on traffic charges growing out of his flight from the crowd.

Asserting that some Alabama counties have no registered Negro voters, Weaver's statement said, "Every obstacle devised by man is used to prevent Negroes from registering."

Huddleston, in a statement also submitted to the subcommittee, said, "This unfortunate racial incident . . . was precipitated by Mr. Weaver himself, who acted in the face of enraged tempers and certain violence."

Huddleston said, "This incident was carefully conceived and deliberately executed with full knowledge of the probable results." He added:

"When Mr. Weaver states . . . that mob rule is king, he is speaking from a personal viewpoint. To say the least, he is not overly popular in his home town."

Civil War Vet Returns Home After Surgery

PENSACOLA, Fla., March 9 (AP) —Feeling "like a racehorse," 109-year-old William A. (Uncle Bill) Lundy, Civil War veteran, went home today four days after he was operated on to correct an infection of his prostate gland.

His physician said his "condition was fine." Lundy went to his home near Laurel Hill, Fla., in an ambulance. The physician said the ambulance wasn't necessary, but that a Pensacola firm wanted to provide it as a favor.

Lundy told friends:

"I'm just like a racehorse, feeling good and going wherever they carry me."

The physician had said after the Monday operation that Lundy was "in amazingly excellent condition for his age."

Lundy was a member of the home guard at Elba, Ala., in the final days of the war.

TO HELP THEM—The Carolyn Rose Strauss Rehabilitation Center, located on Oliver Road, will open on April 1 to aid children who are physically handicapped.

FOR REHABILITATION

Center Will Open In Monroe Soon

By YVONNE HERRON
State Editor

The Carolyn Rose Strauss Rehabilitation center will begin operation on April 1.

The rehabilitation center, located on Oliver road, will serve all physically disabled persons from the fifth congressional district, including both children and adults.

Realization of the center was made possible with a $60,000 donation from the Carolyn Rose Strauss Foundation. The federal government matched the Strauss donation with $60,000 under the Hill - Burton act.

PROVISION CITED

A provision of the federal act provided that matching funds for the government grant had to be available before the federal money would be forthcoming.

The center will be administered by the Ouachita Parish Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Inc. The Ouachita unit made the application for the center and board members have worked for a number of years to establish the institution to aid the physically handicapped.

Mrs. Marion Kirk Fisher is executive director of the center and both ambulatory and wheelchair patients will be handled as well as those able to secure services themselves.

Approximately 8,000 feet of floor space is encompassed in the rehabilitation center building.

VARIOUS DEPARTMENTS

Included in this area are the following departments: administration, examination and admission, brace, radiology, interview and counseling, speech therapy, occupational therapy, physical therapy and service.

There will be a permanent as well as a visiting staff operating at the center. The professional staff will aid individuals in obtaining their utmost capacity over physical defects and in some respects gain self support.

In order to operate the center, a large number of pledges and cash donations have come from people throughout this area as well as donations of furniture and supplies. In 1955 the Junior Charity League gave all proceeds from their annual follies for the center.

On March 31 the center will be open to the public from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Arrangements will be completed in th near future for ceremonies on the opening day. Following the dedication day the center will be open for treatment of patients.

State Received Early Assistance On Roads

Survey Run On 'Worst' One In 1907

By RECA JASPER
Staff Writer

Federal aid is in the spotlight these days with a multi-billion dollar road program underway. But it is old stuff to Louisianans.

We are probably the first state to have "government men" down to help supervise our road building. It occurred in July, 1907—nine years before congress enacted the Federal Aid Road Act.

The act laid the foundation for the co-operative Federal State Highway program in existence. In fact, it is the "road bed" for the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1956 which authorizes $24.8 bill for a 13-year Interstate road building program.

A super duper highway, with an ultra modern bridge spanning the Ouachita River, will be routed through the Twin Cities area.

MUDDY ROADS

Fifty years ago, when the rains came in winter, country folks stayed at home because the knee-deep muddy roads were impassable. When city people ventured forth for a shopping trip, they could expect to return home mud splattered from head to foot.

Of all Louisiana's bad roads, the one running through Canal Bayou swamp east of Tallulah must have been the worst possible.

Here's the description A. L. Slack used in an article:

"Imagine the worst road in the whole round world; one stretchin through buckshot or gumbo soil, in wet weather, mushy and boggy, in dry weather seamed with great ruts and scars in its entire length, filled here and there with stagnant water; plowed into by narrow-tired vehicles and ragged, unkept and hideous in all its deformity, and you have some conception of what such a road was."

Two "government men" as Slack identifies them, came down from Washington in July, 1907, to survey this "worst road in the whole round world" and see if perhaps they could pull the vehicles out of the gumbo soil.

"BURNT ROADS"

After scrutinizing the situation, conferring with state and parish officials, they came with a revolutionary method. They termed it "burnt roads."

The end results was somewhat like today's concrete highways. And cars could pass over them even in rainy winters.

The workmen were concerned that the cost might be prohibitive The work cost a estimated $2,000 a mile. No doubt they would be left gasping if they knew that just 50 years later the lowest possible cost for building a mile of concrete road would be $58,000 more. Or a total of $60,000 a mile.

Slack described the construction method thus:

Road crews first graded the road bed, leaving ditches open on each side so as to carry off the water. The next step, was to cut ditches four or five feet apart crosswise of the road. These trenches are filled with "great quantities" of wood. Crews then threw dirt atop the wood "to a depth of fully two or three feet."

METHOD DESCRIBED

"When everything is ready, crude petroleum is poured over the wood, and whoosh, there she burns. Soon the heat mass begins to do its work in the development of what you might call undeveloped and irregular mud bricks. The dirt crystalizes into heavy congealed lumps and is tough and hard, much like hard rubber. This mass, being a veritable kiln, will burn for fully 48 hours. The experts said it was better to burn when the earth was wet than dry—the dampness seeming to produce a better quality of earth than when dry. Rain has no effect on the fires after they are started. In fact, the moisture is an advantage.

The depth of burned dirt is about two feet. This forms almost a concrete mass, which does not have the faculty of sinking as the same quality of gravel does.

The main headache to the system, experts said, was the cost. It cost an estimated $2,000 a mile. The men would be dumbfounded at the rock bottom cost of building a mile of concrete road today, sans the usual bayou bridges. It is a mere $60,000 for a single mile.

The burnt road, as it became commonly known, started about one mile west of Tallulah. The road remained in good condition until 1923 when it was rerouted.

Only the perceptive eye of a trained photographer caught the possibility in this common sight-interesting when pictured like this.

Greg Hare, chief photographer of the News-Star—World shot this unusual angle of a television transmitting tower. The pattern created by the dark side of the steel bars against the contrasting shades of the sky give this picture a "3-D" look, making one feel that the tower itself moves with the sky.

Many of us pass by this structure daily yet fail to catch this intimate view. So it will be with a number of amateur shutterbugs this coming vacation season, if we fail to sharpen our eyes for those unusual shots along the way

Speaking of vacation time brings these reminders.

If one plans on visiting the capital city March 21 through 31 is the date for the second Biennial International Photographic Exposition in the National Armory. Also one should remember the Cherry Blossom Festival Amateur Photo Contest March 15 through April 15. One shouldn't forget the color film — capture all that beauty.

Florida is a state made to order for amateur photography. Fabulous beaches and unique attractions like the seaquarium and the parrot jungle provide exciting picture subjects. With the famous bright Florida sunlight, it might be well to keep a watch on your F-stops. It has been advisable to go down at least one stop to compensate for the brightness.

Assistant Agent Takes Over Job

LAKE PROVIDENCE, March 9 (Special) — Thomas Excell Hankins has assumed his duties as assistant county agent in East Carroll parish, according to C. A. Rose, county agent.

Hankins, a native of West Carroll Parish, came to Lake Providence from Caldwell Parish where he served the last two and a half years as assistant agent. He is a graduate of Pioneer High School and received a B. S. degree from Louisiana State University in agriculture. He is presently enrolled in the LSU graduate school working toward a master's degree

As assistant agent in East Carroll, Hankins will have charge of the farm and home development program.

N. S. C. Annual Science Fair Set

NATCHITOCHES, March 9 (Special) — Less than a week off, the Northwestern State College third annual regional science fair will be held here on Saturday. An unprecedented number of elementary and high school students are expected to enter the special event, designed to stimulate interest in various scientific fields of study.

Entries are already pouring into the Northwestern science fair headquarters, headed by Dr. Alan Crosby of the college chemistry faculty and chairman of the NSC science fair committee.

Winners of various local and parishwide science fairs in Louisiana will be among those entering exhibits and papers in the NSC festival. One of the biggest local science fairs in the eleven-parish area was held at Natchitoches High School recently under the direction of John A. Manning, science teacher there and one of the most enthusiastic science fair supporters in the state.

As in the past, this year's regional fair is being sponsored by the Louisiana Academy of Sciences in cooperation with the college. Awards will be given to outstanding exhibits in biology, physics, chemistry, electronics, earth sciences, social sciences and mathematics.

Entrants will come from Red River, DeSoto, Sabine, Natchitoches, LaSalle, Catahoula, Concordia, Vernon, Rapides, Grant and Avoyelles parishes.

A TRIBUTE TO THE FARMER

From the soil comes the sustenance of the world. From the hard working man who tills the soil comes the fruits of Nature in bountiful array. God loves the Farmer, someone has said, because he is in such close communion with the good earth. He plows it He plants it. He worries over it. And lo, then his smiling fields are lush and abundant with tassels, tomatoes and all the things we eat. Fat cows and porkers give us milk and meat. nd Mrs. Farmer has chickens and turkeys for the market. Without the Farmer there would be no life or living. TO HELP THEM—The Carolyn Rose Strauss Rehabilitation Center, located on Oliver Road, will open on April 1 to aid children who are physically handicapped.

FOR REHABILITATION

Center Will Open In Monroe Soon

By YVONNE HERRON
State Editor

The Carolyn Rose Strauss Rehabilitation center will begin operation on April 1.

The rehabilitation center, located on Oliver road, will serve all physically disabled persons from the fifth congressional district, including both children and adults.

Realization of the center was made possible with a $60,000 donation from the Carolyn Rose Strauss Foundation. The federal government matched the Strauss donation with $60,000 under the Hill - Burton act.

PROVISION CITED

A provision of the federal act provided that matching funds for the government grant had to be available before the federal money would be forthcoming.

The center will be administered by the Ouachita Parish Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Inc. The Ouachita unit made the application for the center and board members have worked for a number of years to establish the institution to aid the physically handicapped.

Mrs. Marion Kirk Fisher is executive director of the center and both ambulatory and wheelchair patients will be handled as well as those able to secure services themselves.

Approximately 8,000 feet of floor space is encompassed in the rehabilitation center building.

VARIOUS DEPARTMENTS

Included in this area are the following departments: administration, examination and admission, brace, radiology, interview and counseling, speech therapy, occupational therapy, physical therapy and service.

There will be a permanent as well as a visiting staff operating at the center. The professional staff will aid individuals in obtaining their utmost capacity over physical defects and in some respects gain self support.

In order to operate the center, a large number of pledges and cash donations have come from people throughout this area as well as donations of furniture and supplies. In 1955 the Junior Charity League gave all proceeds from their annual follies for the center.

On March 31 the center will be open to the public from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Arrangements will be completed in th near future for ceremonies on the opening day. Following the dedication day the center will be open for treatment of patients.

State Received Early Assistance On Roads

Survey Run On 'Worst' One In 1907

By RECA JASPER
Staff Writer

Federal aid is in the spotlight these days with a multi-billion dollar road program underway. But it is old stuff to Louisianans.

We are probably the first state to have "government men" down to help supervise our road building. It occurred in July, 1907—nine years before congress enacted the Federal Aid Road Act.

The act laid the foundation for the co-operative Federal State Highway program in existence. In fact, it is the "road bed" for the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1956 which authorizes $24.8 bill for a 13-year Interstate road building program.

A super duper highway, with an ultra modern bridge spanning the Ouachita River, will be routed through the Twin Cities area.

MUDDY ROADS

Fifty years ago, when the rains came in winter, country folks stayed at home because the knee-deep muddy roads were impassable. When city people ventured forth for a shopping trip, they could expect to return home mud splattered from head to foot.

Of all Louisiana's bad roads, the one running through Canal Bayou swamp east of Tallulah must have been the worst possible.

Here's the description A. L. Slack used in an article:

"Imagine the worst road in the whole round world; one stretchin through buckshot or gumbo soil, in wet weather, mushy and boggy, in dry weather seamed with great ruts and scars in its entire length, filled here and there with stagnant water; plowed into by narrow-tired vehicles and ragged, unkept and hideous in all its deformity, and you have some conception of what such a road was."

Two "government men" as Slack identifies them, came down from Washington in July, 1907, to survey this "worst road in the whole round world" and see if perhaps they could pull the vehicles out of the gumbo soil.

"BURNT ROADS"

After scrutinizing the situation, conferring with state and parish officials, they came with a revolutionary method. They termed it "burnt roads."

The end results was somewhat like today's concrete highways. And cars could pass over them even in rainy winters.

The workmen were concerned that the cost might be prohibitive. The work cost a estimated $2,000 a mile. No doubt they would be left gasping if they knew that just 50 years later the lowest possible cost for building a mile of concrete road would be $58,000 more. Or a total of $60,000 a mile.

Covenant Church To Hear Sermons By Rev. Bracey

Rev. John W. Bracey, pastor of the Metairie Ridge Presbyterian church since 1946 will begin a series of special services at Covenant Presbyterian church in Monroe this Sunday morning. He will preach at 11 a.m. and at 7:30 p.m.

Through the week he will have services a 6:45 a.m. and a. 7:30 p.m. nightly.

The public is cordially invited to all services.

Mr. Bracey is a native of North Carolina. He is a graduate of Davidson College, Davidson, N. C. and of Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, Va.

Mr. Bracey has held two pastorates. Upon graduating from Union Seminary, he was called as pastor of the Naomi Makemie Presbyterian church on Onancock, Va. He served there until 1936.

He was called to become pastor of the Metairie Ridge Presbyterian church, Metairie, La., in 1938.

He served as a chaplain in the United States Navy during World War II. When entering the service, he offered his resignation. The congregation instead granted him a leave of absence for the duration of the war.

Faith Baptist Will Initiate Revival Here

The Faith Baptist Church, corner Jackson and Orange Streets in Monroe, will conduct revival services this week March 10-17. Rev. George E. Williamson, pastor of the Spring Creek Baptist Church of Chattanooga, Tenn., will be the visiting preacher.

The services will begin each night at 7:30. The congregation and its pastor, Rev. J. L. Florrow, cordially invites the public to attend.

Two local college students will be in charge of the music for the week. F. S. (Sonny) Fisher Jr. will lead the singing. Miss Carolyn Hankins will play the piano.

Monroe Area Will Meet In Rayville

The Rayville Methodist church will be host to the Monroe District Interboard School of Instruction Wednesday, March 13. The meeting will begin at 2:30 p.m. and will conclude at 9:00 p.m. Supper will be served at the Rayville Elementary School with Joe Kalil in charge.

The Reverend James T. Harris, Monroe district superintendent, will be in charge of the meeting. A representative of each of the General Boards of Education, Evangelism, Lay Activities and Missions will conduct a workshop comprised of chairmen of the local church commissions on education, membership and evangelism, finance, and missions, respectively.

The Reverend Karl Tooke, conference director of stewardship, will be present as the official host for the traveling personnel. A similar workshop will be held in each of the other seven districts of the Louisiana Conference of the Methodist church during the period of March 11-20.

Famous Church Evangelist To Appear Here

Evangelist Eddie Martin, one of the Southern Baptist's most popular young preachers, will lead the First Baptist church in West Monroe, in a great soul winning crusade, March 10-17.

The pastor, Rev. Jaroy Weber, urges all to come and discover why record breaking throngs — upwards of 14,000 have jammed big football stadiums, basketball coliseums, mammoth tents and the largest of church auditoriums to hear his timely messages.

States Pastor Weber: "Let God use you. Determine right now to do your best to influence someone to receive Christ as personal Saviour in this crusade.

"Earl Davis, talented tenor soloist and trumpeter, will lead the congregational singing and the large crusade choir. Hear the musical concert Saturday night. His sincere love for the Lord, winsome personality, and love for souls will capture your heart. You will hear music that will bless your soul."

Lenten Services Announced For St. Matthew's

The Lenten season which opened with Ash Wednesday and the placing of Blessed Ashes on the foreheads of the faithful, with the words "Remember man that thou art dust, and into dust thou shalt return," was begun at Saint Matthew's Catholic Church with large crowds attending the three morning masses and the evening mass.

Special Lenten services will be held throughout Lent, each Wednesday, Friday and Sunday night at 6 p.m. They will consist of a short Way of the Cross, Holy Mass, and an explanation of some Catholic Doctrine, and Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament. There will be three weekday masses each day at 6:30-7:00 and 7:30, with a special children's mass each Tuesday and Friday at 8:20 and Way of the Cross each Friday afternoon at 12:40 and 2:30 p.m. and again at 6 p.m.

Lent is a time of prayer and penance when we should come closer to God by conversation with Him and self denial and repentance for our faults.

The public is most cordially invited to attend any or all services in St. Matthew's Catholic Church, at the corner of Jackson and Grammont Streets.

Today's YOUR GUIDING STAR Message:

0. Job 11:16. You will forget your misery.
1. Gita: Prabhavananda-Isherwood. When he has no lust, no hatred, a man walks safely among the things of lust and hatred.
2. Lao Tzu; Blakney: Poem 2. He does for everything, neglecting none; and what he brings to pass depends on no one else.
3. Job 6:26. Do you think that you can reprove words, when the speech of a despairing man is kind?
4. Gita: Prabhavananda-Isherwood. Whatever a great man does, ordinary people will imitate; they will follow his example.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: I have always tried to go to Sunday School and church, but my husband refuses to go with me; and every time I ask him he gets very angry; he says he is just as good as anyone else. Should I keep on asking him, or never ask him again? F. F. D.

ANSWER: It is not always easy to answer a question such as yours without knowing more of the details in the case. But let me ask you: are you asking him to go with you, or are you nagging him? Some well - intentioned wives approach their husbands in the wrong way about such matters. The average spouse does not respond to an invitation which usually runs something like this.

"Now John, you know you ought to go to church with me so why don't you get ready and go like other husbands."

You say that he says that he is just as good as anyone else. Remember, I don't know anything about the circumstances, but could he mean you? Have you made, by your consistent example in the home, the Christian life attractive to your husband. Have you been paitent, considerate, and kind? Has he beenable to see Christ in you?

Frankly, I know of few husbands who have been able to resist for very long the influence of a consecrated, devoted, Christian wife. If you can answer that you have been faithful in your Christian testimony, then I believe that I would have a frank, serious talk with your husband about his salvation. He may be nearer the kingdom than you think.

Attend Church Today

REV. J. W. BRACEY

Covenant Church To Hear Sermons By Rev. Bracey

Rev. John W. Bracey, pastor of the Metairie Ridge Presbyterian church since 1946 will begin a series of special services at Covenant Presbyterian church in Monroe this Sunday morning. He will preach at 11 a.m. and at 7:30 p.m.

Through the week he will have services a 6:45 a.m. and at 7:30 p.m. nightly.

The public is cordially invited to all services.

Mr. Bracey is a native of North Carolina. He is a graduate of Davidson College, Davidson, N. C. and of Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, Va.

Mr. Bracey has held two pastorates. Upon graduating from Union Seminary, he was called as pastor of the Naomi Makemie Presbyterian church on Onancock, Va. He served there until 1938.

He was called to become pastor of the Metairie Ridge Presbyterian church, Metairie, La., in 1938.

He served as a chaplain in the United States Navy during World War II. When entering the service, he offered his resignation. The congregation instead granted him a leave of absence for the duration of the war.

Faith Baptist Will Initiate Revival Here

The Faith Baptist Church, corner Jackson and Orange Streets in Monroe, will conduct revival services this week March 10-17. Rev. George E. Williamson, pastor of the Spring Creek Baptist Church of Chattanooga, Tenn., will be the visiting preacher.

The services will begin each night at 7:30. The congregation and its pastor, Rev. J. L. Florrow, cordially invites the public to attend.

Two local college students will be in charge of the music for the week. F. S. (Sonny) Fisher Jr. will lead the singing. Miss Carolyn Hankins will play the piano.

Monroe Area Will Meet In Rayville

The Rayville Methodist church will be host to the Monroe District Interboard School of Instruction Wednesday, March 13. The meeting will begin at 2:30 p.m. and will conclude at 9:00 p.m. Supper will be served at the Rayville Elementary School with Joe Kalil in charge.

The Reverend James T. Harris, Monroe district superintendent, will be in charge of the meeting. A representative of each of the General Boards of Education, Evangelism, Lay Activities and Missions will conduct a workshop comprised of chairmen of the local church commissions on education, membership and evangelism, finance, and missions, respectively.

The Reverend Karl Tooke, conference director of stewardship, will be present as the official host for the traveling personnel. A similar workshop will be held in each of the other seven districts of the Louisiana Conference of the Methodist church during the period of March 11-20.

Famous Church Evangelist To Appear Here

Evangelist Eddie Martin, one of the Southern Baptist's most popular young preachers, will lead the First Baptist church in West Monroe, in a great soul winning crusade, March 10-17.

The pastor, Rev. Jaroy Weber, urges all to come and discover why record breaking throngs — upwards of 14,000 have jammed big football stadiums, basketball coliseums, mammoth tents and the largest of church auditoriums to hear his timely messages.

States Pastor Weber: "Let God use you. Determine right now to do your best to influence someone to receive Christ as personal Saviour in this crusade.

"Earl Davis, talented tenor soloist and trumpeter, will lead the congregational singing and the large crusade choir. Hear the musical concert Saturday night. His sincere love for the Lord, winsome personality, and love for souls will capture your heart. You will hear music that will bless your soul."

Lenten Services Announced For St. Matthew's

The Lenten season which opened with Ash Wednesday and the placing of Blessed Ashes on the foreheads of the faithful, with the words "Remember man that thou art dust, and into dust thou shalt return," was begun at Saint Matthew's Catholic Church with large crowds attending the three morning masses and the evening mass.

Special Lenten services will be held throughout Lent, each Wednesday, Friday and Sunday night at 6 p.m. They will consist of a short Way of the Cross, Holy Mass, and an explanation of some Catholic Doctrine, and Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament. There will be three weekday masses each day at 6:30-7:00 and 7:30, with a special children's mass each Tuesday and Friday at 8:20 and Way of the Cross each Friday afternoon at 12:40 and 2:30 p.m. and again at 6 p.m.

Lent is a time of prayer and penance when we should come closer to God by conversation with Him and self denial and repentence for our faults.

The public is most cordially invited to attend any or all services in St. Matthew's Catholic Church, at the corner of Jackson and Grammont Streets.

Church Guest Is Dr. John Land

Dr. John S. Land, minister of the St. Charles Avenue Presbyterian church in New Orleans, will be the guest speaker at the First Presbyterian church March 10-14 The topics of Dr. Land's sermons and the times that he will fill the pulpit at the First Presbyterian church are as follows:

March 10 - 11:00 a.m. "Something Wonderful Has Happened."; March 10 - 7:30 p.m., "It Is Sooner Than You Think"; March 11-7:30 p.m. "It Is Later Than You Think"; March 12 - 7:30 p.m.- "How Peculiar Are You?"

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: I have always tried to go to Sunday School and church, but my husband refuses to go with me; and every time I ask him he gets very angry; he says he is just as good as anyone else. Should I keep on asking him, or never ask him again? F. F. D.

ANSWER: It is not always easy to answer a question such as yours without knowing more of the details in the case. But let me ask you: are you asking him to go with you, or are you nagging him? Some well - intentioned wives approach their husbands in the wrong way about such matters. The average spouse does not respond to an invitation which usually runs something like this,

"Now John, you know you ought to go to church with me so why don't you get ready and go like other husbands."

You say that he says that he is just as good as anyone else. Remember, I don't know anything about the circumstances, but could he mean you? Have you made, by your consistent example in the home, the Christian life attractive to your husband. Have you been paitent, considerate, and kind? Has he beenable to see Christ in you?

Frankly, I know of few husbands who have been able to resist for very long the influence of a consecrated, devoted, Christian wife. If you can answer that you have been faithful in your Christian testimony, then I believe that I would have a frank, serious talk with your husband about his salvation. He may be nearer the kingdom than you think.

Scouts Will Hit Woodlands Soon

But Summer Camp Will Be Year's Event

By SAM HANNA
Staff Writer

With bodies of vigor and hearts of enthusiasm some 4,100 Northeast Louisiana boys uniformed as Scouts will soon move into the woodlands faster than the spring grass can grow.

Tents will house them, beans will fill them and mothers will offer grace for the scoutmasters who herd them, for camping is scouting and scouting youthful, energetic talent pushed in the right direction.

Yet, the highlight and most important part of each Scout's annual programs is a week spent at Ki-Ro-Li, in which time more scouting can be planted in their minds than during all the rest of the year combined.

SUMMER CAMP

Summer camp is a concentrated effort of a trained staff to drill scouting, scouting, scouting from reveille to taps. It's probably the only week in the year when the vinegar is taken out of the boy.

Ki-Ro-Li, located in the crowded hills northwest of West Monroe, has a summer home for thousands of boys since 1923.

Operated by the Ouachita Valley Council, it charges a fee the poorest youngster could make with a few Saturdays' work in the corner grocery or afternoon toil on the neighbor's lawn.

And because the fee is set to meet the smallest pay check, the council spends about $6,000 annually from its budget to make up the deficit of six weeks operating camp cost.

Ki-Ro-Li has seen its boys return as scoutmasters, for as one man put it "once a scout always a scout."

And like the boy it has grown; like the man it is growing old.

HEADS DEVELOPMENT

But to see that it never grows too old, nervous, jumpin' Jack Pankey, council chief executive, appoints men like Claire Hickey, Monroe scoutmaster, to head its developmnt.

NEXT ON THE TOTUM POLE — Camp Ki-Ro-Li ranger Pop Ferrington stands in front of the old dining hall at the Boy Scout camp near West Monroe. Plans are now underway for the construction of a $20,000 building which will seat 240 boys. (Staff photo by Sam Hanna.)

SCOUTING ADVANCEMENT — Plans for a new dining hall at Camp Ki-Ro-Li are examined by Claire Hickey, chairman of the camp development committee, and Scout Executive Jack E. Pankey. Behind the two is roofing donated by Tony Embanato for the building. It will be finished by camp time. (Staff photo by Sam Hanna.)

In the past four years Ki-Ro-Li has progressed faster than during any other time in its entire existence. Hickey stared across the parade grounds with his determined eyes of blue and said he would see that it continued to grow.

Walking along the camp road, which had been recently laden with red sand and rocks for the basis of asphalt, he pointed to the dining hall, explaining that it was too small to handle the camp's enrollment.

A $20,000 entirely new dining hall will be built for the first week's activities in June.

Scouters like Tony Embanato, who contributed the roofing for the new building, and friends of scouting like Jesse Heard and Sons of West Monroe, who agreed to build the hall practically at cost, will see to it that Hickey succeeds in his task.

STEADY GAIN

Some 140 boys can be seated in the present hall, but the scouting program is growing and the council is running to stay ahead.

Soon Ki-Ro-Li will bring more scouts each week and the new hall will seat 240. New kitchen equipment will make the difficult task of preparing meals for such a large number much easier, not to mention better food and increased sanitation.

Pankey said a "small" family effort plan is being conducted to raise $10,000 for the building. The remaining $10,000 has already been obtained even though the allocation of the new hall was not included in this year's budget.

Located at the flag - pole of the parade grounds, the new dining hall will offer increased space in camp housing also, for the original diner will be converted into a quartermaster's headquarters and the present canteen turned into a staff cabin

State construction on the gravel road all the way from the Old Arkansas Road past the Ki-Ro-Li school and on inside the camp grounds will mean a second great improvement by camp time.

In addition, camp ranger Pop Ferrington, who has become as much a part of Ki-Ro-Li as the boys who love him, will supervise the sprucing up of cabins and the manicuring of grounds.

Ki-Ro-Li will be as young as the Tenderfoot.

Without the continued growth of the camp, scouting in Northeast Louisiana would retrogress rather than progress. The new diner will mark accomplishment on this year's record of Camp Ki-Ro-Li.

Strauss Fanciers Find High Fidelity Recordings Of 'Superlative' Quality

By PRESTON MCGRAW OF UNITED PRESS

Owners of high fidelity equipment with uncomplicated musical tastes frequently look for recordings of pieces by the Johann Strausses. Their music sounds good and it doesn't require much concentration.

Capitol has a new record (P—8360, 12-inch LP, RIAA curve) out that Strauss fanciers might listen to. It is a recording of Johann Strauss, Jr.'s, "Graduation Ball," a ballet, on one side, and of Giacomo Meyerbeer's "Les Patineurs," on the other.

Technically, it is a superlative recording. Of the two sides, "Les Patineurs" probably is the better. It is loaded with traumpet passages, French horns, cymbals, 'cellos and drums. The music is played by the Ballet Theater orchestra, conducted by Joseph Levine.

Strauss Records Released

Decca has two Strauss records out: "Tales from the Vienna Woods" (DL-9871, 12 - inch LP, RIAA curve) and "The Beautiful Blue Danube" (DL-9852, 12 - inch LP, RIAA curve). Since neither of these pieces by Strauss, Sr., fills more than one side of an LP, there are other Strauss pieces on the records.

A spokesman for Decca says the recordings, by the Bamberg Symphony, Wurttemberg State Orchestra, Berlin Philharmonic and Rias Symphony, are "not the very latest."

Nonetheless, because of the fine treatment of the music, Strauss fans will want to hear them. If there is any great loss in quality it will show up on only the best equipment. Listen for Rudy Knabl's zither solo in "Tales of Vienna Woods."

Buy by Sight Only

A western and southwestern serve - yourself drugstore chain (Skaggs) is taking a radical approach to the long-play record auditioning problem. It has no auditioning equipment and record buyers buy by sight, like magazines.

If they don't like the records they bring them back and get their money, with no questions asked. At the same time, the company guarantees returns are never resold.

The chain sells only LP's under the Tops label, which are supposed to have a 40-15,000 - cycle range. Few will give the same results as the consistently wide-range recordings turned out by the bigger companies.

At the same time, they sell for less than half the price of most records. There is no indication of how they last, compared with other records.

Uses 18 Microphones

Charles Gould, who composed the music on "White Satin and Black Velvet" (VIK, LX-1065, 12-inch LP, RIAA curve), arranged it, conducted the orchestra and is now traveling about the country promoting it, reports that he used 18 microphones in the recording process.

It was such a complicated recording session, he says, that engineer John Pallodino, who made the master tape in Capitol's new Hollywood studio, had to follow the score to do it right.

High fidelity listeners can judge whether this technique is superior to that of the recording school which insists that the most presence is achieved in monaural recording by using a single microphone.

Gould made an extensive use of accordions, marimbas and the Hungarian cymbalon in his orchestra. "VIK" is a label owned by RCA. Price and overall quality are about the same as other RCA-Victor wide range LP's.

BUSINESS TRENDS

Consumer Spending Tapers Off During Layoff Spate

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK, March 9 (AP) — Business trends were thoroughly mixed this week, with activity forging ahead in some lines and slowing in others.

Consumer spending tapered a bit. A new spate of layoffs popped up in the hard goods field. Railroad income and freight carloadings were down from a year ago. There were hints of a downward trend in certain basic types of new construction.

But the latest statistics on personal income, instalment credit and manufacturers' sales indicated that the nation's business overall was fundamentally in sound shape.

One of the brightest spots was a glowing report from the president of General Electric Co. on the big company's operations for the first eight weeks this year.

This was the picture sketched by GE President Ralph J. Cordner at a press conference, in Chicago: Unfilled order backlogs at the end of February at a record high . . . Sales and incoming orders ahead of a year ago . . . No cutbacks planned in the company's total expansion spending.

Cordiner said the gain in sales for the first two months applied to all GE divisions including those manufacturing consumer goods. The company had previously conceded a downturn in shipments of large home appliances and TV sets. He said cutbacks in expansion plans announced late last year would affect only four of GE's 103 departments.

Equally optimistic was F. W. Misch, financial vice president of Chrysler Corp. Misch told the New York Society of Security Analysts that Chrysler earned more money in the first two months this year than in the first two months of booming 1955, the auto industry's record-breaker. Right now, he said, the company's Imperial Chrysler, De Soto, Dodge and Plymouth divisions are rolling out 32,000 cars a week. He said Chrysler Corp's share of the auto market has jumped from 15 per cent in 1956 to about 20 per cent today. And he volunteered this forecast: Sales of Chrysler Corp., cars in the first quarter of this year should top one billion dollars.

The Chrysler executive hinted, too, that automation is paying off.

Oil Operators Renewing Fight To Cut Imports

By CHARLES HASLET

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP)—Independent oil operators are renewing their long fight for a government choke on oil imports now that resumption of shipments through the Suez Canal appears in prospect.

The Office of Defense Mobilization (ODM) has asked importing companies to file with it, not later than March 22, statements of their import plans for the first six months after the canal is reopened to transportation of Middle East oil.

The new plea to limit imports was made to the ODM by Robert Wood of Midland, Tex., president of the Independent Petroleum Assn. of America (IPAA).

He wrote tht while the shutdown of Suez had cut off imports of Middle East oil, imports had increased from other sources and four months after the Suez closing were running above the 'excessive rates" of last year.

"This experience, during the Suez crisis, further demonstrates," he told the ODM, "that voluntary action on the part of the importing companies to limit imports cannot be relied upon."

After the ODM issued its call for new import estimates, Wood said the domestic industry should be "encouraged" to know that "the government is reopening consideration of the oil import problem and initiating action to prevent excessive imports."

"This action," Wood said, "constitutes a resumption of government efforts, conducted over a two-year period, to establish a limitation on oil imports. The recommendations by the government are made to preserve a proper mobilization base and our security as to oil. The Suez crisis has emphazied the necessity of such a program."

Crop Wheat Goes Under Pressure

CHICAGO, March 9 (AP) — New crop wheat futures were under some pressure this week on the Board of Trade and closed with losses of more than a cent a bushel, although they staged slight rallies during the last two sessions.

Corn showed gains, as did most soybean futures. Oats were mixed and little changed, while rye dipped somewhat.

What closed the week 1¼ lower to ⅜ higher, with only the March contract showing a gain. Corn closed ¾ to 1¼ higher, oats ⅝ higher to 1 cent lower, rye ⅜ to 1⅜ lower, soybeans 1½ higher to ½ lower, and lard 5 cents a hundred pounds lower to 2 cents higher.

15 PER CENT

Middle East Still Crude Oil Producer

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, March 9 (AP)—The Middle East still is producing nearly 15 per cent of the world's crude oil despite sharp Suez crisis cutbacks.

New production estimates for the area indicate output at the end of the year was 37.4 per cent below record October levels despite a sharp December increase in Kuwait.

The Oil and Gas Journal reports that November production in the Middle East was 44.7 per cent below October, the last full month of operations prior to the closing of the canal.

In October the area accounted for 22 per cent of the world's output. The area's share declined to 13 per cent in November but jumped back to 14.9 in December.

The United States meanwhile was boosting its share from 40 per cent in October to 45 per cent the last two months of 1956. Between early November and the end of February the United States increased its crude flow from 6,981,100 barrels a day to a record 7,567,000 barrels—a gain of 8.4 per cent.

The Middle East dropped from 3,873,500 barrels a day in October to 2,142,800 in November and 2,429,000 in December.

Middle East countries maintained a major portion of their crude markets despite the closing of the canal and the disruption of pipe line traffic to Mediterranean ports. Longer tanker routes by way of South Africa curtailed shipments to Europe and the United States but traffic to India, Japan and Australia remained unaffected.

Disruption of the Iraq pipe line caused that country to suffer the sharpest cutback—76 per cent in November, 71 per cent in December. Other November decreases included Kuwait, 54 per cent; Saudi Arabia, 32 per cent, and Iran, 17 per cent. Production in other countries in the area was down 33 per cent.

From a daily flow of 765,000 barrels in October, Iraq dropped to 189,000 in November but was averaging 220,300 barrels a day by the end of the year.

Kuwait dropped from 1,203,900 barrels a day to 557,900 but accounted for most of the area's December improvement with an output of 820,000.

Saudi Arabia dropped from 1,054,900 in October to 719,800 barrels a day in November and 690,300 in December.

The Middle East emergency halted Iran's rapid rebuilding program that began after the prolonged nationalization shutdown. October production of 638,000 barrels, dropped only to 531,000 in November and 524,000 in December

Kefauver To Open Probe Of Lobbying By Oil Firms

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 9 (UP)—Starting Tuesday, Sen. Estes Kefauver's Senate Anti-Trust and Monopoly subcommittee will air charges that giants of the petroleum industry are conspiring to defeat a pending oil bill.

The Tennessee Democrat said he has conclusive evidence the companies are forcing "captive" gasoline dealers and jobbers to join the campaign under threat of having their gasoline supplies cut off. He has subpenaed 20 companies, two trade associations and four oil company officials to produce all documents pertinent to the inquiry.

The legislation in question is the Kefauver-Patman amendment to the Robinson-Patman act which passed the House 393 to 3 last spring but died in the Senate. It would nullify a Supreme Court decision that an interstate oil company—Standard Oil of Indiana—"acted in good faith" when it granted price cuts to some but not all of its customers in the Detroit area to keep them from buying from a cut-rate competitor.

CONSPIRACY CHARGED

The court said this "realistic approach" was necessary to preserve the company's business. The pending amendment provides that any company resorting to such practices would violate the anti-trust laws if the price cuts tended to kill off competition.

The measure has most of the oil industry up in arms. Companies, trade associations and individuals are barraging Congress with pleas to defeat it.

This apparently was the source of Kefauver's conspiracy charge. He said the protests have been coming in since Congress convened Jan. 3. He said this was puzzling because the legislation is designed to help small business which includes thousands of filling station operators and oil jobbers.

"We now have evidence," he said, "that the major oil companies have engaged in a secret conspiracy to pressure these captive dealers and jobbers, dependent upon them for existence, to send messages opposed to their own interests.

PATMAN TO TESTIFY

"The subcommittee will go into this campaign very exhaustively."

The House Anti-Monopoly committee headed by Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.) also plans to hold hearings but not until Kefauver's record is complete. Rep. Wright Patman (D-Tex.) chairman of the House Small Business committee and co-author of the pending amendment, will testify before this committee.

The Federal Trade Commission and the Department of Justice also favor the bill although both have blown hot and cold on it. The FTC is currently pressing "good faith" charges against several companies.

Most refiners, retailers and jobbers dispute the Kefauver-Patman claim that the legislation would protect small business. They see it as "a blow to freedom of action."

Stock Market Hits Longest String Of Rise

NEW YORK, March 9 (AP)—The stock market this week capped the longest string of daily rises it has had in 1957 but they were small ones. Late declines chipped away enough of the earlier advances so that the market ended only slightly ahead.

The Associated Press average was up 40 cents to $173.30.

The market was on the upside for four straight sessions but the first of these was a week ago Friday when it was spurred by the Israeli decision to withdraw from Egypt.

The advance continued moderately Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. It faltered Thursday.

Friday, however, there was no doubt about the market's tone. The session was a dismal one, the slowest of the week.

Some international oils skimmed the cream of their rise on the Israeli news last Friday. Gulf Oil lost 1? this week and Royal Dutch ⅜ But Getty Oil added 1?

Aircrafts took a setback as clamor continued for economies in the federal budget. United Aircraft dropped 5⅜, Boeing 2⅜ and Douglas 1⅛.

Chrysler was well ahead on bullish company statements, including one prediction that its first quarter sales might exceed a billion dollars.

The five most active issues this week were Chrysler, up 2⅝ at 74; Curtis Publishing, up 1⅝ at 10³⁄₄; Anaconda, up ⅜ at 62; Boeing, off 2⅜ at 46; and Standard Oil (New Jersey), up 1½ at 57½.

Corporate bonds churned ineffectually this week, winding up slightly higher on average. U. S. governor securities were mixed in the bond market.

Cotton Futures Decline; March Delivery Up

NEW YORK, March 9 (AP)—Cotton futures prices declined moderately this week with the current March delivery showing the sharpest net recession.

Active futures contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange took losses ranging from 40 cents to $1.65 a bale.

Several factors contributed to the downturn. Some selling was prompted by further reports of improved moisture conditions in the Texas and Oklahoma portions of the belt.

Other bearish influences included word of further soil bank cancellations, fading prospects of "tight" free cotton supply, sluggish business in the goods market and additional reports of mill cutbacks. Uncovering of stop-loss orders hastended the decline.

The market's fall was cushioned, however, by mill price fixing and short covering.

Attention of traders was drown to a Commodity Credit corp. Report showing sales of government-owned cotton under the surplus export program totaled only 15,000 bales at the latest auction on March 6. This compared with 21,000 bales at the previous sale. Total sales under the export program now stand at 6,400,000 bales.

Average price of basis middling 1-inch cotton at the March 6 sale was 27.20 cents a pound, unchanged from the previous auction.

Exports of U. S. Cotton during the week ended Tuesday were estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau at 206,000 bales vs. 285,000 the previous week and only 62,000 in the like week last year.

Total for the current season through Tuesday was estimated at 4,908,000 bales. This compares with exports of only 900,000 bales at approximately the same time last season.

BUSINESS TRENDS

Consumer Spending Tapers Off During Layoff Spate

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK, March 9 (AP) — Business trends were thoroughly mixed this week, with activity forging ahead in some lines and slowing in others.

Consumer spending tapered a bit. A new spate of layoffs popped up in the hard goods field. Railroad income and freight carloadings were down from a year ago. There were hints of a downward trend in certain basic types of new construction.

But the latest statistics on personal income, instalment credit and manufacturers' sales indicated that the nation's business overall was fundamentally in sound shape.

One of the brightest spots was a glowing report from the president of General Electric Co. on the big company's operations for the first eight weeks this year.

This was the picture sketched by GE President Ralph J. Cordner at a press conference, in Chicago: Unfilled order backlogs at the end of February at a record high . . . Sales and incoming orders ahead of a year ago . . . No cutbacks planned in the company's total expansion spending.

Cordiner said the gain in sales for the first two months applied to all GE divisions including those manufacturing consumer goods. The company had previously conceded a downturn in shipments of large home appliances and TV sets. He said cutbacks in expansion plans announced late last year would affect only four of GE's 103 departments.

Equally optimistic was F. W. Misch, financial vice president of Chrysler Corp. Misch told the New York Society of Security Analysts that Chrysler earned more money in the first two months this year than in the first two months of booming 1955, the auto industry's record-breaker. Right now, he said, the company's Imperial Chrysler, De Soto, Dodge and Plymouth divisions are rolling out 32,000 cars a week. He said Chrysler Corp's share of the auto market has jumped from 15 per cent in 1956 to about 20 per cent today. And he volunteered this forecast: Sales of Chrysler Corp., cars in the first quarter of this year should top one billion dollars.

The Chrysler executive hinted, too, that automation is paying off.

Crop Wheat Goes Under Pressure

CHICAGO, March 9 (AP) — New crop wheat futures were under some pressure this week on the Board of Trade and closed with losses of more than a cent a bushel, although they staged slight rallies during the last two sessions.

Corn showed gains, as did most soybean futures. Oats were mixed and little changed, while rye dipped somewhat.

What closed the week 1¼ lower to ⅝ higher, with only the March contract showing a gain. Corn closed ¾ to 1¾ higher, oats ⅜ higher to 1 cent lower, rye ⅝ to 1⅝ lower, soybeans 1½ higher to ½ lower, and lard 5 cents a hundred pounds lower to 2 cents higher.

Oil Operators Renewing Fight To Cut Imports

By CHARLES HASLET

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP)—Independent oil operators are renewing their long fight for a government choke on oil imports now that resumption of shipments through the Suez Canal appears in prospect.

The Office of Defense Mobilization (ODM) has asked importing companies to file with it, not later than March 22, statements of their import plans for the first six months after the canal is reopened to transportation of Middle East oil.

The new plea to limit imports was made to the ODM by Robert Wood of Midland, Tex., president of the Independent Petroleum Assn. of America (PAA).

He wrote tht while the shutdown of Suez had cut off imports of Middle East oil, imports had increased from other sources and four months after the Suez closing were running above the 'excessive rates" of last year.

"This experience, during the Suez crisis, further demonstrates," he told the ODM, "that voluntary action on the part of the importing companies to limit imports cannot be relied upon."

After the ODM issued its call for new import estimates, Wood said the domestic industry should be "encouraged" to know that "the government is reopening consideration of the oil import problem and initiating action to prevent excessive imports."

"This action," Wood said, "constitutes a resumption of government efforts, conducted over a two-year period, to establish a limitation on oil imports. The recommendations by the government are made to preserve a proper mobilization base and our security as to oil. The Suez crisis has emphazied the necessity of such a program."

15 PER CENT

Middle East Still Crude Oil Producer

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, March 9 (AP)—The Middle East still is producing nearly 15 per cent of the world's crude oil despite sharp Suez crisis cutbacks.

New production estimates for the area indicate output at the end of the year was 37.4 per cent below record October levels despite a sharp December increase in Kuwait.

The Oil and Gas Journal reports that November production in the Middle East was 44.7 per cent below October, the last full month of operations prior to the closing of the canal.

In October the area accounted for 22 per cent of the world's output. The area's share declined to 13 per cent in November but jumped back to 14.9 in December.

The United States meanwhile was boosting its share from 40 per cent in October to 45 per cent the last two months of 1956. Between early November and the end of February the United States increased its crude flow from 6,981,100 barrels a day to a record 7,567,000 barrels—a gain of 8.4 per cent.

The Middle East dropped from 3,873,500 barrels a day in October to 2,142,800 in November and 2,429,000 in December.

Middle East countries maintained a major portion of their crude markets despite the closing of the canal and the disruption of pipe line traffic to Mediterranean ports. Longer tanker routes by way of South Africa curtailed shipments to Europe and the United States but traffic to India, Japan and Australia remained unaffected.

Disruption of the Iraq pipe line caused that country to suffer the sharpest cutback—76 per cent in November, 71 per cent in December. Other November decreases included Kuwait, 54 per cent; Saudi Arabia, 32 per cent, and Iran, 17 per cent. Production in other countries in the area was down 33 per cent.

From a daily flow of 765,000 barrels in October, Iraq dropped to 189,000 in November but was averaging 220,900 barrels a day by the end of the year.

Kuwait dropped from 1,203,900 barrels a day to 557,900 but accounted for most of the area's December improvement with an output of 820,000.

Saudi Arabia dropped from 1,054,900 in October to 719,800 barrels a day in November and 690,300 in December.

The Middle East emergency halted Iran's rapid rebuilding program that began after the prolonged nationalization shutdown. October production of 638,000 barrels, dropped only to 531,000 in November and 524,000 in December

Kefauver To Open Probe Of Lobbying By Oil Firms

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 9 (UP)—Starting Tuesday, Sen. Estes Kefauver's Senate Anti-Trust and Monopoly subcommittee will air charges that giants of the petroleum industry are conspiring to defeat a pending oil bill.

The Tennessee Democrat said he has conclusive evidence the companies are forcing "captive" gasoline dealers and jobbers to join the campaign under threat of having their gasoline supplies cut off. He has subpenaed 20 companies, two trade associations and four oil company officials to produce all documents pertinent to the inquiry.

The legislation in question is the Kefauver-Patman amendment to the Robinson-Patman act which passed the House 393 to 3 last spring but died in the Senate. It would nullify a Supreme Court decision that an interstate oil company—Standard Oil of Indiana—"acted in good faith" when it granted price cuts to some but not all of its customers in the Detroit area to keep them from buying from a cut-rate competitor.

CONSPIRACY CHARGED

The court said this "realistic approach" was necessary to preserve the company's business. The pending amendment provides that any company resorting to such practices would violate the anti-trust laws if the price cuts tended to kill off competition.

The measure has most of the oil industry up in arms. Companies, trade associations and individuals are barraging Congress with pleas to defeat it.

This apparently was the source of Kefauver's conspiracy charge. He said the protests have been coming in since Congress convened Jan. 3. He said this was puzzling because the legislation is designed to help small business which includes thousands of filling station operators and oil jobbers.

"We now have evidence," he said, "that the major oil companies have engaged in a secret conspiracy to pressure these captive dealers and jobbers, dependent upon them for existence, to send messages opposed to their own interests.

PATMAN TO TESTIFY

"The subcommittee will go into this campaign very exhaustively."

The House Anti-Monopoly committee headed by Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.) also plans to hold hearings but not until Kefauver's record is complete. Rep. Wright Patman (D-Tex.) chairman of the House Small Business committee and co-author of the pending amendment, will testify before this committee.

The Federal Trade Commission and the Department of Justice also favor the bill although both have blown hot and cold on it. The FTC is currently pressing "good faith" charges against several companies.

Most refiners, retailers and jobbers dispute the Kefauver-Patman claim that the legislation would protect small business. They see it as "a blow to freedom of action."

Stock Market Hits Longest String Of Rise

NEW YORK, March 9 (AP)—The stock market this week capped the longest string of daily rises it has had in 1957 but they were small ones. Late declines chipped away enough of the earlier advances so that the market ended only slightly ahead.

The Associated Press average was up 40 cents to $173.30.

The market was on the upside for four straight sessions but the first of these was a week ago Friday when it was spurred by the Israeli decision to withdraw from Egypt.

The advance continued moderately Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. It faltered Thursday.

Friday, however, there was no doubt about the market's tone. The session was a dismal one, the slowest of the week.

Some international oils skimmed the cream of their rise on the Israeli news last Friday. Gulf Oil lost 1? this week and Royal Dutch ⅜ But Getty Oil added 1?

Aircrafts took a setback as clamor continued for economies in the federal budget. United Aircraft dropped 5⅜, Boeing 2⅜ and Douglas 1⅛.

Chrysler was well ahead on bullish company statements, including one prediction that its first quarter sales might exceed a billion dollars.

The five most active issues this week were Chrysler, up 2⅝ at 74; Curtis Publishing, up 1⅝ at 10¾; Anaconda, up ⅜ at 62; Boeing, off 2⅜ at 46; and Standard Oil (New Jersey), up 1½ at 57½.

Corporate bonds churned ineffectually this week, winding up slightly higher on average. U. S. governor securities were mixed in the bond market.

Cotton Futures Decline; March Delivery Up

NEW YORK, March 9 (AP)—Cotton futures prices declined moderately this week with the current March delivery showing the sharpest net recession.

Active futures contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange took losses ranging from 40 cents to $1.65 a bale.

Several factors contributed to the downturn. Some selling was prompted by further reports of improved moisture conditions in the Texas and Oklahoma portions of the belt.

Other bearish influences included word of further soil bank cancellations, fading prospects of "tight" free cotton supply, sluggish business in the goods market and additional reports of mill cutbacks. Uncovering of stop-loss orders hastended the decline.

The market's fall was cushioned, however, by mill price fixing and short covering.

Attention of traders was drown to a Commodity Credit corp. Report showing sales of government-owned cotton under the surplus export program totaled only 15,000 bales at the latest auction on March 6. This compared with 21,000 bales at the previous sale. Total sales under the export program now stand at 6,400,000 bales.

Average price of basis middling 1-inch cotton at the March 6 sale was 27.20 cents a pound, unchanged from the previous auction.

Exports of U. S. Cotton during the week ended Tuesday were estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau at 206,000 bales vs. 285,000 the previous week and only 62,000 in the like week last year.

Total for the current season through Tuesday was estimated at 4,908,000 bales. This compares with exports of only 900,000 bales at approximately the same time last season.

1,500 Expected At Oil Meeting

MEMPHIS, Mar. 9 (UP)— Har-1,500 persons are expected to attend the 45th annual meeting of the Western Petroleum Refiners Association which begins March 25 at San Antonio, Tex.

Reid Brazell, president of the refiners association which has headquarters in Tulsa, said Saturday the three-day program will include technical sessions on asphalt, motor and diesel fuels, lubricants, petrochemicals and refining processes, problems and developments.

The meeting's concluding address will be delivered by Dr. Arthur A. Smith, vice president and economist for the First National Bank, Dallas, whose topic will be "economic changes since 1929."

Smith is a former head of the economics department at Southern Methodist University.

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

An era came to a close at Louisiana State University when Harry Rabenhorst completed nearly 30 years service and athletic achievements with his retirement from the coaching staff at the close of the basketball season, and L.S.U. and its athletes of the past and present will honor him at a testimonial dinner to be given at L.S.U. on April 6.

The "L" Club and friends of the veteran coach will sponsor the dinner which will be open to the public, but only a limited number of admissions will be available. Tickets are already on advanced sale and may be purchased from the L.S.U. athletic business office or from "L" Club representatives.

A native of Baton Rouge, Rabenhorst had a brilliant athletic career at Wake Forest before entering the coaching profession. His achievements at Wake Forest led to his selection as captain of that school's all-time football team.

His L.S.U. basketball teams, through 29 years, have won 344 and lost 249, claiming one national, three Southeastern Conference, and one Sugar Bowl championship. Major league baseball stars, past and present, like "Buddy" Blair, Connie Ryan, Walker Cress, Alvin Dark, Dave Madison, and Joe Adcock, attest to Coach Raby's diamond success at L.S.U.

Coach Rabenhorst will remain on the L.S.U. staff as assistant to Athletic Director Jim Corbett, a post he held since 1946 in addition to his other duties.

Speakers for the testimonial will include General Troy Middleton, president of the university, Bernie Moore, Southeastern Conference commissioner; Bob Pettit, former All-America cager at L.S.U. and now with the pro St. Louis Hawks; Enos Parker, L.S.U. student body president; and Corbett.

Attention high school basketball coaches:

The Louisiana Sports Writers Association has begun the job of compiling a list of leading prep basketball scorers for the state during the 1956-57 season. You are requested to send the names of your players who have scored 500 or more points during the season to Truman Stacey, sports editor, The American Press, Lake Charles, La.

Stacey will handle the chore of compiling the story for the association. He will need to know the number of games your player participated in, number of field goals, free shot attempts, and total points. All games, including tournaments and state playoffs, are to be included. Stacey will furnish the story to all papers of the state when finished.

By now, most of you who have been watching the sports pages regularly know that West Monroe High has a new head football coach—Cecil Pirkey of DeKalb, Tex. While most of us still have to make his acquaintence, he already has two strong personal friends in the Twin Cities. Bob Ellen, who came to Ouachita as head football coach a year ago from Texarkana, Ark., and W. L. Lewis, former DeKalb resident who is in the furniture business in West Monroe, are speaking mighty highly of Pirkey who has yet to arrive for his new position. Lewis had a son to play football for Pirkey at DeKalb High School.

We're sorry to hear of the death of Ernie Potocar at Los Angeles. Funeral there tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock at Cunningham and O'Connor Mortuary. Ernie was a catcher here for Manager "Poco" Tait's old Monroe White Sox of the Cotton States League, playing on the same team with Dave Philley, a major league veteran now. Ernie's baseball career was threatened by a "beaning" here, but he went on to play for Pensacola, Fla., Birmingham, Ala., and Hollywood, Calif.

Kell Vows Oriole Kid 'Can't Miss'

By BILL MCFARLAND

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz., March 9 (UP) — It takes one good third baseman to spot another and veteran George Kell of the Baltimore Orioles predicts 19-year-old Brooks Robinson "cant miss."

"Sure, he's trying to steel my job," said Kell, one of the game's all-time stars. "I'd kick him in the pants if he wasn't."

Nevertheless, Kell is one of the strongest boosters and most active tutors of the soft - spoken youngster from Arkansas, who threatens to move the veteran either to the bench or over to first base.

"I can't last forever," said Kell, who has starred at third base for the Philadelphia Athletics, Detroit Tigers, Boston Red Sox, Chicago White Sox and now the Orioles over a span of 14 seasons.

"I still think I've got a lot of playing time in me for the coming season at least," said George, "but I don't want to be a poor player I have two or three business interests and as soon as I have a really bad season, I'll quit."

Then Kell, and his manager, Paul Richards, returned to the subject of Robinson.

"We're bringing him along slow and easy," said Richards. "We're going to give him every chance to make good up here. Actually, he is a major league fielder right now with the best pair of hands I've ever seen on a third baseman.

"His hitting will determine how long he sticks with us and that is something he'll have to handle himself," Richards added.

A rangy six-footer weighing 170 pounds, Robinson was graduated from high school at Hot Springs, Ark., in 1955 and went directly to the Class B club at York, Pa., where he hit .331 in 95 games.

Last year, he moved up to San Antonio in the Texas League and his .272 for the season. At the tag end,he went to the Orioles for six games.

The going was tough at San Antonio, Robinson admitted, until he learned a few tricks from Harry (The Hat) Walker, former National League batting champ.

"Walker showed me how to hit the ball where it was pitched and my average picked up right away," he said, indicating he soon learned to hit outside pitches to right instead of trying to pull all pitches to left field as in end, he went to the Orioles for do.

Events Start On Speedway At 1 O'Clock

Stock car racers are scheduled to take over at the Twin City Speedway this afternoon for the first races of the kind to be promoted in this area with the leading stock car enthusiasts of this section of the state participating in the show.

Gerald Greenway, race manager, has announced the races will open with the time trials at 1 o'clock and will include heat races, consolations, and the big featured 3 o'clock.

Time trials will serve to determine the best speeds of the drivers who will be divided into groups for the heat races in which the faster cars will be handicapped by being placed last in the lineups with the slower cars out front for the start.

The first three cars in all heat events will collect purses, and all machines failing to place in the heats will come back for the consolation race and a shot at prize money for the first three finishers. All heat races will be four mile events, or eight laps around the half mile track.

The featured 15-lap race will be open to all cars but the faster machines will be moved to the front, according to their time trials, in the scramble for the sweepstakes pot.

Among drivers already registered are A. S. Whitlock, car No. 3; Bob Shoemaker, A-1; H. L. Hale, No. 2; James Futch, No. 4; Royce E. Whitlock, No. 13; Dewain Richardson, No. 88; and Joe Mallard in his '46 Ford. Other drivers will be accepted for registration up to the opening of the time trials.

The races are open only to stock cars of 1940 to 1950 vintage. Drivers have been working on their cars for the past few weeks getting them ready for the races, and all will be as mechanically perfect as possible for the event.

Oliver Cloyd, West Monroe businessman, built the half mile track on 20 acres of his land in the woods north of the old Natchitoches road last year. An additional 20 acres is used for parking space.

There were two entrances to the speedway last year, and work to complete a new and better road into the area is in progress but it will not be ready for use today. However, only one of the old roads will be open to the public today. Greenway said the old Natchitoches road entrance will be closed, but that fans may enter from the road off the Downing Pines road which links the old Natchitoches road with Highway 80.

Welders have been busy all week erecting a steel structure for bleachers on the easterly side of the track and most of the permanent seats are expected to be ready for use today. Greenway said he plans to have additional portable bleachers available to help seat the crowd. Crash walls have been built the past week in front of the grandstand and also on the western side of the oval.

Weather continuing good, the automobiles expect to have a good afternoon of racing. "Only a downpour of rain will stop us," Greenway said earlier this week.

Admissions will be $1.50 per person.

Greenway last night said the 20-acre plot reserved for parking automobiles alongside the track will not be in shape to stand the traffic today because most of the ground is soft from recent rain. He advises that fans park on the Natchitoches road and walk to the speedway if they can't find more suitable space. Later in the season when the ground is in better shape, the regular parking space will be available.

Junior-Midget Tourney Slated Next Weekend

The Monroe Recreation department will sponsor its annual Junior-Midget Basketball Tournament here next Friday and Saturday and the event will be open to all boys' teams that participated in the department's winter program.

Tomorrow will be the deadline for posting entries. Teams still desiring to contend in either division are advised to contact James McKay, assistant recreation director, not later than tomorrow at the Monroe Recreation Center.

Teams already entered are:

Juniors — Independents, Trinity, West Monroe Key Club, College Place, Assembly of God Bulldogs, and Bo-Jets, Stars, St. Matthew's.

Midgets — St. Matthew's and Wildcats.

Register Little Boys For West Monroe Loops

Registration for Little Boys League baseball in West Monroe will open tomorrow for all youngsters between eight and 12 years of age desiring to tryout for the teams this year, it is announced by Dan McClure.

All boys in the northside area of West Monroe are to register with "Lefty" Winters at 901 Cypress street, and all in the southside zone are to register with Harold Hill at the city hall.

Registration deadline is March 30.

The board of directors meets again March 26 to plan details of workouts for the new players.

M'CLURE REBUILDS

Rebs Opening With Chiefs

West Monroe High School's Rebels launch an 18-game spring schedule tomorrow when Coach Dan McClure sends his charges against the Calhoun High Chieftains at Legion Memorial Stadium here at 3:30 o'clock. It will be the first of three games during the week for the Rebs who travel to Calhoun for a Wednesday date and return here to meet Marion High Friday afternoon.

Eighty-three boys from the eighth grade through the twelfth reported to Coach McClure last week to find practically every position on the team wide open, but bad weather hampered their work, and the Rebs have got most of their training for the campaign in the gymnasium.

The only position that appears sewed up is at shortstop where Shelby Aulds expects to rule again as the only returning veteran of last year's club. Pitcher Ronnie Gallien lettered at limited duty last year and posted a 3-1 record, and he is expected to carry a big load for the mound corps this trip. Experience in American Legion Junior, Babe Ruth League, and Little Eight League play will serve many of the boys in their battle to win places on the Rebel squad.

The nearly all-senior squad last year compiled a 15-4 record, a mark that may be hard to match by the currently less experienced club.

"The squad has shown a great desire to work and has a wonderful attitude considering the schedule to be faced," Coach McClure said. "Byrd, last year's triple-A champs, are again ready to defend their title with a strong team and Fair Park and Ouachita, always ready to step in for the crown, will compose out list of conference opponents for home - and-home games in addition to such always powerful clubs as Neville, Farmerville, Bolton of Alexandria, Calhoun, Downsville, and Marion."

McClure said all home games during March will be played at Legion Memorial Stadium, beginning at 3:30.

Among leading candidates for the team are:

Catchers — Jerry Grubbs, Jim Schroeder, James Chapman, and J. D. Price.

First base — Kelton Bacon, Jimmy Edmiston, Jimmy Van Zile.

Second base — Jerry Stovall, Don Johnston, Mike Stone.

Third base — Tommy Lolly, Keith Daily.

Shortstop — Shelby Aulds, Danny McEachern.

Outfield — Joe Ford, J. L. Caldwell, Johnny Huntsman, Glenn Fleming, Harold Weir, Roscoe Halcomb, Charles strong.

Pitchers — Garlad Webb, Morris King, Gary Murphy, Jerry Ingram, Ronnie Gallion, Ronnie Haile, Aubrey Patton, Wayne Works, and Harry Boyd.

The schedule:

March 11 — Calhoun, here.
March 13 — Calhoun, there.
March 15 — Marion, here.
March 19 — Neville, home for W.M.
March 21 — Neville, home for Neville.
March 22 — Bolton, here.
March 25 — Farmerville, here.
March 29 — Fair Park at Shreveport.
April 2 — Downsville, here.
April 5 — Byrd, here.
April 9 — Ouachita, home for Ouachita
April 12 — Byrd at Shreveport
April 16 — Ouachita, home for W. M.
April 19 — Bolton at Alexandria
April 23 — Fair Park, here
April 25 — Downsville, there
April 30 — Farmerville, there

Dodgers Uncertain Of Their '58 Base

LOS ANGELES, March 9 (AP)—If you think you know for sure where the Brooklyn Dodgers are going to play in 1958, don't bet on it.

The wisdom of avoiding such wagers was indicated today by some fairly murky remarks from Los Angeles Mayor Norris Poulson, who is trying to get the Dodgers to come here, and Brooklyn President Walter O'Malley, whose precise intentions are not yet apparent.

Poulson returned last night from a conference with O'Malley at Vero Beach, Fla., and was quoted by a local paper as saying:

"It's too late to get the Brooklyn team this year, but we'll have the Dodgers in 1958."

When O'Malley heard this, he asked: "'When is that election out there? He referred to the April election in which Poulson will be trying to stay in the mayor's office.

The significance of O'Malley's question was clouded somewhat, however, by the fact that he winked when he asked it. The wink might indicate he did not ask the question seriously, and was trying to dodge a frank comment—or it might mean he had a bug in his eye.

Poulson, advised today of O'Malley's question, told the Associated Press he would like to amend the statement attributed to him last night. He said he would like it to read:

"If they (the Dodgers) are going to come here at all, they're going to come in '58."

This appeared to lack a little of the certainty of the earlier statement, but Poulson still seemed something less than discouraged.

"O'Malley is a smart operator as well as a smart baseball man," the mayor said. "He would like to be the first one to move into the most virgin (major league) baseball area in the United States. He's going to get what he wants in Brooklyn, or he's going to get it in Los Angeles

"And, because I'm quite sure he can't get it in Brooklyn, why naturally the deduction is that he'll be coming out here."

Asked whether he would bet that the Bums will be here next year, Poulson said:

"I think its best to say it this way: If you look back on my record since I've been mayor, you'll find I have a pretty good record of achievement on the programs and projects I've started out on. And I have just as much confidence in this as I had in any of them."

O'Malley, whose team recently purchased the Los Angeles franchise in the Pacific Coast League, was less talkative, said he:

"I announced after our press conference last Wednesday that I did not want to talk about this matter any further. From now on I want to talk only about Dodger victories and Dodger players. . ."

It was the Brooklyn purchase of the Los Angeles P.C.L. franchise that started reports the Dodgers were planning to move here.

Pulson and other political leaders in the Los Angeles area have been trying to bring in major league baseball for several years.

Crimson Tide Gridders Will Be Banqueted

COLUMBIA, La., March 9 (Special)—The Columbia Quarterback Club will honor its Columbia High School football team of 1956 at a banquet scheduled for Thursday night with Jim Corbett, athletic director of Louisiana State University as the guest speaker.

In addition to Corbett, the feature guests will include Garland Gregory, an all-state guard at Columbia High in 1937, who was Little All-America at Louisiana Tech, later played professional ball for the Los Angeles Rams, and currently in coaching at El Dorado, Ark.; Robert Holliday, an outstanding Columbia gridder in 1949 who played four years for University of Tulsa and is currently a defensive halfback for the San Francisco Forty-Niners; J. W. Patrick, the new head coach at Louisiana College, and other high school coaches of the area.

The advanced sale of tickets indicates from 250 to 300 persons can be expected to attend the affair in the Columbia High gymnasium, beginning at 7 o'clock Thursday night. Tickets can still be obtained here for $2 from R. O. Cummings, former Georgia Tech gridders whose recommendations still send young athletes of this area to the Ramblin' Wreck.

Harry Arthur of Monroe will be master of ceremonies for the occasion.

Coach James Turner Jr., former all-state at Springhill High and ex-Northwestern Louisiana State quarterback, and his Crimson Tide gridders will be the honored guests. Coach Turner has served two seasons here, corresponding to the life of the Quarterback Club that was organized two years ago and is giving its second annual banquet. Quarterback officers are Edgar Dukes, president; Dr. E. L. Carroll, vice president; and Jim Sherman, secretary - treasurer.

The home economics department of Columbia High will have charge of preparing the meal Thursday, and wives of the Quarterbacks will handle decorations.

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Knickerbocker rookie Ron Sobieszczyk failed to make the basketball team at St. Mel High School in Chicago. But he scored 500 points as a senior at St. Bonaventure Academy in Sturtevant, Wis., and won Catholic High School All-America recognition.

Romack Captures Florida East Coast Tourney

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 9 (UP) — Barbara Romack, who says her mind is more on romance than on golf, Saturday became the first woman to take three major winter circuit golf titles since the late Babe Zaharias' amateur days.

The Sacramento, Calif., amateur used her new - found "relaxed" putting skill to defeat 16-year-old Ann Middlemas of Panama City, Fla., 5 and 4, in the tournament finals over the Ponce De Leon course here.

Miss Romack said that the promising young Floridan "outplayed me from tee-to-green, but that old chipper and putter just worked for me."

"I've never played like this before and I think that it is because I'm more relaxed. You know, I'm going to be married in May (to Sacramento golf pro Buddy Porter), and I think I'm more relaxed."

Organize Dixie League In West Monroe Monday

'Age' Dots Spring Camps For Majors

By BEN OLAN
The Associated Press

From 42 - year - old Ellis Kinder, an established big league pitcher, to a 36-year-old rookie, Fernando Rodriguez, major league baseball training camps this spring are sprinkled with players past 35.

Kinder, who has picked up 102 big league victories, will quality for the game's new pension plan in less than eight years. He is the major's oldest active player and will try to hang on for at least another year with the Chicago White Sox.

Next in the age line are Enos Slaughter of the New York Yankees and Murry Dickson of the St. Louis Cardinals, both 40 years old, and Sal Maglie of Brooklyn, 39. Slaughter played in 115 games last season plus six in the outfield in the World Series. Dickson won 13 games and lost 11 in 1956 while Maglie, of course, made one of the outstanding comebacks, winning 13 games, including a no-hitter.

The White Sox have four others in the "old age" category. Pitcher Gerry Staley and outfielders Ron Northey and Dave Philley are 36 while Jim Wilson, another hurler, is 35. Wilson won 13 games in '56 while Staley collected eight triumphs.

The Boston Red Sox have Ted Williams and Mickey Vernon, both 38. Neither gave definite indication they were slowing up last season. Williams hit .345 in 136 games and Vernon, in 119 games, batted .310.

Cleveland has three veteran batterymen — Bob Lemon and Early Wynn, both of whom won 20 games last year, and catcher Jim Hegan. Wynn is 37 while the other two are a year younger.

Righthanded pitcher Steve Gromek, infielders Eddie Robinson and Jack Phillips and outfielder Bob Kennedy comprise Detroit's over - 35 group. The first three are 36 while Phillips was 35 last September.

The Yankees have Tommy Byrne, 37 - year - old lefthander. Pitcher Virgil Trucks, 37, tops Kansas City's age list. The Washington Senators' Bud Byerly is 36 and so is Sandy Consuegra of Baltimore. Both are pitchers.

In the National League, the Giants have Rodriguez, who was 12-8 for Dallas of the Texas League last season. Marf Grissom, 1-1 with New York in '56, is 38 years old, and Hank Sauer, obtained as a free agent, is seeking an outfield berth at 37.

Brooklyn's National League champs have shortstop Pee Wee Reese, 37, and catcher Roy Campanella, 35, in addition to Maglie.

The Chicago Cubs list Elmer Singleton, 38 - year - old righthander who was acquired in a winter trade with Cincinnati. He was 13-8 for Seattle of the Pacific Coast League last year.

Milwaukee's group is headed by handy Andy Pafko, 36, and pitchers Warran Spahn, a 20-game winner, and Red Murff. Spahn and Murff are 35.

Philadelphia has two aging outfielders in Frankie Baumholtz, 37, and Elmer Valo, 35.

The Cards have another over-35 years player besides Dickson. He's Stan Musial, who at 36, will be seeking his seventh National League batting title.

Ford Retains Lead As Top Money Winner

DUNEDIN, Fla., March 9 (UP) —Old pro Doug Ford, who almost took up baseball instead of golf, held onto the lead Saturday as the top money winner on the PGA circuit, according to figures released by the PGA.

The Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., pro has picked up $13,260 in prize money so far this year.

Newcomer Arnold Palmer, who knew he wanted to be a golfer all along, trails in second place with a total take of $9,762. The youngster from Latrobe, Pa., who won the Houston Open, is having his greatest year.

Jay Hebert, Sanford, Fla., has pocketed $7,415 to hold down third place while Ed Furgol, St. Louis, is fourth with $6,011 and veteran Jimmy Demaret is fifth with $5,364.

Another newcomer, Bill Casper Jr., Chula Vista, Calif., heads the second five in sixth place. Dow Finsterwald, Bedford Heights, Ohio, Mike Souchak, Grossinger N.Y., Art Wall Jr., Pocono Manor, Pa., and Jack Burke Jr., Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., round out the first 10 money winners.

Demaret is leading in the Vardon Trophy race with an amazing stroke average of 69.75. He has used 1,116 strokes in 16 rounds. Ford is second with a 70.17 average, Jay Hebert is third with 70.47, Ed Furgol is fourth 70.50 and Dr. Cary Middlecoff, Memphis, Tenn., is fifth with 70.57.

Ted Kroll is leading the Ryder Cup point competition with 512 7-15 points. Ford is again the runner-up, only three points behind, while Middlecoff, Furgol and Burke round out the top five.

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

An era came to a close at Louisiana State University when Harry Rabenhorst completed nearly 30 years service and athletic achievements with his retirement from the coaching staff at the close of the basketball season, and L.S.U. and its athletes of the past and present will honor him at a testimonial dinner to be given at L.S.U. on April 6.

The "L" Club and friends of the veteran coach will sponsor the dinner which will be open to the public, but only a limited number of admissions will be available. Tickets are already on advanced sale and may be purchased from the L.S.U. athletic business office or from "L" Club representatives.

A native of Baton Rouge, Rabenhorst had a brilliant athletic career at Wake Forest before entering the coaching profession. His achievements at Wake Forest led to his selection as captain of that school's all-time football team.

His L.S.U. basketball teams, through 29 years, have won 344 and lost 249, claiming one national, three Southeastern Conference, and one Sugar Bowl championship. Major league baseball stars, past and present, like "Buddy" Blair, Connie Ryan, Walker Cress, Alvin Dark, Dave Madison, and Joe Adcock, attest to Coach Raby's diamond success at L.S.U.

Coach Rabenhorst will remain on the L.S.U. staff as assistant to Athletic Director Jim Corbett, a post he held since 1946 in addition to his other duties.

Speakers for the testimonial will include General Troy Middleton, president of the university, Bernie Moore, Southeastern Conference commissioner; Bob Pettit, former All-America cager at L.S.U. and now with the pro St. Louis Hawks; Enos Parker, L.S.U. student body president; and Corbett.

Attention high school basketball coaches:

The Louisiana Sports Writers Association has begun the job of compiling a list of leading prep basketball scorers for the state during the 1956-57 season. You are requested to send the names of your players who have scored 500 or more points during the season to Truman Stacey, sports editor, The American Press, Lake Charles, La.

Stacey will handle the chore of compiling the story for the association. He will need to know the number of games your player participated in, number of field goals, free shot attempts, and total points. All games, including tournaments and state playoffs, are to be included. Stacey will furnish the story to all papers of the state when finished.

By now, most of you who have been watching the sports pages regularly know that West Monroe High has a new head football coach—Cecil Pirkey of DeKalb, Tex. While most of us still have to make his acquaintence, he already has two strong personal friends in the Twin Cities. Bob Ellen, who came to Ouachita as head football coach a year ago from Texarkana, Ark., and W. L. Lewis, former DeKalb resident who is in the furniture business in West Monroe, are speaking mighty highly of Pirkey who has yet to arrive for his new position. Lewis had a son to play football for Pirkey at DeKalb High School.

We're sorry to hear of the death of Ernie Potocar at Los Angeles. Funeral there tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock at Cunningham and O'Connor Mortuary. Ernie was a catcher here for Manager "Poco" Tait's old Monroe White Sox of the Cotton States League, playing on the same team with Dave Philley, a major league veteran now. Ernie's baseball career was threatened by a "beaning" here, but he went on to play for Pensacola, Fla., Birmingham, Ala., and Hollywood, Calif.

Kell Vows Oriole Kid 'Can't Miss'

By BILL MCFARLAND

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz., March 9 (UP) — It takes one good third baseman to spot another and veteran George Kell of the Baltimore Orioles predicts 19-year-old Brooks Robinson "cant miss."

"Sure, he's trying to steel my job," said Kell, one of the game's all-time stars. "I'd kick him in the pants if he wasn't."

Nevertheless, Kell is one of the strongest boosters and most active tutors of the soft - spoken youngster from Arkansas, who threatens to move the veteran either to the bench or over to first base.

"I can't last forever," said Kell, who has starred at third base for the Philadelphia Athletics, Detroit Tigers, Boston Red Sox, Chicago White Sox and now the Orioles over a span of 14 seasons.

"I still think I've got a lot of playing time in me for the coming season at least," said George, "but I don't want to be a poor player I have two or three business interests and as soon as I have a really bad season, I'll quit."

Then Kell, and his manager, Paul Richards, returned to the subject of Robinson.

"We're bringing him along slow and easy," said Richards. "We're going to give him every chance to make good up here. Actually, he is a major league fielder right now with the best pair of hands I've ever seen on a third baseman.

"His hitting will determine how long he sticks with us and that is something he'll have to handle himself," Richards added.

A rangy six-footer weighing 170 pounds, Robinson was graduated from high school at Hot Springs, Ark., in 1955 and went directly to the Class B club at York, Pa., where he hit .331 in 95 games.

Last year, he moved up to San Antonio in the Texas League and his .272 for the season. At the tag end,he went to the Orioles for six games.

The going was tough at San Antonio, Robinson admitted, until he learned a few tricks from Harry (The Hat) Walker, former National League batting champ.

"Walker showed me how to hit the ball where it was pitched and my average picked up right away," he said, indicating he soon learned to hit outside pitches to right instead of trying to pull all pitches to left field as in end, he went to the Orioles for do.

Events Start On Speedway At 1 O'Clock

Stock car racers are scheduled to take over at the Twin City Speedway this afternoon for the first races of the kind to be promoted in this area with the leading stock car enthusiasts of this section of the state participating in the show.

Gerald Greenway, race manager, has announced the races will open with the time trials at 1 o'clock and will include heat races, consolations, and the big featured 3 o'clock.

Time trials will serve to determine the best speeds of the drivers who will be divided into groups for the heat races in which the faster cars will be handicapped by being placed last in the lineups with the slower cars out front for the start.

The first three cars in all heat events will collect purses, and all machines failing to place in the heats will come back for the consolation race and a shot at prize money for the first three finishers. All heat races will be four mile events, or eight laps around the half mile track.

The featured 15-lap race will be open to all cars but the faster machines will be moved to the front, according to their time trials, in the scramble for the sweepstakes pot.

Among drivers already registered are A. S. Whitlock, car No. 3; Bob Shoemaker, A-1; H. L Hale, No. 2; James Futch, No. 4; Royce E. Whitlock, No. 13; Dewain Richardson, No. 88; and Joe Mallard in his '46 Ford. Other drivers will be accepted for registration up to the opening of the time trials.

The races are open only to stock cars of 1940 to 1950 vintage. Drivers have been working on their cars for the past few weeks getting them ready for the races, and all will be as mechanically perfect as possible for the event.

Oliver Cloyd, West Monroe businessman, built the half mile track on 20 acres of his land in the woods north of the old Natchitoches road last year. An additional 20 acres is used for parking space.

There were two entrances to he speedway last year, and work to complete a new and better road into the area is in progress but it will not be ready for use today. However, only one of the old roads will be open to the public 'oday. Greenway said the old Natchitoches road entrance will be closed, but that fans may enter from the road off the Downing Pines road which links the old Natchitoches road with Highway 80.

Welders have been busy all week erecting a steel structure for bleachers on the easterly side of the track and most of the permanent seats are expected to be ready for use today. Greenway said he plans to have additional portable bleachers available to help seat the crowd. Crash walls have been built the past week in front of the grandstand and also on the western side of the oval.

Weather continuing good, the automobiles expect to have a good afternoon of racing. "Only a downpour of rain will stop us," Greenway said earlier this week.

Admissions will be $1.50 per person.

Greenway last night said the 20-acre plot reserved for parking automobiles alongside the track will not be in shape to stand the traffic today because most of the ground is soft from recent rain. He advises that fans park on the Natchitoches road and walk to the speedway if they can't find more suitable space. Later in the season when the ground is in better shape, the regular parking space will be available.

Junior-Midget Tourney Slated Next Weekend

The Monroe Recreation department will sponsor its annual Junior-Midget Basketball Tournament here next Friday and Saturday and the event will be open to all boys' teams that participated in the department's winter program.

Tomorrow will be the deadline for posting entries. Teams still desiring to contend in either division are advised to contact James McKay, assistant recreation director, not later than tomorrow at the Monroe Recreation Center.

Teams already entered are:

Juniors — Independents, Trinity, West Monroe Key Club, College Place, Assembly of God, Bulldogs, and Bo-Jets, Stars, St. Matthew's.

Midgets — St. Matthew's and Wildcats.

Register Little Boys For West Monroe Loops

Registration for Little Boys League baseball in West Monroe will open tomorrow for all youngsters between eight and 12 years of age desiring to tryout for the teams this year, it is announced by Dan McClure.

All boys in the northside area of West Monroe are to register with "Lefty" Winters at 901 Cypress street, and all in the southside zone are to register with Harold Hill at the city hall.

Registration deadline is March 30.

The board of directors meets again March 26 to plan details of workouts for the new players.

M'CLURE REBUILDS

Rebs Opening With Chiefs

West Monroe High School's Rebels launch an 18-game spring schedule tomorrow when Coach Dan McClure sends his charges against the Calhoun High Chieftains at Legion Memorial Stadium here at 3:30 o'clock. It will be the first of three games during the week for the Rebs who travel to Calhoun for a Wednesday date and return here to meet Marion High Friday afternoon.

Eighty-three boys from the eighth grade through the twelfth reported to Coach McClure last week to find practically every position on the team wide open, but bad weather hampered their work, and the Rebs have got most of their training for the campaign in the gymnasium.

The only position that appears sewed up is at shortstop where Shelby Aulds expects to rule again as the only returning veteran of last year's club. Pitcher Ronnie Gallien lettered at limited duty last year and posted a 3-1 record, and he is expected to carry a big load for the mound corps this trip. Experience in American Legion Junior, Babe Ruth League, and Little Eight League play will serve many of the boys in their battle to win places on the Rebel squad.

The nearly all-senior squad last year compiled a 15-4 record, a mark that may be hard to match by the currently less experienced club.

"The squad has shown a great desire to work and has a wonderful attitude considering the schedule to be faced," Coach McClure said. "Byrd, last year's triple-A champs, are again ready to defend their title with a strong team and Fair Park and Ouachita, always ready to step in for he crown, will compose out list of conference opponents for home - and-home games in addition to such always powerful clubs as Neville, Farmerville, Bolton of Alexandria, Calhoun, Downsville, and Marion."

McClure said all home games during March will be played at Legion Memorial Stadium, beginning at 3:30.

Among leading candidates for the team are:

Catchers — Jerry Grubbs, Jim Schroeder, James Chapman, and J. D. Price.

First base — Kelton Bacon, Jimmy Edmiston, Jimmy Van Zile.

Second base — Jerry Stovall, Don Johnston, Mike Stone.

Third base — Tommy Lolly, Keith Daily.

Shortstop — Shelby Aulds, Danny McEachern.

Outfield — Joe Ford, J. L. Caldwell, Johnny Huntsman, Glenn Fleming, Harold Weir, Roscoe Halcomb, Charles strong.

Pitchers — Garlad Webb, Morris King, Gary Murphy, Jerry Ingram, Ronnie Gallion, Ronnie Haile, Aubrey Patton, Wayne Works, and Harry Boyd.

The schedule:

March 11 — Calhoun, here.
March 13 — Calhoun, there.
March 15 — Marion, here.
March 19 — Neville, home for W.M.
March 21 — Neville, home for Neville.
March 22 — Bolton, here.
March 25 — Farmerville, here.
March 29 — Fair Park at Shreveport.
April 2 — Downsville, here.
April 5 — Byrd, here.
April 9 — Ouachita, home for Ouachita
April 12 — Byrd at Shreveport
April 16 — Ouachita, home for W. M.
April 19 — Bolton at Alexandria
April 23 — Fair Park, here
April 25 — Downsville, there
April 30 — Farmerville, there

Dodgers Uncertain Of Their '58 Base

LOS ANGELES, March 9 (AP)—If you think you know for sure where the Brooklyn Dodgers are going to play in 1958, don't bet on it.

The wisdom of avoiding such wagers was indicated today by some fairly murky remarks from Los Angeles Mayor Norris Poulson, who is trying to get the Dodgers to come here, and Brooklyn President Walter O'Malley, whose precise intentions are not yet apparent.

Poulson returned last night from a conference with O'Malley at Vero Beach, Fla., and was quoted by a local paper as saying:

"It's too late to get the Brooklyn team this year, but we'll have the Dodgers in 1958."

When O'Malley heard this, he asked: "'When is that election out there? He referred to the April election in which Poulson will be trying to stay in the mayor's office.

Milwaukee's group is headed by handy Andy Pafko, 36, and pitchers Warran Spahn, a 20-game winner, and Red Murff. Spahn and Murff are 35.

Philadelphia has two aging outfielders in Frankie Baumholtz, 37, and Elmer Valo, 35.

The Cards have another over-35 years player besides Dickson. He's Stan Musial, who at 36, will be seeking his seventh National League batting title.

Ford Retains Lead As Top Money Winner

DUNEDIN, Fla., March 9 (UP) —Old pro Doug Ford, who almost took up baseball instead of golf, held onto the lead Saturday as the top money winner on the PGA circuit, according to figures released by the PGA.

The Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., pro has picked up $13,260 in prize money so far this year.

Newcomer Arnold Palmer, who knew he wanted to be a golfer all along, trails in second place with a total take of $9,762. The youngster from Latrobe, Pa., who won the Houston Open, is having his greatest year.

Jay Hebert, Sanford, Fla., has pocketed $7,415 to hold down third place while Ed Furgol, St. Louis, is fourth with $6,011 and veteran Jimmy Demaret is fifth with $5,364.

Another newcomer, Bill Casper Jr., Chula Vista, Calif., heads the second five in sixth place. Dow Finsterwald, Bedford Heights, Ohio, Mike Souchak, Grossinger N.Y., Art Wall Jr., Pocono Manor, Pa., and Jack Burke Jr., Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., round out the first 10 money winners.

Demaret is leading in the Vardon Trophy race with an amazing stroke average of 69.75. He has used 1,116 strokes in 16 rounds. Ford is second with a 70.17 average, Jay Hebert is third with 70.47, Ed Furgol is fourth 70.50 and Dr. Cary Middlecoff, Memphis, Tenn., is fifth with 70.57.

Ted Kroll is leading the Ryder Cup point competition with 512 7-15 points. Ford is again the runner-up, only three points behind, while Middlecoff, Furgol and Burke round out the top five.

Romack Captures Florida East Coast Tourney

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 9 (UP) — Barbara Romack, who says her mind is more on romance than on golf, Saturday became the first woman to take three major winter circuit golf titles since the late Babe Zaharias' amateur days.

The Sacramento, Calif., amateur used her new - found "relaxed" putting skill to defeat 16-year-old Ann Middlemas of Panama City, Fla., 5 and 4, in the tournament finals over the Ponce De Leon course here.

Miss Romack said that the promising young Floridan "outplayed me from tee-to-green, but that old chipper and putter just worked for me."

"I've never played like this before and I think that it is because I'm more relaxed. You know, I'm going to be married in May (to Sacramento golf pro Buddy Porter), and I think I'm more relaxed."

Neville Smashes Covington, 72 To 42

Bengal Cagers Reach State's Twin-A Finals

By LEMMIE HIGHTOWER

Smelling the scent of a double-A state championship, the Neville Tigers turned to Tiger-like viciousness here last night to maul the Covington Lions, 72-42, in the semi-finlas of the statewide chase.

The victory advances the Bengals into the title battle against the winner of last night's Jonesboro-New Iberia game at New Iberia and boosts their season's record to 33-4. The defeat marked Covington's sixth of the season against 29 wins.

Four Neville players notched double-figure scoring for the evening with Groves leading on 20 points. Fred Southerland registered 15, Johnny Blake collected 14, and Bob Mosley tallies 13 to round out the quartet.

Center Stanley Jacobs bucketed 33 of Covington's 42 scorings.

Southerland pulled in the opening tip-off to quickly pop the net and put the Tigers out front. Covington then deadlocked the affair on a field goal by Jacobs. Seconds later the Lions led, 4-3, but were never to find the pace again.

A wide awake Neville team used flashy passwork and control of the backboards to keep the visitors in the background all evening.

At the end of the first quarter Neville led, 21-12.

The second round was much the same tale with Tiger set shot artists outscoring Jacobs, who was badly in need of the No. 2 Covington scorer, Phil Pfeifer. Pfeffer was out of the game due to an attack of mumps. Neville was out front, 38-22, at the halfway point.

In the third period, Jacobs collected only three field goals for the St. Tammany Parishers while the Bengals continued their tip-in tactics for an 18-point showing.

Neville reserves came into action about a minute and a half before the final horn. But even with the youngsters on the court, the discouraged Lions could only match the opposition.

Neville coach Hershel McConathy announced late last night that his Tiger quintet will face Jonesboro here Tuesday night for the state title. Jonesboro whipped New Iberia, 79-63, in their semi-final tilt.

Jonesboro bent Neville twice in district action while the Monroyans won over the Jackson Parish crew once. Jonesboro now holds a 33-3 record for the year.

Thomson 2-Stroke Leader

PENSACOLA, Fla., March 9 (UP)—Australian Peter Thomson, wielding a sure putter, shot the best round of the event so far, a five-under-par 67, to take a two-stroke lead Saturday at the end of 54 holes in the $15,000 Pensacola Open Golf Tournament.

Thomson, three times British Open champion, had seven birdies and only two bogeys for a three-round total of 205, two strokes ahead of Art Wall Jr., Pocono Manor, Pa., who carded 69.

"The long ones went in," said Thomson, a five-foot, nine-inch, 165-pound pro from Melbourne.

He sank a 45-foot sloping putt on the second hole, and dropped a 40-footer on no. 16 to take birdies on both par three holes.

Thomson said the wind gave him little trouble over the 6,325-yard par-72 Pensacola Country Club Course. The wind was still brisk at times and the weather chilly though a bright sun took away some of the bite.

"I didn't miss much," said the 27-year-old Thomson who won over $20,000 last year in eight U.S. tournaments.

"However, I did miss a couple of short ones, including a four-footer on the 14th," he added.

Wall, one of the quiet men of golf, had a total of 207 at the end of the three rounds but fell two strokes behind the Australian with whom he tied for first place Friday.

Wall had three straight birdies on the front nine and missed his chance for a fourth when a 35-foot putt rolled over the cup on the ninth hole.

Five strokes off the pace was Marty Furgol, Lemont, Ill., who shot a four-under-par 68 for a total of 210 going into Sunday's final round.

It was a rough day for Doug Ford, Mahopac, N.Y., leading money winner this year. He could do nothing right on the first nine, shooting a nine-over-par 45. Ford's 35 on the back side gave him an 80 for the day and a toll of 221.

Despite the wind, par took a beating as two pros, veteran Marty Furgol and Al Balding, Toronto, Canada, turned in 68s and seven others, including a local amateur, had 69s. Balding's round gave him a 212 total, seven strokes off the lead.

Bo Winninger, Odessa, Tex., runner-up last year, shot a two-under-par 70 for a total of 213, eight strokes back.

Walter Burkemo, Franklin Hills, Mich., carded one of the 69s, good enough for fourth place, just ahead of Balding, with a total of 211.

Jonesboro-Hodge Routs New Iberia

JONESBORO, La., March 9 (Special)—The Jonesboro-Hodge Tigers, with Charles Pixley on a 30-point spree, walloped New Iberia, 79-63, here tonight to march into the state double-A basketball finals alongside the Neville Tigers of Monroe. The rival Bengal quintets meet in Monroe next Tuesday night for the championship.

Pixley's production tonight brought him to a 22-point average per game for the season. David Brown hooped the basket that sent J-H ahead to stay. The J-H outfit led 39-22 at the half, and was in front 63-45 going into the last period.

Heads Of Babe Ruth Baseball Meeting Here

Officials of Louisiana leagues in the Babe Ruth youth baseball program and other interested persons will attend a state meeting of the organization at the Penn Hotel here at 12:30 p.m. today.

State Director Walter Reed of Monroe will preside at the session, which will plan the program's 1957 season in Louisiana. Election of a 1957 state director, plans for expansion, the annual state tournament and particular problems will be among topics on the agenda.

Joseph W. Cookson, administrative secretary of the program which saw 75,000 youngsters participate in 47 states and five Canadian provinces last year, will be special guest at the meeting. He will relate recent developments in the rapidly growing program and show sound movies of the 1956 Babe Ruth League World Series, played in Portland, Ore.

Reed, who has predicted a continuing growth of the organization in Louisiana in 1957, has invited representatives of interested communities to attend the gathering. "We hope all communities interested in baseball for 13, 14 and 15-year-old boys will be represented at the session," he declared.

In 1956, some 15 leagues participated in the program in Louisiana, with the all-stars of the Maison-Blanche League of New Orleans winning the state championship.

Eight Bulldog Cagers Named As Lettermen

RUSTON, La., Mar. 9 (Special)—Two seniors, two sophomores and four freshmen lettermen of Louisiana Tech's basketball squad of last season have been named lettermen.

Tech's Bulldggs completed the 1956-57 schedule with a 6-4 won-loss record and second place in the Gulf States Conference and a 14-11 standing in all games played.

Tech Athletic Director Joe Aillet announced that letters have been awarded to Jap Gullatt, Simsboro forward; Jim Knotts, Doyline guard; Raymond Germany, Holly Ridge center; Charles Frye, Pittsburg, Tex., guard; Gary Richardson, Shreveport forward; Tommy Grissom, Carthage, Tex., center; Ronald Woodward, Worden, Ill., forward; and J. W. Mercer, Mangham forward.

Gullatt and Knotts are the seniors who have completed their eligibility with the Canines. Germany and Frye are sophomores and the others are freshmen.

Pro-Am Event At Municipal Club Thursday

A pro-am "dog fight" golf tournament is scheduled for next Thursday afternoon at Municipal Golf Club here.

Hugh A. Britt, club pro, last night said the tournament will begin at 1 o'clock, and he requests that all professionals and amateurs planning to participate register at the clubhouse not later than 12:45 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Carrasquel Acceps Terms With Indians

TUCSON, Ariz., March 9 (AP) — Shortstop Chico Carrasquel, the last remaining holdout on the Cleveland Indians' roster, signed his 1957 contract today following a conference with General Manager Hank Greenberg.

Salary terms were not announced, but Carrasuel is reported to have taken a cut to $18,500, with a bonus arrangement based on attendance figures. He received $20,000 last season.

Carrasuel arrived here only yesterday following an ultimatum from Greenberg to report for spring training by March 8 "or else."

BASEBALL IS BUSINESS

Official With Nats Says Court Wrong

WASHINGTON, March 9 (UP) — A high official of the Washington Senators said Saturday that baseball is a business — the Supreme Court notwithstanding — and Congress should so declare it.

"And it's big business," C. Leo DeOrsey said in a United Press interview in which he proposed a drastic overhaul of the present baseball system to counter congressional monopoly charges.

DeOrsey, newest member of the Washington club's directorate and counsel for the Griffith family which owns controlling interest, proposed that:

1. The American and National leagues be replaced by a single league of 16 teams with an eastern and a western division comprised of eight teams each. He said this would meet one of the chief criticisms that the present setup is monopolistic and pave the way for Los Angeles and San Francisco to become major league cities.

2. A limit be placed on the number of farm teams and farm players a major league club can have because 'the greatest monopoly in baseball is the farm system." DeOrsey said in this way, big league baseball could "stop some of the New York Yankee dominance by limiting the number of players they can have."

3. Revise the controversial reserve clause because "you are going to arrive at a situation where you can't hold on to your ball player forever." He suggested an "option clause" type contract under which a club could hold on to a player for a certain time of usefulness—say under 10 years—for so much for one year with an option for other years."

DeOrsey, noted Washington tax lawyer who represents Arthur Godfrey and other notables, said he disagrees with "the conclusion reached by the Supreme Court that there's a difference between football and baseball."

"I disagree with the idea that baseball is a hobby," he said. "I think it is a business, and a big business. My vote as a member of the Washington club's board of directors will be cast along business lines; not hobby lines."

The Supreme Court ruled Feb. 25 that football is a business and subject to the anti-trust laws. In 1922 the tribunal held that baseball is a sport and not subject to the laws. The baseball ruling has gone undisturbed since. The court, in its football ruling, invited Congress to take a close look at baseball's exempt status. It said then that the "orderly way to eliminate error or discrimination, if any there be, is by legislation and not by court decision."

Since then bills that would accomplish opposite purposes have been introduced in the House. On the one hand there are bills to give football, basketball and hockey the same anti-trust exemption enjoyed by baseball. Other legislation would bring baseball under the anti-trust laws.

19-Game Baseball Slate For Indians

Coach George Luffey yesterday announced a 19-game schedule, including four double headers, for his Northeast Louisiana State baseball club this season.

The Indians, currently seeking talent to fill gaps left from the 1956 team, have two weeks to get ready for their season opener with the Delta State Teachers here March 23.

Delta State and Louisiana College are the only non-conference rivals on the slate. Otherwise, the Tribe will be meeting every Gulf States Conference rival three times, including a double header with all but Louisiana Tech.

The schedule:

March 23 — Delta State, here.
March 26 — Delta State at Cleveland, Miss.
March 30 — Louisiana College, here.
April 5 — Northwestern State, here.
April 6 — Southeastern, here (double header)
April 12 — Louisiana Tech at Ruston.
April 13 — Louisiana Tech, here.
April 15 — S.L.I. at Lafayette.
April 16 — McNeese at Lake Charles (double header)
April 26 — Southeastern at Hammond.
April 27 — Northwestern at Natchitoches (double header).
April 30 — Louisiana College at Pineville.
May 4 — Louisiana Tech at Ruston.
May 10 — McNeese, here.
May 11 — S.L.I. here (double header).

Houma Keglers Early Leaders In Tournament

Melancan Plumbing of Houma took the lead in team bowling in opening matches of the Louisiana Women's Handicap Tournament here last night with 3,107 pins. In the runner-up position was Falstaff of New Orleans, 3,081. Ranked third was City Pharmacy of Lafayette, 2,935.

Singles and doubles competition is on tap for today at Monroe Bowling Center.

The tournament will continue here for four more weekends in determining state champions in team, singles, doubles, and all-events.

New Orleans Falstaff rolled a 2,711 scratch last night, sparked by Carol Fortunate who had games of 233-210-191. She has a scratch total of 634, a handicap of 45 for a 679. She won the Louisiana State Scratch Tournament here last October and also was a semi-finalist in the National All-Star at Chicago last November.

Tech Golfers Rout Ouachita College, 21-0

RUSTON, La., March 9 (Special) — Louisiana Tech's golfers successfully opened the 1957 season here Saturday with a 21-0 win over Ouachita College of Arkadelphia, Ark.

Defending champions of the Gulf States Conference, the Tech linksmen swept through the match and took every point.

Roy Nash of Monroe and Irving King of Shreveport, playing the No. 3 and No. 4 positions for the Bulldogs, tied for the day's low scores with 73s. Low scorers for the visiting Ouachita team were Paul Hardage and Ralph Williams who turned in 82s.

Next action for the Tech team will be Friday in a clash with McNeese State at Lake Charles.

Summary:

Howard Dennis, Tech, beat Hardage, 3-0.

Jerry Latham, Tech, beat Jack Nowlin, 3-0.

Dennis and Latham beat Hardage and Nowlin, 3-0.

Nash, Tech, beat Williams, 3-0.

Gambling Grid Hopefuls Busy In Spring Work

GRAMBLING, La., March 9 (Special) — Football practice got underway at Grambling College this week with a dozen ex-prep and junior college stars determined to prove that their reputations weren't made on paper.

Railbirds centered most of their attention on Don Stephenson, a 220-pound six-foot-three halfback who scored 2 touchdowns last fall for E. J. Campbell High in Nacogdoches, Tex., and received scholarship offers from 11 colleges and universities.

He punts, passes, blocks, runs and tackles with frightening fury and has a good classroom and football head.

Invitations went out to approximately 45 gridders last week and Coach Eddie Robinson indicated that only those persons who were asked are participating in spring drills.

Neville Smashes Covington, 72 To 42

Bengal Cagers Reach State's Twin-A Finals

By LEMMIE HIGHTOWER

Smelling the scent of a double-A state championship, the Neville Tigers turned to Tiger-like viciousness here last night to maul the Covington Lions, 72-42, in the semi-finlas of the statewide chase.

The victory advances the Bengals into the title battle against the winner of last night's Jonesboro-New Iberia game at New Iberia and boosts their season's record to 33-4. The defeat marked Covington's sixth of the season against 29 wins.

Four Neville players notched double-figure scoring for the evening with Groves leading on 20 points. Fred Southerland registered 15, Johnny Blake collected 14, and Bob Mosley tallies 13 to round out the quartet.

Center Stanley Jacobs bucketed 33 of Covington's 42 scorings.

Southerland pulled in the opening tip-off to quickly pop the net and put the Tigers out front. Covington then deadlocked the affair on a field goal by Jacobs. Seconds later the Lions led, 4-3, but were never to find the pace again.

A wide awake Neville team used flashy passwork and control of the backboards to keep the visitors in the background all evening.

At the end of the first quarter Neville led, 21-12.

The second round was much the same tale with Tiger set shot artists outscoring Jacobs, who was badly in need of the No. 2 Covington scorer, Phil Pfeffer. Pfeffer was out of the game due to an attack of mumps. Neville was out front, 38-22, at the halfway point.

In the third period, Jacobs collected only three field goals for the St. Tammany Parishers while the Bengals continued their tip-in tactics for an 18-point showing.

Neville reserves came into action about a minute and a half before the final horn. But even with the youngsters on the court, the discouraged Lions could only match the opposition.

Neville coach Hershel McConathy announced late last night that his Tiger quintet will face Jonesboro here Tuesday night for the state title. Jonesboro whipped New Iberia, 79-63, in their semi-final tilt.

Jonesboro bent Neville twice in district action while the Monroyans won over the Jackson Parish crew once. Jonesboro now holds a 33-3 record for the year.

Thomson 2-Stroke Leader

PENSACOLA, Fla., March 9 (UP)—Australian Peter Thomson, wielding a sure putter, shot the best round of the event so far, a five-under-par 67, to take a two-stroke lead Saturday at the end of 54 holes in the $15,000 Pensacola Open Golf Tournament.

Thomson, three times British Open champion, had seven birdies and only two bogeys for a three-round total of 205, two strokes ahead of Art Wall Jr., Pocono Manor, Pa., who carded 69.

"The long ones went in," said Thomson, a five-foot, nine-inch, 165-pound pro from Melbourne

He sank a 45-foot sloping putt on the second hole, and dropped a 40-footer on no. 16 to take birdies on both par three holes.

Thomson said the wind gave him little trouble over the 6,325-yard par-72 Pensacola Country Club Course. The wind was still brisk at times and the weather chilly though a bright sun took away some of the bite.

"I didn't miss much," said the 27-year-old Thomson who won over $20,000 last year in eight U.S. tournaments.

"However, I did miss a couple of short ones, including a four-footer on the 14th," he added.

Wall, one of the quiet men of golf, had a total of 207 at the end of the three rounds but fell two strokes behind the Australian with whom he tied for first place Friday.

Wall had three straight birdies on the front nine and missed his chance for a fourth when a 35-foot putt rolled over the cup on the ninth hole.

Five strokes off the pace was Marty Furgol, Lemont, Ill., who shot a four-under-par 68 for a total of 210 going into Sunday's final round

It was a rough day for Doug Ford, Mahopac, N.Y., leading money winner this year. He could do nothing right on the first nine, shooting a nine-over-par 45. Ford's 35 on the back side gave him an 80 for the day and a totl of 221.

Despite the wind, par took a beating as two pros, veteran Marty Furgol and Al Balding, Toronto, Canada, turned in 68s and seven others, including a local amateur, had 69s. Balding's round gave him a 212 total, seven strokes off the lead.

Bo Winninger, Odessa, Tex., runner-up last year, shot a two-under-par 70 for a total of 213, eight strokes back.

Walter Burkemo, Franklin Hills, Mich., carded one of the 69s, good enough for fourth place, just ahead of Balding, with a total of 211.

Heads Of Babe Ruth Baseball Meeting Here

Officials of Louisiana leagues in the Babe Ruth youth baseball program and other interested persons will attend a state meeting of the organization at the Penn Hotel here at 12:30 p.m. today.

State Director Walter Reed of Monroe will preside at the session, which will plan the program's 1957 season in Louisiana. Election of a 1957 state director, plans for expansion, the annual state tournament and particular problems will be among topics on the agenda.

Joseph W. Cookson, administrative secretary of the program which saw 75,000 youngsters participate in 47 states and five Canadian provinces last year, will be special guest at the meeting. He will relate recent developments in the rapidly growing program and show sound movies of the 1956 Babe Ruth League World Series, played in Portland, Ore.

Reed, who has predicted a continuing growth of the organization in Louisiana in 1957, has invited representatives of interested communities to attend the gathering. "We hope all communities interested in baseball for 13, 14 and 15-year-old boys will be represented at the session," he declared

In 1956, some 15 leagues participated in the program in Louisiana, with the all-stars of the Maison-Blanche League of New Orleans winning the state championship.

Eight Bulldog Cagers Named As Lettermen

RUSTON, La., Mar. 9 (Special) —Two seniors, two sophomores and four freshmen members of Louisiana Tech's basketball squad of last season have been named lettermen.

Tech's Bulldggs completed the 1956-57 schedule with a 6-4 won-loss record and second place in the Gulf States Conference and a 14-11 standing in all games played.

Tech Athletic Director Joe Aillet announced that letters have been awarded to Jap Gullatt, Simsboro forward; Jim Knotts, Doyline guard; Raymond Germany, Holly Ridge center; Charles Frye, Pittsburg, Tex., guard; Gary Richardson, Shreveport forward; Tommy Grissom, Carthage, Tex., center; Ronald Woodward, Worden, Ill., forward; and J. W. Mercer, Mangham forward.

Gullatt and Knotts are the seniors who have completed their eligibility with the Canines. Germany and Frye are sophomores and the others are freshmen.

Pro-Am Event At Municipal Club Thursday

A pro-am "dog fight" golf tournament is scheduled for next Thursday afternoon at Municipal Golf Club here.

Hugh A. Britt, club pro, last night said the tournament will begin at 1 o'clock, and he requests that all professionals and amateurs planning to participate register at the clubhouse not later than 12:45 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

BASEBALL IS BUSINESS

Official With Nats Says Court Wrong

WASHINGTON, March 9 (UP) — A high official of the Washington Senators said Saturday that baseball is a business — the Supreme Court notwithstanding — and Congress should so declare it.

"And it's big business," C. Leo DeOrsey said in a United Press interview in which he proposed a drastic overhaul of the present baseball system to counter congressional monopoly charges.

DeOrsey, newest member of the Washington club's directorate and counsel for the Griffith family which owns controlling interest, proposed that:

1. The American and National leagues be replaced by a single league of 16 teams with an eastern and a western division comprised of eight teams each. He said this would meet one of the chief criticisms that the present setup is monopolistic and pave the way for Los Angeles and San Francisco to become major league cities.

2. A limit be placed on the number of farm teams and farm players a major league club can have because 'the greatest monopoly in baseball is the farm system." DeOrsey said in this way, big league baseball could "stop some of the New York Yankee dominance by limiting the number of players they can have."

3. Revise the controversial reserve clause because "you are going to arrive at a situation where you can't hold on to your ball player forever." He suggested an "option clause" type contract under which a club could hold on to a player for a certain time of usefulness—say under 10 years—for so much for one year with an option for other years."

DeOrsey, noted Washington tax lawyer who represents Arthur Godfrey and other notables, said he disagrees with "the conclusion reached by the Supreme Court that there's a difference between football and baseball."

"I disagree with the idea that baseball is a hobby," he said. "I think it is a business, and a big business. My vote as a member of the Washington club's board of directors will be cast along business lines; not hobby lines."

The Supreme Court ruled Feb. 25 that football is a business and subject to the anti-trust laws. In 1922 the tribunal held that baseball is a sport and not subject to the laws. The baseball ruling has gone undisturbed since. The court, in its football ruling, invited Congress to take a close look at baseball's exempt status. It said then that the "orderly way to eliminate error or discrimination, if any there be, is by legislation and not by court decision."

Since then bills that would accomplish opposite purposes have been introduced in the House. On the one hand there are bills to give football, basketball and hockey the same anti-trust exemption enjoyed by baseball Other legislation would bring baseball under the anti-trust laws.

19-Game Baseball Slate For Indians

Coach George Luffey yesterday announced a 19-game schedule, including four double headers, for his Northeast Louisiana State baseball club this season.

The Indians, currently seeking talent to fill gaps left from the 1956 team, have two weeks to get ready for their season opener with the Delta State Teachers here March 23.

Delta State and Louisiana College are the only non-conference rivals on the slate. Otherwise, the Tribe will be meeting every Gulf States Conference rival three times, including a double header with all but Louisiana Tech.

The schedule:

March 23 — Delta State, here.

March 26 — Delta State at Cleveland, Miss.

March 30 — Louisiana College, here.

April 5 — Northwestern State, here.

April 6 — Southeastern, here (double header)

April 12 — Louisiana Tech at Ruston.

April 13 — Louisiana Tech, here.

April 15 — S.L.I. at Lafayette.

April 16 — McNeese at Lake Charles (double header)

April 26 — Southeastern at Hammond.

April 27 — Northwestern at Natchitoches (double header).

April 30 — Louisiana College at Pineville.

May 4 — Louisiana Tech at Ruston.

May 10 — McNeese, here.

May 11 — S.L.I. here (double header).

Tech Golfers Rout Ouachita College, 21-0

RUSTON, La., March 9 (Special) — Louisiana Tech's golfers successfully opened the 1957 season here Saturday with a 21-0 win over Ouachita College of Arkadelphia, Ark.

Defending champions of the Gulf States Conference, the Tech linksmen swept through the match and took every point.

Roy Nash of Monroe and Irving King of Shreveport, playing the No. 3 and No. 4 positions for the Bulldogs, tied for the day's low scores with 73s. Low scorers for the visiting Ouachita team were Paul Hardage and Ralph Williams who turned in 82s.

Next action for the Tech team will be Friday in a clash with McNeese State at Lake Charles.

Summary:

Howard Dennis, Tech, beat Hardage, 3-0.

Jerry Latham, Tech, beat Jack Nowlin, 3-0.

Dennis and Latham beat Hardage and Nowlin, 3-0.

Nash, Tech, beat Williams, 3-0.

King, Tech, defeated Richard Wells, 3-0.

Nash and King beat Williams and Wells, 3-0.

Gambling Grid Hopefuls Busy In Spring Work

GRAMBLING, La., March 9 (Special) — Football practice got underway at Grambling College this week with a dozen ex-prep and junior college stars determined to prove that their reputations weren't made on paper.

Railbirds centered most of their attention on Don Stephenson, a 220-pound six-foot-three halfback who scored 2 touchdowns last fall for E. J. Campbell High in Nacogdoches, Tex., and recieved scholarship offers from 11 colleges and universities.

He punts, passes, blocks, runs and tackles with frightening fury and has a good classroom and football head.

Invitations went out to approximately 45 gridders last week and Coach Eddie Robinson indicated that only those persons who were asked are participating in spring drills.

Cook, Flanagan Co-Featured On Fistic Program

Clarence Cook, the Bastrop policeman, and Del Flanagan, the boxer twice beaten by the Louisiana middleweight, are co-featured on a St. Patrick's fight card tomorrow night at St. Paul, Minn., home town of Flanagan.

Cook will face Jim Hegerle, and Flanagan will go against Ramon Fuentes. Each fight is billed for ten rounds.

It will be Cook's first fight since his loss to Irish Ernie Smith at Gus Kallio's Arena here last month.

Carrasquel Acceps Terms With Indians

TUCSON, Ariz., March 9 (AP) — Shortstop Chico Carrasquel, the last remaining holdout on the Cleveland Indians' roster, signed his 1957 contract today following a conference with General Manager Hank Greenberg.

Salary terms were not announced, but Carrasuel is reported to have taken a cut to $18,500, with a bonus arrangement based on attendance figures. He received $20,000 last season.

Carrasuel arrived here only yesterday following an ultimatum from Greenberg to report for spring training by March 8 "or else."

Houma Keglers Early Leaders In Tournament

Melancan Plumbing of Houma took the lead in team bowling in opening matches of the Louiana Women's Handicap Tournament here last night with 3,107 pins. In the runner-up position was Falstaff of New Orleans, 3,081. Ranked third was City Pharmacy of Lafayette, 2,935.

Singles and doubles competition is on tap for today at Monroe Bowling Center.

The tournament will continue here for four more weekends in determining state champions in team, singles, doubles, and all-events.

New Orleans Falstaff rolled a 2,711 scratch last night, sparked by Carol Fortunate who had games of 233-210-191. She has a scratch total of 634, a handicap of 45 for a 679. She won the Louisiana State Scratch Tournament here last October and also was a semi-finalist in the National All-Star at Chicago last November.

BOWLING
With Tommy Higgins

The following 'ode' was written by J. B. Hawkins, 70-year-old Miami bowler:

Dear Lord, I'm thankful for every strike,
That goes down on my score;
Though it seems no matter how long the string,
I always could use one more.

I'm thankful, too, for every spare
No matter what the count;
Of course, I always should get nine,
Or close to that amount.

I'm grateful, too, for the splits I make,
But I can't understand at all;
How I ever make the cussed things,
The way I throw my ball.

I'm thankful as well for my teammates,
They're really a swell bunch of guys;
Of course there's one who just can't bowl,
No matter how hard he tries.

As you know, Lord, the years are whizzing by;
And before that final frame,
I'd be forever thankful
For just one 300 game!

THE BEST SERIES

The Henderson Curb Market Keglers came up with Monroe's highest team game to go along with their top series. Combining two comparative newcomers and three highly improved veterans of the bowling circuit, the Henderson team has become a tough crew to beat.

R. F. HENDERSON

The scores turned in by the team for the 1124 record game are a follows: Roy Scalia, 233; Bill Rambin, 197; Bill Hines, 194; Jerry Higgins, 192; and Bob Scott, 180. Congratulations.

HOW ABOUT THIS MEN?

Ethel Lancaster, bowling in the Tuesday night Ladies League, rolled a tremendous 571 series this past week.

The impressive series was highlighted by a 209 single game. With that type of play, she'd be hard to beat anywhere. A tip of the hat to Ethel.

DID YOU KNOW?

A young engineer's disappointment over a bowling league game called off when a pin boy failed to show up, led to the invention of the automatic pin setter and virtually revolutionized the game.

Fred Schmidt was the bowling enthusiast who, one night in 1936, had to forgo his league game. George Becherle, operator of the alley at Pearl River, N. Y., where Schmidt bowled, told him a tale of woe, describing the troubles he and 16,000 other certified alley operators had with unreliable pin boys.

He went on to say that "someone should invent an automatic pin setting machine."

Schmidt did. And now about 10,000 automatic pin setters have been placed in operation. The machine has transformed bowling into a sport attracting a higher class of operators, better financing and has resulted in the building of finer recreation centers.

This, in turn, brought out a better class of bowlers and induced them to bring their families, changing the whole tone of bowling alley operations.

All of this was accomplished just because an engineer wanted to bowl, and there was no pin boy around.

ABC TOURNAMENT

Now with the ABC tournament bowling championships that opened yesterday for a 51-day run at Forth Worth, Texas, competitors will discover that pinboys have become another sacrifice to the machine age.

For the first time in the 54-year history of the event, automatic pinspotters will take over the pin setting job. It's a concession to sustained speed and reliability.

ABC TOURNAMENT AVERAGES SURPRISING

Of 2,100,000 ABC members last year, only four per cent averaged 180 or better. Only 11 per cent averaged 170 to 179 and the national average—hold your hat—is but 154.

On the record side there have been only 14 perfect games out of 4,980,390 in 53 years. The top 10-year average is 204 and the top single mark is Lee Jouglard's 775.

In team play, the one-game mark is 1186 and the series record is 3,234. In the booster division, for teams with less than 850 average, the records are 1,046 and 2,883.

Anybody has a chance in this great tourney for example, Pat Romano, a 16-year-old Toledo, Ohio, schoolboy, in his first attempt, rolled 702, good for eighth place in 1953. In 1956, a Syracuse team finished second, although only one man averaged as high as 182. And Ed Easter of Detroit was 67 years old when his team won in 1950.

So with spirits high and ball polished, myself and 40 other local bowlers are "off to Fort Worth."

Stage Set For Big Cage Meets

Four Tourneys Get Attention Next 2 Weeks

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
The Associated Press

The booming business of deciding basketball titles, which began 20 years ago when some New York basketball writers decided to stage a post-season college tournament for an unofficial national championships, reaches its annual climax during the next two weeks.

Four national tournaments, carrying varying degrees of prestige, will be played. During the coming week the 18-year-old N.C.A.A. championship will go through its first three rounds; the National Invitation Tournament, oldest of them all, will open in Madison Square Garden; the 32-team N.A.I.A. tournament will be played to completion in Kansas City and the brand new N.C.A.A. small college tournament will be finished in Evansville, Ind.

The N.I.T. has lost most of its championship pretensions since the champions of all the major conferences are committed to the N.C.A.A. major event. Still its 12 entries include some first-rate "independent" teams, such as Seattle, Temple and Memphis State, plus the runners-up in two strong conferences.

Similarly the inauguration this year of the N.C.A.A. small college tournament this year robbed the N.A.I.A. of some of its lustre but left plenty of good small college teams.

The first two rounds of the N.C.A.A. small college tournament and district eliminations for the N.A.I.A. were run off during the past week, to be completed Saturday night. The Atlantic Coast and Southern Conference entries in the N.C.A.A. major tournament also were to be decided Sturday night in the finals of their conference championship playoffs.

A last-minute switch in the N.C.A.A. major college saw runner-up Hardin-Simmons replace Texas Western as Border Conference representative.

Texas Western withdrew after its top scorer and rebounder, Charles Brown, had been declared ineligible because he had attended Colorado A & M for three days in 1955 before transferring and didn't sit out two semester of residence as required by the N.C.A.A. Three Texas Western four-year players and four freshman reserves previously had been declared ineligible.

Here's the schedule for the remainder of tournament play:

N.C.A.A. (Major)

First Round: Monday, March 11—Hardin - Simmons vs. Idaho State at Pocatello, Idaho.

Tuesday, March 12 — Loyola (La.) at Oklahoma City University; Miami (Ohio) vs. Notre Dame and Morehead (Ky.) vs. Pittsburgh at Columbus, Ohio: Connecticut vs. Syracuse, Canisius vs. Southern Conference winner at Madison Square Garden, New York.

Lafayette, Kentucky, Michigan State, St. Louis, Kansas, Southern Methodist, Brigham Young, California and defending champion San Francisco all draw byes and will make their first appearances in the four regional tournaments March 15-16 at Philadelphia, Lexington, Ky., Dallas and Corvallis, Ore.

Semi-finals and finals at Kansas City, March 22-23.

Yale, newly - crowned Ivy League champion; Syracuse, Canisius, Pitt, Notre Dame, Oklahoma City and Loyola were named as "at large" entries. Lafayette represents the Middle Atlantic Conference and the others all are champions or co-chmpions of major conferences.

N.I.T.

First round: March 16, afternoon and night double headers—Utah vs. Memphis State, Seton Hall vs. Xavier (Ohio), Dayon vs. St. Peters (Jersey City) and Cincinnati vs. St. Bonaventure.

Seattle and Bradley were the only teams seeded among the 12 entries but Manhattan and Temple also drew byes.

Second round: March 18 — Manhatten vs. Utah-Memphis State winner; Seattle vs. Cincinnati-St. Bonaventure winner: March 19 — Temple vs. Dayton-St. Peter's winner and Bradley vs. Seton Hall-Xavier winner.

Semi-finals — March 21; finals, March 23 (afternoon).

N.C.A.A. Small College

Eight survivors of two preliminary rounds play off at Evansville, March 13-14-15.

N.A.I.A.

Play starts March 11, continues to final March 16.

San Francisco, winner of the N.C.A.A. championship for the past two years, likely will have a difficult time defending its title. The Dons, minus Bill Russell and K.C. Jones, saw their two-year unbeaten strong end early in the season and wound up with an 18-7 record although they took the California Basketball Association title.

The invitation tournament won't have a defending champion. Last year's winner, Louisville, compiled another imposing record but has been ruled ineligible for post-season competition by the N.C.A.A., with which the N.I.T. co-operates.

BIG BASS

DURANT, Okla. (AP)—Lake Texoma produced the largest bass caught in Oklahoma in 1956, an 11-pounder. James Daugherty of Denison, Tex., caught the bass with a River Runt. It weighed 11 pounds after being pulled out and several hours later weighed in at an official 10 pounds, 3 ounces.

MAKING INITIAL APPEARANCE — Chris Averoff of Athens, Greece, makes his first local appearance Tuesday night when he participates in a three-event wrestling program at Kallio's Arena. In addition to being fast and scientific, Averoff is reported to be one of the strongest grapplers in the canvass-slapping trade today. The young Greek star is an avowed physical culturist.

Three Fresh Faces On Kallio Program

Three new faces make their appearance on the local wrestling scene this Tuesday night in answer to the demands of Kallio Arena fans. Chris Averoff from Athens, Greece, Earl Guess of Jackson, Miss. and Jack Dugas, who calls Quebec, Canada home, will make their debut in a six-man battle royal opener that kicks off a three -event schedule for the night.

Promoter Gus Kallio in announcing his card last night said that he had received requests from a large number of his regular customers for new grapplers on the Walnut Street mat.

Kallio stated, "I've always tried to give the fans what they want and I intend to continue that policy. We have three new boys on Tuesday's card and we'll probably have more in the future. Our matches are going to be as well-balanced as I can make them"

Jack Curtis, "Wild Bill" Steddum, and Bernard Hodgemyer round out the royal scramble, presenting three faces that will certainly be familiar to the weekly Kallio's patron.

The first and second grapplers who are pinned in the opening free-for-all will be eliminated from all other dueling during the evening and will receive no pay for their night's work. The No. 3 and No. 4 men to meet defeat will clash in the semi - final with the remaining two battling in the main event.

Averoff, a 225 - pound young Greek star with a Groucho Marx mustache, presents a fast and scientific challenger for any opponent. An outstanding amateur record gives the 5' 11" physical culturist a complete background in the "ins" and "outs" of the bone-twisting trade. Chris, who often uses Greco - Roman wrestling, can take punishment as well as any grappler in the ring today, but when the situation requires hold action, he can turn the tables.

It has been said that the three R's could easily describe Jack Dugas — rough, rugged, and ready. The flashy Canadian was once the amateur champ of the Province of Quebec but now has backed that title with nine years of professional dueling. An outstanding baseball player and swimmer, Dugas has traveled into the south to campaign for the southern heavyweight championship.

The former lumberjack had this to say about his plans, "I have heard a lot about the tough boys they have in the South and I am here to see just how tough they are."

Eight Gilbert Senior Cagers Get Sweaters

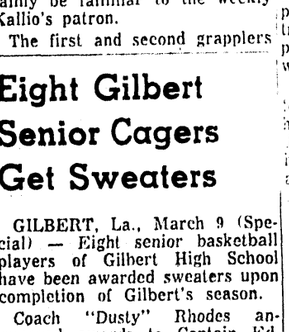
GILBERT, La., March 9 (Special) — Eight senior basketball players of Gilbert High School have been awarded sweaters upon completion of Gilbert's season.

Coach "Dusty" Rhodes announced awards to Captain Edward Southern, Dewey McMurray, Bill Turnbough, and Dewitt Robinson of the boys' team, and Co-Captain Hilda Lachney, Mary Ethel King, Bettie Jean Barton, and Jorce Graham of the girls' team.

On the intrumural side here, the boys' ninth grade team won the intramural tourney by defeating the eleventh grade, 12-9, and the twelfth grade girls won out in the finals over the ninth grade, 16-15.

The intramural games, played for the benefit of the school's Jacket Fund, netted $18.40 at five cents per admission and strong rivalty featured the intramural battles the past week.

NEW CAR CHAMP



L. H. Boyd

Jack D. Bolin, General Sales Manager, Ryan - Polk Chevrolet Company, takes pleasure in announcing that L. H. Boyd was the champion new car salesman for the month of February.

Federal Hill Shows Way Home In Louisiana Derby

NEW ORLEANS, March 9 (UP)—Federal Hill, an invader from Florida, owned by Clifford Lussky and ridden by Willie Carstens, scored a length and a half victory over Shan Pac Saturday in the 32nd running of the $40,000 Louisiana Derby at the Fair Grounds.

Federal Hill took the mile and an eighth distance in 1:49 and 3-5, equalling the track record set by Marriage in 1943.

Shan Pac, from T. A. Grissom's stable, took second spot four lengths ahead of Federal Judge in the third position.

A crowd of 18,400 was in attendance at the sunny closing day event and made Dr. Pete Graffagino's locally bred colt Beauguerre the nine to five favorite Beauguerre finished fifth.

Federal Hill paid $6.80, $4.00 and $3.60. Shan Pac returned $3.20 and $3.20 to show, and Federal Judge paid $6.40.

As starter Eric Blind sent the field of nine horses on its way over a fast track, it was Federal Hill who showed the way by a two - length margin followed by Federal Judge and Beauguerre, while Shan Pac was running in the fifth position.

They raced that way up until the turn for home when Federal Hill drew off to a four-length lead and jockey Adams moved Shan Pac up to the second spot, cutting into Federal Hill's margin at the finish.

The track ended its 83-day meeting with its first million dollar betting day when the crowd wagered $1,000,561. The track's previous high of $927,455 was set on closing day last year.

The fans also set a Fair Grounds high for a daily double pool, $85,754. The old mark of $75,568 was set last year.

OUTDOORS

By DION HENDERSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

Where are the fans of yesteryear, and the good money they used to plunk down for tickets to the ballpark?

Gone fishing, maybe.

This may be an aggravated case of oversimplification, but it's oased at least in part on the observation that there are more beer cans to trip over on the beaches than there used to be in the bleachers.

And although the picture of a barefoot boy with fishpole and can of worms may not make as satisfying an ogre as the cyclopean television camera, it's something for the spectator sports promoters to ponder when the attendance figures start showing light.

Let's go back a little, for a minute. A decade ago, the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service figured out there were something under 14 million fishermen.

But there was no cause to worry. In 1948, the American League set an all-time season attendance record, drawing 11,150,099 paid admissions to junior circuit baseball parks. The National League was just short of 10 million that year. Total for the majors nearly 21 million, against those fishermen.

Now let's move up to last year. Major league baseball, after eight years of more or less steady decline, attracted only 16,543,250 cash customers at regular dates—about one-fifth fewer than 1948.

But the number of fishermen was up more than 50 per cent, to a total just about matching big league baseball's best of 21 million.

Of course, these figures don't take into account what's happened to the minor leagues of organized baseball. But what's happened to the minor leagues in the same interval should happen to a bullhead at a Friday night fish fry—and frequently does, which may be part of the trouble.

Where once the minors flourished, in the mid-south, on the prairies, in the former wastelands of the southwest, folks scramble to spend their free time on the business end of a fish pole plying the waters of great impoundments, of refurbished creeks and rivers, of sparkling lakes dug right out of whole sod.

In hundreds of communities where for 50 years the choice of spending a Sunday afternoon lay between going to the ball game or hearing grandpaw tell again how he got his pocket picked at a burlecue in '08, the challenge of the pond, bream and impoundment bass has emptied the grandstand and even forced grandpaw to change his story to tales of the one that got away.

Even if you add all the attendance of all ball yards — majors, minors, the minor all-starr game, playoffs and inter-league play, you come up with a figure of something under 34 million spectators-days spent watching ballplayers.

And if you multiply the 20 million fishermen by the trips they made, you come up with the fantastic figure supplied the Fish & Wildlife Service by a national survey last year: 397 million fishing days.

Not that the two sports can't get along together — the Milwaukee Braves and the Wisconsin fishermen demonstrate that.

The Braves have drawn over two million fans during each of the past three years, while Wisconsin's lakes and streams have drawn more than a million fishermen for a total of about five times as many trips.

What does it all prove?

Maybe nothing except that you won't find as many muskies on the mezzanine at Milwaukee County Stadium as you will radios in rowboats somewhere on the 3,000 handy lakes.

The schedule of Solunar periods printed below has been taken from John Alden Knight's Solunar tables. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good over during these times if you wish to find the best spot that each day has to offer.

A.M.	TODAY		P.M.

A.M.	TOMORROW		P.M.
Minor	Major	Minor	Major

The major periods begin at the times shown and last for an hour and a half or two hours thereafter.

The minor periods are of similar duration.

BOWLING

With Tommy Higgins

The following 'ode' was written by J. B. Hawkins, 70-year-old Miami bowler:

Dear Lord, I'm thankful for every strike,
That goes down on my score;
Though it seems no matter how long the string,
I always could use one more.

I'm thankful, too, for every spare
No matter what the count;
Of course, I always should get nine,
Or close to that amount.

I'm grateful, too, for the splits I make,
But I can't understand at all;
How I ever make the cussed things,
The way I throw my ball.

I'm thankful as well for my teammates,
They're really a swell bunch of guys;
Of course there's one who just can't bowl,
No matter how hard he tries.

As you know, Lord, the years are whizzing by;
And before that final frame,
I'd be forever thankful
For just one 300 game!

THE BEST SERIES

The Henderson Curb Market Keglers came up with Monroe's highest team game to go along with their top series. Combining two comparative newcomers and three highly improved veterans of the bowling circuit, the Henderson team has become a tough crew to beat.

R. F. HENDERSON

The scores turned in by the team for the 1124 record game are a follows: Roy Scalia, 233; Bill Rambin, 197; Bill Hines, 194; Jerry Higgins, 192; and Bob Scott, 180. Congratulations.

HOW ABOUT THIS MEN?

Ethel Lancaster, bowling in the Tuesday night Ladies League, rolled a tremendous 571 series this past week.

The impressive series was highlighted by a 209 single game. With that type of play, she'd be hard to beat anywhere. A tip of the hat to Ethel.

DID YOU KNOW?

A young engineer's disappointment over a bowling league game called off when a pin boy failed to show up, led to the invention of the automatic pin setter and virtually revolutionized the game.

Fred Schmidt was the bowling enthusiast who, one night in 1936, had to forgo his league game. George Becherle, operator of the alley at Pearl River, N. Y., where Schmidt bowled, told him a tale of woe, describing the troubles he and 16,000 other certified alley operators had with unreliable pin boys.

He went on to say that "someone should invent an automatic pin setting machine."

Schmidt did. And now about 10,000 automatic pin setters have been placed in operation. The machine has transformed bowling into a sport attracting a higher class of operators, better financing and has resulted in the building of finer recreation centers.

This, in turn, brought out a better class of bowlers and induced them to bring their families, changing the whole tone of bowling alley operations.

All of this was accomplished just because an engineer wanted to bowl, and there was no pin boy around.

ABC TOURNAMENT

Now with the ABC tournament bowling championships that opened yesterday for a 51-day run at Forth Worth, Texas, competitors will discover that pinboys have become another sacrifice to the machine age.

For the first time in the 54-year history of the event, automatic pinspotters will take over the pin setting job. It's a concession to sustained speed and reliability.

ABC TOURNAMENT AVERAGES SURPRISING

Of 2,100,000 ABC members last year, only four per cent averaged 180 or better. Only 11 per cent averaged 170 to 179 and the national average—hold your hat—is but 154.

On the record side there have been only 14 perfect games out of 4,980,390 in 53 years. The top 10-year average is 204 and the top single mark is Lee Jouglard's 775.

In team play, the one-game mark is 1186 and the series record is 3,234. In the booster division, for teams with less than 850 average, the records are 1,046 and 2,883.

Anybody has a chance in this great tourney for example, Pat Romano, a 16-year-old Toledo, Ohio, schoolboy, in his first attempt, rolled 702, good for eighth place in 1953. In 1956, a Syracuse team finished second, although only one man averaged as high as 182. And Ed Easter of Detroit was 67 years old when his team won in 1950.

So with spirits high and ball polished, myself and 40 other local bowlers are "off to Fort Worth."

The booming business of deciding basketball titles, which began 20 years ago when some New York basketball writers decided to stage a post-season college tournament for an unofficial national championships, reaches its annual climax during the next two weeks.

The N.I.T. has lost most of its championship pretensions since the champions of all the major conferences are committed to the N.C.A.A. major event. Still its 12 entries include some first-rate "independent" teams, such as Seattle, Temple and Memphis State, plus the runners-up in two strong conferences.

Similarly the inauguration this year of the N.C.A.A. small college tournament this year robbed the N.A.I.A. of some of its lustre but left plenty of good small college teams.

The first two rounds of the N.C.A.A. small college tournament and district eliminations for the N.A.I.A. were run off during the past week, to be completed Saturday night. The Atlantic Coast and Southern Conference entries in the N.C.A.A. major tournament also were to be decided Sturday night in the finals of their conference championship playoffs.

A last-minute switch in the N.C.A.A. major college saw runner-up Hardin-Simmons replace Texas Western as Border Conference representative.

Texas Western withdrew after its top scorer and rebounder, Charles Brown, had been declared ineligible because he had attended Colorado A & M for three days in 1955 before transferring and didn't sit out two semester of residence as required by the N.C.A.A. Three Texas Western four-year players and four freshman reserves previously had been declared ineligible.

Here's the schedule for the remainder of tournament play:

N.C.A.A. (Major)

First Round: Monday, March 11—Hardin - Simmons vs. Idaho State at Pocatello, Idaho.

Tuesday, March 12 — Loyola (La.) at Oklahoma City University; Miami (Ohio) vs. Notre Dame and Morehead (Ky.) vs. Pittsburgh at Columbus, Ohio; Connecticut vs. Syracuse, Canisius vs. Southern Conference winner at Madison Square Garden, New York.

Lafayette, Kentucky, Michigan State, St. Louis, Kansas, Southern Methodist, Brigham Young, California and defending champion San Francisco all drew byes and will make their first appearances in the four regional tournaments March 15-16 at Philadelphia, Lexington, Ky., Dallas and Corvallis, Ore.

Semi-finals and finals at Kansas City, March 22-23.

Yale, newly - crowned Ivy League champion; Syracuse, Canisius, Pitt, Notre Dame, Oklahoma City and Loyola were named as "at large" entries. Lafayette represents the Middle Atlantic Conference and the others all are champions or co-chmpions of major conferences.

N.I.T.

First round: March 16, afternoon and night double headers—Utah vs. Memphis State, Seton Hall vs. Xavier (Ohio), Dayon vs. St. Peters (Jersey City) and Cincinnati vs. St. Bonaventure.

Seattle and Bradley were the only teams seeded among the 12 entries but Manhattan and Temple also drew byes.

Second round: March 18 — Manhatten vs. Utah-Memphis State winner; Seattle vs. Cincinnati-St. Bonaventure winner; March 19 — Temple vs. Dayton-St. Peter's winner and Bradley vs. Seton Hall-Xavier winner.

Semi-finals — March 21; finals, March 23 (afternoon).

N.C.A.A. Small College

Eight survivors of two preliminary rounds play off at Evansville, March 13-14-15.

N.A.I.A.

Play starts March 11, continues to final March 16.

San Francisco, winner of the N.C.A.A. championship for the past two years, likely will have a difficult time defending its title. The Dons, minus Bill Russell and K.C. Jones, saw their two-year unbeaten strong end early in the season and wound up with an 18-7 record although they took the California Basketball Association title.

The invitation tournament won't have a defending champion. Last year's winner, Louisville, compiled another imposing record but has been ruled ineligible for post-season competition by the N.C.A.A., with which the N.I.T. co-operates.

Federal Hill Shows Way Home In Louisiana Derby

NEW ORLEANS, March 9 (UP)—Federal Hill, an invader from Florida, owned by Clifford Lussky and ridden by Willie Carstens, scored a length and a half victory over Shan Pac Saturday in the 32nd running of the $40,000 Louisiana Derby at the Fair Grounds.

Federal Hill took the mile and an eighth distance in 1:49 and 3-5, equalling the track record set by Marriage in 1943.

Shan Pac, from T. A. Grissom's stable, took second spot four lengths ahead of Federal Judge in the third position.

A crowd of 18,400 was in attendance at the sunny closing day event and made Dr. Pete Graffagino's locally bred colt Beauguerre the nine to five favorite Beauguerre finished fifth.

As starter Eric Blind sent the field of nine horses on its way over a fast track, it was Federal Hill who showed the way by a two - length margin followed by Federal Judge and Beauguerre, while Shan Pac was running in the fifth position.

They raced that way up until the turn for home when Federal Hill drew off to a four-length lead and jockey Adams moved Shan Pac up to the second spot, cutting into Federal Hill's margin at the finish.

The track ended its 83-day meeting with its first million dollar betting day when the crowd wagered $1,000,561. The track's previous high of $927,455 was set on closing day last year.

The fans also set a Fair Grounds high for a daily double pool, $35,754. The old mark of $75,568 was set last year.

But there was no cause to worry. In 1948, the American League set an all-time season attendance record, drawing 11,150,099 paid admissions to junior circuit baseball parks. The National League was just short of 10 million that year. Total for the majors nearly 21 million, against those fishermen.

Now let's move up to last year. Major league baseball, after eight years of more or less steady decline, attracted only 16,543,250 cash customers at regular dates—about one-fifth fewer than 1948.

But the number of fishermen was up more than 50 per cent, to a total just about matching big league baseball's best of 21 million.

Of course, these figures don't take into account what's happened to the minor leagues of organized baseball. But what's happened to the minor leagues in the same interval should happen to a bullhead at a Friday night fish fry—and frequently does, which may be part of the trouble.

Where once the minors flourished, in the mid-south, on the prairies, in the former wastelands of the southwest, folks scramble to spend their free time on the business end of a fish pole plying the waters of great impoundments, of refurbished creeks and rivers, of sparkling lakes dug right out of whole sod.

In hundreds of communities where for 50 years the choice of spending a Sunday afternoon lay between going to the ball game or hearing grandpaw tell again how he got his pocket picked at a burlecue in '03, the challenge of the pond bream and impoundment bass has emptied the grandstand and even forced grandpaw to change his story to tales of the one that got away.

Even if you add all the attendance of all ball yards — majors, minors, the minor all-starr game, playoffs and inter-league play, you come up with a figure of something under 34 million spectators-days spent watching ballplayers.

And if you multiply the 20 million fishermen by the trips they made, you come up with the fantastic figure supplied the Fish & Wildlife Service by a national survey last year: 397 million fishing days.

Not that the two sports can't get along together — the Milwaukee Braves and the Wisconsin fishermen demonstrate that.

The Braves have drawn over two million fans during each of the past three years, while Wisconsin's lakes and streams have drawn more than a million fishermen for a total of about five times as many trips.

What does it all prove?

Maybe nothing except that you won't find as many muskies on the mezzanine at Milwaukee County Stadium as you will radios in rowboats somewhere on the 3,000 handy lakes.

SOLUNAR TABLES

The schedule of Solunar periods printed below has been taken from John Alden Knight's Solunar tables. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good cover during these times if you wish to find the best spot that each day has to offer.

Lively Future Is Seen For The Ouachita

Gains Loom For Traffic On Waterway

The New Orleans Port Record, official publication of the Port of New Orleans, recently published an article describing the growth of barge traffic along the Mississippi River and the Gulf Intracoastal Waterway. The article mentions the Ouachita river as part of the vast expanse which is served by these "workhorses of the water."

While the article dealt only in one minor part with north Louisiana and south Arkansas areas, a check with the Ouachita River Valley Association headquarters in Camden, Ark., brought into focus the plans for the future of this waterway, as well as a brief glance over the past. For in the past the Ouachita river was a thoroughfare of commerce, and indications now point to a resumption of heavy traffic on the river, especially if the proposed nine - foot channel is completed.

PLEDGE RECEIVED

H. K. Thatcher, executive secretary of the Ouachita Association said already his group has a pledge of 1,150,000 tons of freight monthly for the river, when the channel is completed. Of this, 500,000 will be for the Monsanto-Lion Oil Company.

Freight moving on the river with its six - foot channel in 1956 amounted to 178,307 tons, which is the largest annual total since the peak year of 1940. At that time, 16 years ago, the yearly total was 258,183 tons.

Thatcher pointed out that during the war years nearly all barges were removed from the rivers and streams and placed on the intracoastal canals and waterways to alleviate the shipping by the larger seagoing vessels. (Inland traffic was handled almost completely by railroads and trucks.)

From the peak in 1945, the traffic on the Ouachita river dipped to its lowest tonnage, when in 1945, during the peak of the war years, was registered at 47,628. In 1950 with the return of peacetime, the river tonnage expanded to 118,427.

Of last years total of 178,307 tons, the Commercial Solvents Corporation of Sterlington shipped 74,000 tons. Other large shippers included the Gallion Lumber Company, (logs) with 43,850 tons; Lion Oil Company, 27,547 tons; International Paper Company of Bastrop, 12,500 tons. The remainder of the tonnage was made up mostly of fuel, oil, steel and allied items.

FISH SHIPPED

Of interest to many, but unknown by most residents of this area is the fact that some 250 tons of fish are shipped on the river each year.

Of special significance to the Ouachita river area is an item in the federal budget for $150,000 which will complete the blueprint and study phase of the proposed nine - foot channel. Thatcher pointed out that the work on the channel "is almost to the point of construction."

The Ouachita River Valley Association is hopeful of obtaining enough money this year to begin letting contracts before July 1 of next year, Thatcher said.

However, when the actual work will begin on the channel Thatcher said he could only guess.

Proposed for the deepening and widening of the channel will be a new lock and dam approximately 20 miles south of the present lock No. 2. Upon completion of the new lock and dam, the present one will be discarded.

WORK OUTLINED

The workmen will then come on up the river and in two or three places the lock sills will be lowered from the present 6½ - foot to a 9 - foot depth. Modified locks will also be installed.

When this work is completed the men will then go to the ther side of the river and put in nine - foot locks. The new locks will be 525 feet long and approximately 50 feet wide.

However, Thatcher pointed out the pledged tonnage for the Ouachita river, upon completion of the nine - foot channel may necessitate wider locks to accommodate the proposed traffic.

Area - wise, the inland waterways system today is a vitally important segment of the nation's economy. As a business in itself the inland waterways is not as small as one would imagine. For example, 46,000 persons are employed in the river transportation business, two - thirds of them actually working on the boats. Payrolls of riverboat employees total between 150 and 200 million dollars annually.

New water routes now being planned or open will increase the tonnage that can be carried to U. S. ports, particularly to New Orleans. The Calumet - Sag canal is being improved to facilitate barge movements from the Chicago area. The Missouri river is being deepened to connect cities like Omaha and Sioux City with the existing 15,000 miles of water routes that now feed New Orleans.

Barge lines are operating today throughout the Mississippi Valley —from the Great Lakes through Chicago, down the Illinois waterway to meet the Mississippi; from the Twin Cities of Minnesota; from the grain metropolis of Kansas City, on the Missouri; from the great industrial cities of the Ohio Valley down that stream to Cairo. All these form a network from the Mississippi and tap the Intracoastal Canal which borders Texas and Louisiana, and which reaches to Florida, and on its way connecting at Mobile with the Warrior in Alabama up into the Birmingham steel and coal areas. Through the Intercoastal canal system, the entire Gulf South has access to the Mississippi River, and shipping of products and materials by water can be easily accomplished.

BARGE LINES IN CENTRAL UNITED STATES—Printed in a recent issue of the Port Record, official publication of the Port of New Orleans, was the map shown above which pictures the main barge lines and waterways of the central part of the United States. While the Ouachita River is but a small segment of this system, it nevertheless could provide direct transportation for this area to and from the entire Mississippi River area, its tributaries, and the coastal areas along the Gulf and Atlantic seaboards.

Little America Awaits Hatching Of First 'Polar-Incubated' Eggs

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON, March 9 (UP)—Navy men on "Operation Deepfreeze" in the Antarctic are sweating out a blessed event—the birth of the first chicken ever hatched in the south polar regions.

If all goes well, the little chick will peck its way through its egg shell sometime this week-end in an improvised incubator at the Navy base at Little America. With a little luck, the chick may have two or three "real cool" brothers or sisters by next Monday.

Lt. Robert J. Adams, of Memphis, Tenn., the Naval dentist presiding over the incubator emphasizes the importance of the impending birth this way:

CHICKS WITH EARMUFFS

"These will be fabulous fowl. When you consider what the eggs have been through, you almost expect the chicks to hatch wearing earmuffs."

The story of Little America's impending triumph was radioed to Navy headquarters here by an "Operation Deepfreeze" chaplain, Lt. John E. Zollar of Shelby, Mich. He said this is what happened:

Last month, the expedition's Globemaster transport planes returned to Antarctica from New Zealand, where they had been sent some weeks earlier to await repairs to landing strips.

The planes brought with them a huge supply of fresh produce, including fruits, vegetables, and several crates of eggs which had been purchased in New Zealand stores.

DROPPED BY PARACHUTE

At McMurdo Sound, the eggs were unloaded in sub-zero weather. Four dozen were dropped by parachute to the advanced outpost at the South Pole. Not a shell was cracked. Several dozen were placed aboard a Navy ski plane which flew them to Little America on Feb. 17.

It was here that Adams came into the picture. Fired with the true spirit of scientific curiosity, he badgered Ship's Cook Richard H. Banasiak of Ballston Lake, N.Y., to let him find out if any of the eggs were fertile. Banasiak finally released six of the eggs on Adams' assurance that he was really investing them in a future supply of fresh eggs and poultry.

Adams placed the eggs in a dental incubator and set the temperature at 100 degrees fahrenheit.

TWO, PLUS TWO PROBLEMS

"Eight days later, on Feb. 25," radioed Chaplain Zollar, "Dr. Adams with bated breath candled the eggs. He was elated to find two positive embryos and two possibles."

"The dental laboratory is now the crossroads of Little America," the Chaplain reported. "Everyone wants to see the eggs. Strict visiting hours have been set up. Interest in tremendous. There is much speculation among all hands as to sex, color, breed and birthdate of our chicks."

The last word from Little America was that the first chick is expected to hatch next Saturday or Sunday.

Navy men here are standing by for further news from the hatchry at the bottom of the world.

Stamp Interest Is At Highest Point In Years

The next airmail stamp to be issued by the United Nations will depict the "concept of flight." The design, the U. N. postal office says shows a globe set within an airplane wing. Super - imposed on part of the wing is the United Nations emblem.

The date of issuance for the 4-cent airmail adhesive is May 27.

Further details about the purchase of first day covers will be announced later.

W. W. Wind of Israel, who designed the stamp, won first prize in the U. N Postal Administration international stamp design contest in 1952.

Collectors of Israel stamps are warned that many counterfeits have been detected. This is the word of Peter G. Keller, executive officer of the American Stamp Dealers Assn. The forgeries are not of American origin but attempts have been made to get them into philatelic circles in this country.

"Revolutionary changes unparalleled in postal history" are already under way in the Post Office Department, says Postmaseral General Arthur E. Summerfield.

Mechanical and electronic improvements promise to replace 50-year old methods of handling the mails.

Some of the innovations will include a machine to read addresses on letters and sort them automatically and another to cancel mail electronically.

Summerfield also reported that public interest in stamp collecting is at the highest point in many years. Sales at the Philatelic Agency were $1,894,855 in 1956.

Two new stamps have been issued by France. One is a semi-postal for Stamp Day. It honors the exploits of the Maritime Postal Service. The 12 franc plus 3 depicts an ancient galley. The other new stamp commemorates the 200th anniversary of Sevres porcelain. Pictured on this 30 franc are Sevres pottery and a statue.

Argentina has issued a set of five new stamps honoring the centenary of the death of Admiral Guillermo Brown. The designs are: the frigate Hercules, the Battle of Montivideo, portraits of Leonardo Rosales and Thomas Espora, Admiral Brown as a young man in naval uniform and the admiral as an older man in civilian clothes.

A young lady who complained that she was worried, sleepless and miserable asked a Baptist pastor for help. She was not physically ill, nor did she have low moral standards.

The pastor could have prescribed a large dose of "positive thinking" and regular spiritual exercises, such as "thinking only good thoughts," with the assurance that soon all would be well. But he knew her problem was deeper. She was out of fellowship with God.

He explained that the Bible reveals this common ailment. It says, "For all have sinned, and come short of the glory of God" (Romans 3:23). He pointed out various terms in the Bible which describe the man who is not in fellowship with God. He is said to be a "sinner," "condemned," "without strength," "ungodly," an "enemy" of God.

"All persons are not equally 'wicked,' but all are equally lost in their sin and need a Saviour to return them to God.

"Both the hardened criminal who kidnaps a baby and a boy who steals marbles should feel like King David when he prayed, 'Wash me thoroughly from mine iniquity, and cleanse me from my sin. For I acknowledge my transgressions: and my sin is ever before me' (Psalm 51:2-3)."

When God looks at people he sees more than man can see. He sees each person created in the image of God, but helpless and hopeless because of his sin. God's view is expressed in the words of Jesus. "I said therefore unto you, that ye shall die in your sins: for if ye believe not that I am he, ye shall die in your sins" (John 8:24).

"Jesus Christ, who is God's Son and at the same time our Saviour and friend, fully understood that we have this faulty nature," the pastor told the worried young lady. "He knew all men, And needed not that any should testify of man: for he knew what was in man" (John 2:24-25). "When we see ourselves as God sees us," the minister continued, "we see that we are condemned already. But we see also that Christ died for us and can restore us into full fellowship with God. The way out for you and for the whole world is to accept Christ's offer to restore your lost fellowship with God. To do this, you must trust Christ completely. 'Neither is there salvation in any other: for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved' (Acts 4:12)."

The young lady surrendered herself to Christ and enjoys fellowship with God everyday. Do you enjoy this same fellowship?

MRS. ALFRED ALLEN WOLLESON

Beautiful Candlelight Ceremony Unites Miss Catherine Glynn Myrick And Alfred Allen Wolleson In Rayville

In a candlelight ceremony at 5:30 o'clock Saturday evening, March 9, at the First Baptist Church in Rayville, Miss Catherine Glynn Myrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin H. Myrick, of Rayville, became the bride of Alfred Allen Wolleson, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Wolleson, of Winnsboro.

Dr H. R. Herrington performed the double ring rites before an altar banked with southern smilax and decorated with standards of white gladioli and white mums. A myriad of white cathedral tapers in branched candelabras illuminated the wedding party.

As guests were being seated and the candles were lighted by Aubrey Wolleson, Jr., of Winnsboro and William Stewart of Osyka, Miss., Raymond Bolton presented nuptial selections at the organ.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was wearing a wedding gown fashioned of lace and nylon. The lace bodice featured a scalloped off-the-shoulder neckline and long tight fitting sleeves which ended in petal points over the wrist. The voluminous skirt was complemented by lace inserted panels. Her finger-tip veil of imported illusion was held in place by a lace tiara outlined in seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of three butterfly orchids and lilies of the valley.

Serving her sister as maid of honor was Miss Mary Holt Myrick. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Wendell Holloway, Mrs. George Ineichen, Mrs. James Larkin and Miss Betty Wolleson.

Their waltz-length gowns were identical mint green organza models with puff sleeves and round necklines which formed a V in the back. The sculptured bodices were accented by wide matching sashes of green taffeta creating a bustle bow in the back and extending to the hemline. They wore short white gloves and carried bouquets of gladiolias with velvet stems and leaves in moss green. Their headdresses were halos of off-white hyacinths and green leaves.

Gene McNaughton served the bridegroom as best man.

Groomsmen were Cale Martin, Orville Elkins, Ralph King, Jr., and Delton McCarty, all of Winnsboro.

Mrs. Myrick chose for her daughter's wedding a becoming dusty rose lace sheath model accented at the waistline by pink satin bows. She wore a close fitting pink hat decorated with beads and rhinestones.

Mrs. Wolleson, the bridegroom's mother, was also attired in a pale pink lace with a matching hat. Both mothers wore orchid corsages.

Immediately after the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Myrick entertained at a reception in the church parlor.

Mass arrangements of white gladioli and mums were featured at points of interest throughout the reception room.

Receiving with the bridal couple were their mothers and the bride's attendants.

The bride's table was overlaid in an Italian cutwork cloth and centered with a pink arrangement of carnations and pink tapers.

Mrs. George Franklin, Jr., registered guests in the bride's book.

Presiding at the punch services were Mrs. W. B. Myrick of Baton Rouge and Mrs. George Lindsey of Bernice.

Tea girls were Mrs. Henry F. Cumpton of Baton Rouge, Miss Rita McEacheran of Longview, Tex., Miss Carol Stewart of Osyka, Miss., Miss Bobbye Jo Antley of Rayville, Mrs. Charles Nunnally of Alexandria and Mrs. Doyle Hamilton of Monroe.

Assisting with courtesies were Mrs. Hugh Stodghill and Mrs. John Gilbert.

For traveling, the bride chose a slate blue shantung model with black accessories and the orchids from her wedding bouquet.

The couple will make their home in New Orleans.

The bride is a graduate of Rayville High School and Louisiana Tech where she majored in speech.

Mr. Wolleson is also a graduate of Louisiana Tech and Winnsboro High School.

Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Myrick and son, William, of Baton Rouge, Mr. and Mrs. George Lindsey of Bernice, Dr. and Mrs. A. D. Tisdale of Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Nunnally and family of Alexandria, Dr. and Mrs. Doyle R. Hamilton of Monroe, Mrs. H. F. Sproles of Delhi and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Stewart and family of Osoka, Miss.

Rehearsal Supper

Mrs. A. B. Smith, Mrs. Kenneth Stewart, Mrs. Delton McCarty and Mrs. Ralph King, Jr., were hostesses at an after rehearsal party Friday night at the Magnolia Restaurant.

A festive bridal centerpiece of white carnations and white candles centered the buffet table. On either side was the inscription "Tootsie and Dick" and the wedding date "March 9, 1957."

Place cards featuring traditional white and green bridal flowers with each guest's initial above marked the guests' places.

A single white candle surrounded by white flowers decorated the individual tables.

For the occasion, the bride chose a trousseau model of black and green check taffeta with a bolero.

Guests included members of the wedding party and their families.

Food Cooked Over Charcoal Tastes Better

Ever wonder why more and more persons are becoming devotees of outdoor cookery?

It's the taste.

Millions of modern Americans have discovered what pioneer Americans knew decades ago and what outstanding restaurants have been building reputations on for years. Food cooked over a charcoal fire tastes better.

Fishermen have followed the practice from time immemorial, cooking freshly - caught trout over a wood fire on the bank of a stream. Even Daniel Boone preferred his venison cooked over an open fire.

Whatever you cook over a charcoal fire, it's the taste that makes it better.

Maxine Lipsey Is Bride Of Carl Strebeck

FERRIDAY — The marriage of Miss Maxine Lipsey, daughter of Mrs. T. V. Lipsey, of New Era, to Carl Strebeck, son of Mrs. C. S. Strebeck of Central, Mississippi, was solemnized at the New Era Baptist Church on Saturday afternoon, March 2, with the Reverend David Strebeck, the brother of the groom officiating.

The church was arranged with white gladioli, fern and greenery and candles burned in large candelabra.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, James W. Lipsey. The bride's sister, Miss Melba Lipsey was matron of honor. The candlelighters were: Miss Joyce Lipsey and Miss Valda Lipsey, nieces of the bride.

Aubrey Lipsey, brother of the bride, served as best man. The ushers were: J. D. Lipsey, and Gerald Del Hoste.

Rickie Brown rendered the traditional wedding music while Mrs. David Strebeck sang "I Love You Truly" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Immediately following the wedding a reception was held in the home of the bride's mother.

The young couple will make their home in Mobile, Alabama, where the groom is employed.

MRS. ALFRED ALLEN WOLLESON

Beautiful Candlelight Ceremony Unites Miss Catherine Glynn Myrick And Alfred Allen Wolleson In Rayville

In a candlelight ceremony at 5:30 o'clock Saturday evening, March 9, at the First Baptist Church in Rayville, Miss Catherine Glynn Myrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin H. Myrick, of Rayville, became the bride of Alfred Allen Wolleson, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Wolleson, of Winnsboro.

Dr H. R. Herrington performed the double ring rites before an altar banked with southern smilax and decorated with standards of white gladioli and white mums. A myriad of white cathedral tapers in branched candelabras illuminated the wedding party.

As guests were being seated and the candles were lighted by Aubrey Wolleson, Jr., of Winnsboro and William Stewart of Osyka, Miss., Raymond Bolton presented nuptial selections at the organ.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was wearing a wedding gown fashioned of lace and nylon. The lace bodice featured a scalloped off-the-shoulder neckline and long tight fitting sleeves which ended in petal points over the wrist. The voluminous skirt was complemented by lace inserted panels. Her finger-tip veil of imported illusion was held in place by a lace tiara outlined in seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of three butterfly orchids and lilies of the valley.

Serving her sister as maid of honor was Miss Mary Holt Myrick. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Wendell Holloway, Mrs. George Ineichen, Mrs. James Larkin and Miss Betty Wolleson.

Their waltz-length gowns were identical mint green organza models with puff sleeves and round necklines which formed a V in the back. The sculptured bodices were accented by wide matching sashes of green taffeta creating a bustle bow in the back and extending to the hemline. They wore short white gloves and carried bouquets of glamellias with velvet stems and leaves in moss green. Their headdresses were halos of off-white hyacinths and green leaves.

Gene McNaughton served the bridegroom as best man.

Groomsmen were Cale Martin, Orville Elkins, Ralph King, Jr., and Delton McCarty, all of Winnsboro.

Mrs. Myrick chose for her daughter's wedding a becoming dusty rose lace sheath model accented at the waistline by pink satin bows. She wore a close fitting pink hat decorated with beads and rhinestones.

Mrs. Wolleson, the bridegroom's mother, was also attired in a pale pink lace with a matching hat. Both mothers wore orchid corsages.

Immediately after the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Myrick entertained at a reception in the church parlor.

Mass arrangements of white gladioli and mums were featured at points of interest throughout the reception room.

Receiving with the bridal couple were their mothers and the bride's attendants.

The bride's table was overlaid in an Italian cutwork cloth and centered with a pink arrangement of carnations and pink tapers.

Mrs. George Franklin, Jr., registered guests in the bride's book.

Presiding at the punch services were Mrs. W. B. Myrick of Baton Rouge and Mrs. George Lindsey of Bernice.

Tea girls were Mrs. Henry F. Cumpton of Baton Rouge, Miss Rita McEacheran of Longview, Tex., Miss Carol Stewart of Osyka, Miss., Miss Bobbye Jo Antley of Rayville, Mrs. Charles Nunnally of Alexandria and Mrs. Doyle Hamilton of Monroe.

Assisting with courtesies were Mrs. Hugh Stodghill and Mrs. John Gilbert.

For traveling, the bride chose a slate blue shantung model with black accessories and the orchids from her wedding bouquet.

The couple will make their home in New Orleans.

The bride is a graduate of Rayville High School and Louisiana Tech where she majored in speech.

Mr. Wolleson is also a graduate of Louisiana Tech and Winnsboro High School.

Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Myrick and son, William, of Baton Rouge, Mr. and Mrs. George Lindsey of Bernice, Dr. and Mrs. A. D. Tisdale of Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Nunnally and family of Alexandria, Dr. and Mrs. Doyle R. Hamilton of Monroe, Mrs. H. F. Sproles of Delhi and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Stewart and family of Oseka, Miss.

Rehearsal Supper

Mrs. A. B. Smith, Mrs. Kenneth Stewart, Mrs. Delton McCarty and Mrs. Ralph King, Jr., were hostesses at an after rehearsal party Friday night at the Magnolia Restaurant.

A festive bridal centerpiece of white carnations and white candles centered the buffet table. On either side was the inscription "Tootsie and Dick" and the wedding date "March 9, 1957."

Place cards featuring traditional white and green bridal flowers with each guest's initial above marked the guests' places.

A single white candle surrounded by white flowers decorated the individual tables.

For the occasion, the bride chose a trousseau model of black and green check taffeta with a bolero.

Guests included members of the wedding party and their families.

Food Cooked Over Charcoal Tastes Better

Ever wonder why more and more persons are becoming devotees of outdoor cookery?

It's the taste.

Millions of modern Americans have discovered what pioneer Americans knew decades ago and what outstanding restaurants have been building reputations on for years. Food cooked over a charcoal fire tastes better.

Fishermen have followed the practice from time immemorial, cooking freshly - caught trout over a wood fire on the bank of a stream. Even Daniel Boone preferred his venison cooked over an open fire.

Whatever you cook over a charcoal fire, it's the taste that makes it better.

Maxine Lipsey Is Bride Of Carl Strebeck

FERRIDAY — The marriage of Miss Maxine Lipsey, daughter of Mrs. T. V. Lipsey, of New Era, to Carl Strebeck, son of Mrs. C. S. Strebeck of Central, Mississippi, was solemnized at the New Era Baptist Church on Saturday afternoon, March 2, with the Reverend David Strebeck, the brother of the groom officiating.

The church was arranged with white gladioli, fern and greenery and candles burned in large candelabra.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, James W. Lipsey. The bride's sister, Miss Melba Lipsey was matron of honor. The candlelighters were: Miss Joyce Lipsey and Miss Valda Lipsey, nieces of the bride.

Aubrey Lipsey, brother of the bride, served as best man. The ushers were: J. D. Lipsey, and Gerald Del Hoste.

Rickie Brown rendered the traditional wedding music while Mrs. David Strebeck sang "I Love You Truly" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Immediately following the wedding a reception was held in the home of the bride's mother.

The young couple will make their home in Mobile, Alabama, where the groom is employed.

State CAR Conference Attracts Honorable Guests This Week End

A great deal of interest is being evinced in the State Conference of the Children of the American Revolution being held in the Virginia Hotel this week end.

A very full and delightful program was prepared and some two hundred guests enjoyed the festivities.

The conference began with registration Friday afternoon at one o'clock. Mrs. Henry Hinkle and Mrs. Paul Ozment assisted Sally Hinkle, Mary Elizabeth Webster, Penny Prophit, Lynn Theus, Jim Mulhearn and Joe Wayne Johnston with registrations.

Stunt night was held at 6:00 P. M. for the young fry. Eugene Dripps of the Fort Atkinson Society, Lake Charles, rendered a beautiful violin concerto.

Lt. Isaac Walker Society, of Winnfield, was represented by James Caldwell who played a trumpet solo. Dr. and Mrs. J.W. Schonlau's lovely little daughters presented a delightful dance number. Nancy and Suzonne Kuhn added much to the program by their original dance number and piano solo. They are members of Bienville Chapter, New Orleans.

Lt. Joseph Bowman, hostess chapter, had a very entertaining Mistress of Ceremonies in Gay Hargrove. Martha Guyton, who is quite adept at twirling gave an interesting exhibition. Cynthia Leigh played a delightful medley of popular tunes.

A highlight of the entertainment for the conference was the outstanding dinner dance held on the roof of the Virginia Hotel last night.

Jane Williams, junior president of the Lt. Joseph Bowmar Society acted as Toastmistress at the dinner and the following program entertained the diners.

Invocation was given by Mary Elizabeth Webster, a tap dance by Joe Wayne Johnston, a piano solo by Betty Amy Leavell of Prairie Jefferson Society. Mary Coon led in the group singing. The ten girls of Lt. Joseph Bowmar Society who are graduating from high school this spring gave a hilarious skit.

Benediction was given by Nancy Files, junior president, of Prairie Jefferson Society.

Many honorable guests were introduced, among them were: Robert Carroll Barr, junior National President of Houston, David Kemker, Jr., junior state president of New Orleans, Fred Martin, Daytona, Fla., Cornelia Cabral, honorary past president of the Junior National Society of New Orleans.

Mr. Robert Gordon, vice president general of southern area, Sons of the American Revolution, Birmingham, Ala. Mrs. Louise M. Heaton, honorary senior national president of the Children of the American Revolution, Clarksdale, Miss.

Home Ceremony Unites Couple

URANIA — In a 4 o'clock ceremony Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Quincy Cornwell in Urania, their daughter, Miss Mary Louise Cornwell became the bride of Earl K. Long, son of Mr. and Mrs. Felix Long of Tullos.

The Rev. Wm. Hall, pastor of the Methodist church in Urania, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Baskets of white gladioli, white iris, purple magnolia and tall white candles in branched candelabra formed the background for the exchange of vows. Miss Sue Gregory lighted the candles.

The bride was wearing a dress of powder blue shantung, fashioned with a fitted bodice and bouffant skirt. She wore a small white hat and a corsage of white carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held for the friends and relatives attending.

The refreshment table, covered with a white lace cloth, was centered with a three tiered wedding cake, embossed with pink rose buds and lily of the valley.

Mrs. Otto Kees served the cake and Miss Sally Long, sister of the bridegroom, served the punch. Mrs. Al Callahan of Longview, Tex., sister of the bride, presided at the bride's register.

Out - of - town guests included Mrs. J. W. Cornwell of Olla; Mrs. Al Callahan and small daughters, Cindy and Debbie of Longview, Tex.; Mr. and Mrs. Felix Long, sons, Steve, Chuck and daughter, Sally, of Tullos and Mrs. Ben Long of Tullos.

MR. AND MRS. JIMMIE NEWCOMB

Vows Pledged In Mississippi

TRANSYLVANIA — Miss Lessie Merle Broome, daughter of Mrs. Linnie Broome and the late Mr. Broome of Brookhaven, Mississippi, became the bride of Mr. Jimmie Newcomb, son of Mrs. George Newcomb and the late Mr. Newcomb, of Transylvania, on March 2, 1957, at 2:00 p.m. in the home of the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Rutledge at Brookhaven, Mississippi.

The impressive double ring ceremony was performed before a small gathering of friends and relatives by Rev. E. L. Hayes, pastor of the Transylvania Baptist church. The reception rooms of the Rutledges were decorated with azaleas, white iris, ivy and japonicas.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. J. O. Rutledge, wore a white knit dress with pink accessories, and carried a white Bible with a bouquet of white carnations.

Mrs. Jessie Paul Barnette of Jackson, Miss., served as matron of honor. She was dressed in navy blue with white accessories and had a shoulder corsage of white carnations.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Broome chose a navy blue silk shantung suit with navy and white accessories. Her corsage was also of white carnations.

Mrs. Newcomb was dressed in a black acetate suit with black and white accessories and a white carnation corsage.

Immediately following the wedding, a reception was held in the Rutledge home. The bride's table was overlaid with a white lace cloth and had a central decor of azaleas and white carnations. Presiding at the refreshment table were Misses Martha Thomas and Dorothy Moody, assisted by Syble Sullivan and Maxine Walters.

For traveling, Mrs. Newcomb changed to a pink polished cotton, worn with beige and brown accessories. Following a short wedding trip the couple will make their home at 1702 Filhiol St., Monroe, where Mr. Newcomb is a student at Northeast State College.

Among the out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Mrs. George Newcomb, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Pearson, from Transylvania, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Barnette, Miss Martha Thomas, Miss Dorothy Moody, Miss Syble Sullivan, Miss Maxine Walters and Miss Frances Poole, all of Jackson, Mississippi.

Quick supper: Add a can of chunk - style tuna fish to a can of macaroni and cheese sauce along with some grated onion and minced parsley or green pepper. Top with grated cheese and bake in a hot oven.

MAKING BASKETS was fun for these Brownie Scouts of Troop 30, Peggy Windham, Joan Hays, and Pam Cross. Learning to use ones hands to create beautiful things is an important part of the Girl Scout program.

Miss Edna Faye Smith Marries In Candlelit Evening Ceremony

Miss Edna Faye Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Graves Johnson, of Lake Providence, became the bride of Airman 3rd Class, Victor Willie Whitehead, Jr., son of Mrs. Edith Corene Whitehead of Lake Providence, and Victor W. Whitehead, of Shreveport, on Saturday, March 2nd, at 7:00 p.m.

The First Methodist Church of Lake Providence was the setting for the impressive, candlelit ceremony, performed by Rev. C. R. McCammon, pastor.

Dale Johnson, brother of the bride and Martha Whitehead, sister of the bridegroom, served as candlelighters. The seven branched candelabra grouped within the chancel were interspersed with floor baskets of white gladioli and ferns.

A prenuptial concert was rendered by David Tschabold, Jr., at the organ.

Roy Lee Gregory and Don Whitehead, served as ushers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a two piece suit of metallic gray acetate taffeta, piped in white on the collar and cuffs. A white satin cloche completed her ensemble. She carried a spray of feathered white carnations.

Mrs. Roy Lee Gregory, sister of the bride, was her only attendant. She wore a two piece suit of navy blue linen with shoulder corsage of pink carnations. Her white pillbox hat was draped with spider web veiling.

Dickie Landrem served the bridegroom as best man.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Johnson chose a one piece dress in paisley jacquard, with faille coat lined with dress matching material. Her shoulder corsage was of pink carnations.

Mrs. Whitehead wore a pearl gray linen with a white Peter Pan collar and white piping at the neck and cuffs. Her shoulder corsage was also of pink carnations.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony attendants and guests were invited into Fellowship Hall of the educational building for the reception. Martha Whitehead invited the guests to register.

The bride's table was overlaid with a white Madieria cutwork cloth with decor of early spring flowers in a low oblong crystal bow. Miss Mary Lois Landrem and Mrs. James Mosely of Texarkana, Texas, presided at the refreshment table and served the wedding cake and punch.

Cooper-Dameron

FERRIDAY, —The marriage of their daughter, Miss Betty Jean Dameron is being announced by Mr. and Mrs. James Vernon Dameron of New Orleans. Miss Dameron became the bride of Henry Starnes Cooper, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eugene Cooper on February 25th.

The marriage was solemnized at a Nuptial Mass at St. Frances de Sales Catholic church in New Orleans.

The bridegroom is the nephew of Mrs. Walter Wroten of this city.

Cleaning Method Undergoes Tests

WASHINGTON (UP) — Uncle Sam is helping to solve the problem of cleaning wall-to-wall cotton carpeting.

The Department of Agriculture announced development of a method using a special detergent and machine which are not yet in commercial production but are being tested by commercial firms. It added that if the process does go into commercial use, the popularity of wall to wall cotton carpeting should increase.

MR. AND MRS. JIMMIE NEWCOMB

Vows Pledged In Mississippi

TRANSYLVANIA — Miss Lessie Merle Broome, daughter of Mrs. Linnie Broome and the late Mr. Broome of Brookhaven, Mississippi, became the bride of Mr. Jimmie Newcomb, son of Mrs. George Newcomb and the late Mr. Newcomb, of Transylvania, on March 2, 1957, at 2:00 p.m. in the home of the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Rutledge at Brookhaven, Mississippi.

The impressive double ring ceremony was performed before a small gathering of friends and relatives by Rev. E. L. Hayes, pastor of the Transylvania Baptist church. The reception rooms of the Rutledges were decorated with azaleas, white iris, ivy and japonicas.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. J. O. Rutledge, wore a white knit dress with pink accessories, and carried a white Bible with a bouquet of white carnations.

Mrs. Jessie Paul Barnette of Jackson, Miss., served as matron of honor. She was dressed in navy blue with white accessories and had a shoulder corsage of white carnations.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Broome chose a navy blue silk shantung suit with navy and white accessories. Her corsage was also of white carnations.

Mrs. Newcomb was dressed in a black acetate suit with black and white accessories and a white carnation corsage.

Immediately following the wedding, a reception was held in the Rutledge home. The bride's table was overlaid with a white lace cloth and had a central decor of azaleas and white carnations. Presiding at the refreshment table were Misses Martha Thomas and Dorothy Moody, assisted by Syble Sullivan and Maxine Walters.

For traveling, Mrs. Newcomb changed to a pink polished cotton, worn with beige and brown accessories. Following a short wedding trip the couple will make their home at 1702 Filhiol St., Monroe, where Mr. Newcomb is a student at Northeast State College.

Among the out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Mrs. George Newcomb, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Pearson, from Transylvania, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Barnette, Miss Martha Thomas, Miss Dorothy Moody, Miss Syble Sullivan, Miss Maxine Walters and Miss Frances Poole, all of Jackson, Mississippi.

Quick supper: Add a can of chunk - style tuna fish to a can of macaroni and cheese sauce along with some grated onion and minced parsley or green pepper. Top with grated cheese and bake in a hot oven.

MAKING BASKETS was fun for these Brownie Scouts of Troop 30, Peggy Windham, Joan Hays, and Pam Cross. Learning to use ones hands to create beautiful things is an important part of the Girl Scout program.

Miss Edna Faye Smith Marries In Candlelit Evening Ceremony

Miss Edna Faye Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Graves Johnson, of Lake Providence, became the bride of Airman 3rd Class, Victor Willie Whitehead, Jr., son of Mrs. Edith Corene Whitehead of Lake Providence, and Victor W. Whitehead, of Shreveport, on Saturday, March 2nd, at 7:00 p.m.

The First Methodist Church of Lake Providence was the setting for the impressive, candlelit ceremony, performed by Rev. C. R. McCammon, pastor.

Dale Johnson, brother of the bride and Martha Whitehead, sister of the bridegroom, served as candlelighters. The seven branched candelabra grouped within the chancel were interspersed with floor baskets of white gladioli and ferns.

A prenuptial concert was rendered by David Tschabold, Jr., at the organ.

Roy Lee Gregory and Don Whitehead, served as ushers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a two piece suit of metallic gray acetate taffeta, piped in white on the collar and cuffs. A white satin cloche completed her ensemble. She carried a spray of feathered white carnations.

Mrs. Roy Lee Gregory, sister of the bride, was her only attendant. She wore a two piece suit of navy blue linen with shoulder corsage of pink carnations. Her white pillbox hat was draped with spider web veiling.

Dickie Landrem served the bridegroom as best man.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Johnson chose a one piece dress in paisley jacquard, with faille coat lined with dress matching material. Her shoulder corsage was of pink carnations.

Mrs. Whitehead wore a pearl gray linen with a white Peter Pan collar and white piping at the neck and cuffs. Her shoulder corsage was also of pink carnations.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony attendants and guests were invited into Fellowship Hall of the educational building for the reception. Martha Whitehead invited the guests to register.

The bride's table was overlaid with a white Madieria cutwork cloth with decor of early spring flowers in a low oblong crystal bow. Miss Mary Lois Landrem and Mrs. James Mosely of Texarkana, Texas, presided at the refreshment table and served the wedding cake and punch.

Cooper-Dameron

FERRIDAY, —The marriage of their daughter, Miss Betty Jean Dameron is being announced by Mr. and Mrs. James Vernon Dameron of New Orleans. Miss Dameron became the bride of Henry Starnes Cooper, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eugene Cooper on February 25th.

The marriage was solemnized at a Nuptial Mass at St. Frances de Sales Catholic church in New Orleans.

The bridegroom is the nephew of Mrs. Walter Wroten of this city.

Cleaning Method Undergoes Tests

WASHINGTON (UP) — Uncle Sam is helping to solve the problem of cleaning wall-to-wall cotton carpeting.

The Department of Agriculture announced development of a method using a special detergent and machine which are not yet in commercial production but are being tested by commercial firms. It added that if the process does go into commercial use, the popularity of wall to wall cotton carpeting should increase.

Bread, Potatoes Are Useful In Reducing Plan

By GAEL GREENE

ANN ARBOR, Mich — UP — Fat folks ought to stop cowering at the sight of bread and potatoes.

That's the contention of Adelia M. Beeuwkes, associate professor of public health nutrition at the University of Michigan.

Miss Beeuwkes would like to restore those two "bugaboos" to reducing diets.

She admitted her bread - potato theory may sound like heresy to the calorie - counter who has been scorning both for years.

But she believes "too many sugar-loaded foods are being gobbled up behind the excuse, 'Well, I never eat bread or potatoes'."

"Better to forego that extra slab of cherry pie or the soft drink you can't get through the day with out," she advised.

Wonderful rice: cook converted-type rice according to package directions and mix with butter, curry powder, currants and pecans.

MRS. ROBERT EDWARD JOHNSON

Former Monroyan Weds Miss Nasif Of Vicksburg In Afternoon Ceremony

On March 3rd at 3:00 o'clock in the afternoon at Saint George's Orthodox Church, Vicksburg, Mississippi, Miss Lillie Helen Nasif, daughter of Mr. Milid Ameen Nasif, and the late Mamie Najj Nasif, of Vicksburg, Mississippi, became the bride of Robert Edward Johnson, Shreveport, Louisiana, son of Mrs. Alfred Jenkins of Jackson, Miss., and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Johnson, West Monroe, La., in a ceremony performed by Rev. Michael Baroudy.

As the wedding guests, who consisted of close friends and the families entered the church, they were ushered to their places by George A. George and George Rouayheb.

The lovely setting for the exchange of vows was achieved with masses of emerald fern trees and lighted by the glow of many candles burning in tiered candelabra. The pews were designed with a cascade of jade tied with white satin streamers.

Miss Maxine Monsour of Shreveport, her counsin's only attendant, was elegantly attired in an afternoon gown of Parish Blue Peau De Soie with softly sculptured lines. She wore a half hat of matching peau de soie and carried a crescent bouquet of yellow glamellias, maline, yellow foliage and touches of matching ribbon.

The bridegroom stood with William M. Cady, III, of Shreveport, who served him as best man.

Nuptial music was furnished by Richard Sheere at the organ.

With the strains of the "Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin, the bride appeared with her brother, George M. Nasif, who gave her in marriage. She wore an exquisite Couturier design of imported satin white silk brocade with short tapered sleeves. The bateau neck forming soft rolled lapels with a softly tucked triangular - draped basque skirt. She wore shite silk satin shoes on the Tilio last with a lovely thin toe. On her dark hair she wore a coronet of seed pearls with a shoulder length cascade of imported silk illusion. She carried a white Bible beneath a cascade centered with a pure white hybrid orchid with a garland of dainty white freesia, white French maline and narrow bridal satin ribbon.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, the bridal party left the church to the strains of Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" and reassembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman A. Nasif for a reception.

At the front door Mrs. Fred Nosser, sister of the bride and Mrs. George Najj, welcomed the guests. Miss Judy Nasif was in charge of the guest register. Inside, the bridal couple received in the handsome circular living room with Mr. and Mrs. Norman Nasif and the groom's mother.

Mrs. Nasif was wearing a solon navy suit of peau de soie; her accessories were navy and her orchid corsage white. Mrs. Jenkins' dress was an empire champagne sheath of Belgium lace, with bronze slippers and bronze chapeau. She wore a bronze orchid.

The bride's table was placed beneath a Danish crystal chandelier before a black marble fireplace on which white tapers burned in multiple branched candelabra at either side of a large arrangement of white stock, carnations and emerald foliage.

Mrs. Ellis A. Nasif and Mrs. Murrad A. Nasif alternated in serving punch. Mrs. Leon Kennedy, Mrs. William Kinstley, and Mrs. George Nasif served cake at the table which was handsomely appointed in white and silver, covered with an exquisite handmade heirloom lace cloth. It held at one end a silver punch bowl, and at the other, a tiered wedding cake.

When Mr. and Mrs. Johnson left on a wedding trip to Florida, she was wearing a costume suit of navy and white with matching accessories. It was topped with a spring chapeau of white linen straw.

Upon their return they will make their home in Shreveport where Mr. Johnson is engaged in the practice of law.

Among the out of town guests for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Victor P. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Caldwell, Mrs. C. N. Anderson, Mrs. J. T. Roye, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Holt, all of West Monroe, Louisiana; Dr. and Mrs. T. Earle Johnson and children of Tuscaloosa, Alabama; Mr. and Mrs. William M. Cady, III, Dr. and Mrs. N. G. Nasif, Mr. and Mrs. Williams Monsour, Dr. and Mrs. Michael Monsour, Dr. and Mrs. Victor Monsour, of Shreveport, Louisiana; Mr. and Mrs. Julian Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Jenkins of Jackson, Miss., and Mr. and Mrs. Roy McCann, Houston, Txas.

BRIDAL PARTIES

On Feb. 23rd at 4:00 p.m., Miss Nasif was honored with a tea given by the groom's mother, Mrs. Alfred Jenkins, Mrs. R. F. Corneil, and Mrs. Julian Campbell, at the home of Mrs. Corncil, Vicksburg, Miss.

Mrs. Fred Nosser, sister of the bride, entertained on Feb. 26th at 3:00 p.m. with a dinner and bridge party held in the private dining room of The Beachwood, Vicksburg.

The evening of March 2nd, following the rehearsal, the bridal party was honored with a dinner party which was held in the Plantation Room of The Old Southern Tea Room. Host and hostesses were: Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Jenkins, the groom's mother, Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Caldwell, and Mr. and Mrs. Victor P. Johnson, aunts and uncles of the groom. Guests attending included Rev. and Mrs. Michael Baroudy, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sheere, Mr. and Mrs. George Nasif, Mr. George A. George, Mr. George Rouayheb, all of Vicksburg, Mr. and Mrs. William M. Cady, III, Miss Maxine Monsour and Mr. Stewart McCaleb of Shreveport.

When buying cotton terry cloth towels, buy an extra hand towel for use as a waste basket cover. Cut the towel to fit around the waste basket. Then, hem all raw edges and sew a zipper in place where the ends of the towel meet around the basket. This cover can be easily removed for laundering.

MISS ANN RISER, daughter of Mrs. Hugh Riser of Ruston, will wed James Maurice Kay, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Kay of Bernice, on March 14. The ceremony will take place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Riser with the immediate families attending. They plan to make their home in Ruston.

Mennonites Work To Ease World Hunger

AKRON, Pa. (AP) — Devout Mennonites are turning out more than 2,000 pounds of canned beef a day in a new plant built here expressly to supply the needs of the world's starving people.

In the first week of operation 30 volunteer workers, putting in full eight - hour days, processed more than 11,000 pounds of meat. The plant is a project of the Mennonite board of missions and charities. Production of the $20,000 factory is for shipment to such needy areas as Jordan, Korea, Hungary and Viet Nam.

The scene in the 40-by-70-foot factory is a picturesque one, as women in distinctive Mennonite caps work beside aproned men at long tables where the meat is prepared for canning. The meat is cooked in great kettles, canned and packed in cartons to await overseas shipment.

The beef, some donated, some purchased by the board, arrives early each day from slaughter houses, to be processed by the volunteer workers.

Goodmans Will Sing In Monroe

The Happy Goodman Family, nationally known gospel music singers, will join a week - long revival service that begins Sunday night at the Bawcom Apostolic church.

The Goodman's, from Madisonville, Ky., also record gospel songs. While in the Twin Cities they will sing over KLIC from 5:30 to 6 p.m. daily.

DECORATING the Girl Scout birthday cake for Sunday afternoon's program at Georgia Tucker School are Pat Hogan, Intermediate Scout of Troop 24, Louise Lester, Senior Scout of Troop 14, and Carolyn Brooks, Brownie Scout of Troop 17. On this program, observing the 45th anniversary of Girl Scouting, troops will present offerings for the Juliette Low World Friendship Fund.

Girl Scouts Will Observe 45th Anniversary At 3 O'Clock This Afternoon; Public Is Invited

In observance of the 45th anniversary of the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. all Scout troops of the Twin Cities will join in a birthday program at 3 o'clock this afternoon, at Georgia Tucker School. Scout families and friends are invited.

Joan Humble, Pam Grower, Peggy Southerland, Sandra Cloninger, Derlyn Morris, Becky Blair and Jean Wroten of Troop 18 will present the opening flag ceremony.

A Girl Scout prayer will be given in unison by Troop 41. Singing will be led by Marie Nelson, Senior Scout of Troop 14.

Highlighting the program is the presentation of the Juliette Low World Friendship Fund, which the girls have been collecting in troop meetings for the past several weeks. A girl from each troop will present the offering from her group, telling what each troop is giving. It was pointed out that appropriately, many girls give a penny for each year of their age. Some will give 45 cents because of the 45th anniversary. Others will give according to waist measure, letters in their name, or troop number. Some troops take pleasure in thinking up an unusual way of deciding on the amount and keep it a secret until the moment of presentation.

The fund is used to promote friendship among girls all over the world and one representative of each troop will light a candle on the birthday cake.

Sunday morning will see brown and green uniforms in evidence as Scouts attend their own churches to start Girl Scout Week, ... in keeping with the first part of the Girl Scout Promise which stresses duty to God.

The other days of Girl Scout Week call attention to the Scout program in homemaking, citizenship, health and safety, international friendship, arts and crafts, and the out-of-doors.

It was forty-five years ago that a Savannah woman, Juliette Gordon Low, who had just returned to her native city after years of residence in England, where she had learned about the Boy Scout and Girl Guide movements, started the first troop of twelve Girl Scouts. From that beginning Scouting has grown to membership of almost three million.

Locally, Girl Scouting is a part of the Silver Waters Council, chartered a year ago to serve the parishes in northeast Louisiana. The old Ouachita Parish Council became a part of the new one in order to better serve the girls of this section. Affairs of the council are administered by a board of twenty men and women, with Mrs. George Forman as president.

MRS. LORNE MICHAUD is the former Miss Betty Grafton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Will F. Grafton. Mr. Michaud is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Michaud, of Jonesboro-Hodge. They were married in Vicksburg, Miss., in December. The young couple are residing in Ruston where both attend Louisiana Tech.

WHY GROW OLD

Boredom Is Enemy Of Lovely Figure

By JOSEPHONE LOWMAN

Mildred Miller, charming young mezzo soprano of the Metropolitan Opera, has a figure so slender that she often is chosen for the "pants roles" (roles that were written for a young male character but to be sung by a female). She is not only an opera star but is also the mother of two children — two reasons often given as alibis for overweight.

There was a short period between her operatic debut more than five years ago and the present time, when she found herself 12 pounds overwiehgt, and realized that this made all of the difference in her sang-froid. She was appearing quite often on television and television cameras broaden even the slimmest gal.

So, Mildred went on a diet and lost the excess weight. The other day in New York she said, "There are tricks in everything; tricks in decorating like using a mirror or light paint to make a large room seem larger; tricks in make-up like rouge on your chin to make your face look shorter; tricks in cooking like putting a pinch of sugar into any recipe that uses tomatoes. I found that there are tricks in dieting too."

Boredom

This lovely star contined to say that she found boredom a greater enemy when reducing than actual hunger. "I was bored with simple nourishing food which took care of the body's needs but did not leave me emotionally satisfied with my meal. Boredom is the dieter's direct adversary," she declared!

During her reducing session Mildred Miller says she discovered the difference between appetite and hunger. She feels that appetite is mental and hunger is physical.

She continued, "Your mouth will water at the sight of a luscious piece of strawberry shortcake or the odor of frying onions or a whiff of garlic dressing, and when looking at all of those magnificent color photos of food in women's magazines — they are all appetite arousing.

It's Physical

"Hunger on the other hand is physical. Your stomach gets empty. If it remains empty too long you actually have hunger pangs."

She worked out some tricks of her own which helped her stick to her diet. Of course the first and most important one is to make up one's mind, to be determined to lose the excess poundage.

Of course not everyone has the incentive to lose which Mildred had because not everyone is in public life. However, when you consider the importance of your success as a woman in your own private life and the health angle it makes you stop and consider seriously the idea of weight reduction.

If you would like my leaflet "Keeping Romance Alive," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 63 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Heart Fund Near Goal For 1957

LAKE PROVIDENCE, March 9 (Special) — The heart fund drive for East Carroll needs only $109 to meet the Parish quota, according to F. A Babb, parish chairman. Due to the willing and generous spirit of the people of the parish and the splendid work that has been done by the district and ward chairmen and workers, a total of $740 has been collected toward the parish goal of $840, Babb said.

March And April Club Demonstrations

If you have scratched or furniture with white spots, attend a home demonstration club and learn how to remove them. This demonstration is being given in group II Clubs this month, group I clubs in April.

If you have an electric appliance with a frayed cord, you can learn how to replace it at a club meeting. The local power company's home economist will teach you.

The agent's demonstration will be "Managing Family Money". No one is born with a knowledge of handling money. One must learn this just as we learn to manage other things of life. These demonstrations are being given in Group I Clubs this month—Group II clubs in April. Get in touch with the club nearest you if you are not a club member The club will be glad to have you attend.

BAKARAMA APRIL 2, 3, 4 and 5

Ouachita Parish Home Demonstration Council is sponsoring a bakarama. The bakarama is a cake baking contest. On electric range will be the prize given for the best cake, a mix master, second; and a set of aluminum cooking vessels, the third. This contest is open to any woman or girl in Ouachita and surrounding area. It's not confined to home demonstration club members. The rules are as follows: Each person will pay fifty cents to enter a cake on April 2, 3, 4, or 5 until 12:00 a.m. This cake becomes the property of the council and will be sold immediately after judging is completed. The cake is to be brought Friday morning, April 5 between the hours of 9-12 a.m. Cakes must be on cardboard, covered with foil or waxed paper doilies (no plates.) The cake you bring is to be made by your favorite recipe. Judging will begin at 1:00 p.m. Prizes will be awarded Friday night after 7:00 p.m. Several door prizes will also be given away. Demonstrations in baking will be given Friday and baked products will be given away at drawings. So plan to take part in this bakarama and if you can't bake a cake — you can buy one. The funds raised will be used in furthering home demonstration work.

IMPORTANT DATE

March 16 will be Council meeting — all Home Demonstration club Council members are urged to attend.

CONTRIBUTORS TO WORLD PEACE

An interesting view of the depth and breadth of the home demonstration club work in which so many thousands of Louisiana women take part has been presented by Miss Frances Scudder of Washington, D. C., director of home economics for the Federal Extension Service. Speaking at the recent annual northeast district meeting of the Louisiana State Home Demonstration Council, Miss Scudder pointed out that the Home Demonstration clubs have a link with ther groups throughout the free world. These groups, like the home demonstration clubs, are devoted not alone to spreading better methods of homemaking but to the creation of a better home life, to the improvement of living standards, and to promotion of better citizenship and greater participation in community activities.

This international link of the home demonstration clubs consists of affiliation with the Associated Country Women of the World, an international organization with members from other nations where organizations exist that are similar to the clubs in this country. Indeed, many of these organizations in other countries are modeled after the home demonstration clubs, whose good work has caused them to be very widely copied.

Probably not all the home demonstration club members themselves find it easy to realize the contribution that such an organization can make toward international understanding and world peace. But the stability and progress of nations begins with the stability and progress of home and community. And world peace depends on a closer acquaintance and better understanding among the people of the world.

There are home demonstration clubs in every parish. Membership is open to every homemaker.

GOOD BREAKFASTS START BETTER DAYS

March has been named Good Breakfast month. What are the qualifications of a good breakfast? You should eat as much as one - third of the food you need each day at breakfast time. People who eat a balanced breakfast regularly find that they feel better during the morning and work better during the day. The pattern for a good breakfast includes enriched bread, whole grain cereal in some form: milk, fruit and fruit juice, eggs and meats.

Gardening Fun Lies In Talking Over Problems

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y., March 9 —Much of the fun of gardening lies in talking to other gardeners. But gardeners, like every other group, have a language all their own, which unfortunately is likely to silence a beginner whose enthusiasm has confined him too much to the hoe and too little to the garden books.

It is unthinkable that there should be a second-year gardener who doesn't know his potash from his pH value, and as a matter of fact, a nodding acquaintance with both is right handy in both gardening an reading about gardens.

For conversation purposes, there are two basic chemical facts of life to learn. The first is one which is concerned with the amounts of nitrogen, phosphorus and potash in fertilizers. This is invariably set down in a formula such as 5-10-5. And if you have trouble remembering which figure stands for what, the trick is that they are listed alphabetically.

Sweet and Sour

Now then, about this much-discussed pH scale. Nowadays it isn't enough to decide that your garden has "sweet" soil or "sour" soil. The horticultural experts have learned, for instance, that beets and parsnips have decidedly different soil preferences. Beets —and forget-me-nots and English ivy — enjoy a neutral soil, if anything slightly on the "sweet" side. Parsnips — and potatoes and heather — like it strongly on the "sour" side. In the lexicon of gardening, sweet means alkaline while sour means acid.

The pH scale (pH is the universal symbol indicating hydrogen ion concentration — an for goodness sake don't get into that unless you want to show off at a cocktail party) runs between zero and 14. The zero stands for absolute acidity, 14 for absolute alkalinity, seven for neutral soil. The problem is to remember which way the scale runs. Most plants flourish in soils testing between 6½ and 7½ on the pH scale —around neutral.

Garden Center Notes

By Mary M. Jardine

Garden Center Is Aglo In Varieties

It's camellia time and the Garden Center has been algow with the many beautiful varieties on display.

Dr. and Mrs. Dewitt Milam of Monroe exhibited twenty name varieties and W. O. Corley, Jonesboro exhibited a large silver tray of "Dr. Tinsley." This variety is becoming one of the favorite pinks. Semi - double in a light pink, edged with darker pink. The petals have a distinctive crepey texture and the leaves are a bright glossy green. Corley also exhibited Thelma Dale, rose pink, Iwane Shibora and Madame Chiang Kai-shek.

Our exhibitors this week were members of the Jonesboro-Hodge Garden club. All exhibits were point - scored by an accredited judge. In the horticulture section, blue ribbons were awarded as follows: Mrs. G. S. Farmer for Blue Dutch hyacinth, Miss Valerie Barnum, Dutch iris, variety Wedgewood, Mrs. W. O. Corley, camellia, Lady Jane Grey.

In the arrangement section, high score blue ribbon was awarded to Mrs. W. O. Corley and Mrs W. W. McDonald. They designed a triangular arrangement in a sand colored bowl, rectangular in shape. The pattern was formed with branches of pussy - willow. Secondary placements were of iris foliage. The line was enhanced with soft pink camellia buds and lavender pink hyacinths. A large pink camellia was used as the center of interest with camellia foliage placed over the rim of the container. The colors in this design were exquisite and it was staged against a soft pink background

Mrs. Charles Barnum was awarded second place ribbon. For her crescent design Mrs. Barnum chose a crescent container in dark green. The line material was arborvitae. Beautiful yellow double narcissus completed the crescent. This arrangement would be lovely for a living room or hall table.

Miss Valerie Barnum designed a very unusual composition which was awarded third place. This design was staged against a yellow - green background. The rectangular container was dark green with its own brass base. The background was formed with clipped palmetto in a fan-shaped triangular design. Within this setting was placed a manzanita branch, with buds and blooms of Wedgewood blue Dutch iris. A most effective combination of materials, and would be suitable for a large entrance hall or living room table.

A new book has just been received in our Garden Center library. Foliage Arrangements by Emma H. Cyphers. It is devoted to making arrangements with leaves. Foliage picked from the garden, backyard shrubs, trees and houseplants, found in the woods or along the road, or bought inexpensively from florist and nursery. It illustrates the exciting textural contrasts, subtlety of color, and variety of form and shape which distinguish foliage arrangements. This book was presented to our library by Mrs. John P. Lewis in memory of Mrs. George Jardine.

Monroe Garden club members remember Monday, March 11. Registration begins at 9:45 a.m. for Dr. Hubert Owens lecture-clinic.

THE HOME SHIFT—

With Mildred Swift

Ornamental Foliage Proves Very Pretty

Have you ever tried growing vegetables as ornamentals? Some of them are very pretty. Parsley with its lacy foliage can be as beautiful as many ferns, and the same with carrot foliage. Both can be planted now, as soon as the soil dries out some. Beets also have attractive foliage, especially the varieties that have red coloration.

Other Gardening

Here's a tip about seed with hard shells that you have difficulty to get to germinate. Soak them, just barely covered with water, overnight. The soaking is supposed to soften the coat. Plant immediately after the soaking period. It's easy to plant seed too thick. If you get good germination, then you'll have to do some thinning out and that can be quite a job.

Up and down every street in the Twin Cities, somebody is pruning trees. If you have a tree surgeon doing the work, he'll seal the open wounds. If you're doing the pruning, don't forget to cover the cut with tree seal. An open cut is an invitation to insects and diseases.

Remember the Burgomaster giant yellow bulb I told you about planting two years ago? Well — they came up again this year, for the third time, and have not decreased in size. I did fertilize with bone meal last year, just as they quit blooming. It's good to know the varieties that don't decrease in size. And — by the way — don't forget to fertilize your other bulbs with bone meal, now.

As your bearded iris cease blooming, divide and transplant if the clumps are too thick. Work bone meal in the soil and plant very shallow.

If you want to save disappointment, buy camellias and azaleas when they're in bloom. Azaleas need to be planted shallow since their roots come to the top of the ground for food. When planting azaleas, either balled and burlapped or bare rooted, use plenty of peat moss, some sand (if soil is heavy) and good loam. These small roots cannot go through heavy soils.

Prune azaleas while they're blooming and use the blossoms in your churches or homes. If you have a plant that has two or three long, bare woody branches with a topknot of leaves and blossoms at the end, cut off those limbs way back where they join the main trunk. New shoots will come out in place of the old ones. The plant will be better shaped and you'll have more blossoms next year.

Flowering quince does better with a little pruning. Cut the oldest canes where they put out from the ground. Pop corn spirea can be pruned the same way. Old wood in any spring blooming plant is not going to bloom after it gets woody. That's the part you want to keep cut out of your plants.

If you're growing sweetpeas, a very light sprinkling of nitrate along side the row will help keep them growing well. Take care and don't get this nitrogen on the leaves, as it burns.

Flower arrangers have made us appreciate the old cannas. These bulbs can be planted in March or April. Some of the new plants do not grow so tall. They are called the Grand Opera series: La Traviata, Rigoletto, La Boheme, Aida, Mignon and Madame Butterfly.

Food Facts

Food plentifuls on the United States department of agriculture list are: beef, lamb, eggs, rice, peanuts, peanut butter, milk and other dairy products, potatoes, pinto beans, canned sweet corn, ocean perch filets, dried prunes and stewing chickens.

February and March are Good Breakfast months. Let's check on our eating habits for the first meal of the day. Breakfast times varies, but for most of us it comes about 12 hours after our last meal. That's a long time! Would you go that long without something to eat during the day? Of course not.

Breakfast - skippers accomplish less the first hour they work, than those who have had a good breakfast before starting to work and —efficiency is decreased until lunch time when food is provided. Aren't these reasons enough to make you want to have good breakfasts every day?

Why is breakfast neglected? These are some of the reasons given: not enough time; no appetite; no one to eat with; get tired of the same foods.

Just a little planning can eliminate all these excuses at once. First, plan ahead what you will serve. Prepare citrus juice the night before, cover closely, store in refrigerator. Set the table the night before. Be organized in your breakfast plan — know what should be started first and what last.

What is a good breakfast plan? Here's a pattern that can serve as your guide:

Fruit — Use a variety of fruits; feature those that are in season.

Cereal or protein — or both; vary the many kinds of cereals on market. The proteins are meat, eggs, fish and cheese.

Bread and butter or margarine— Serve different kinds of breads, muffins, waffles, rolls, hot cakes.

Milk and beverage — Serve milk or a milk drink as a beverage and one cereal. Coffee for adults can be served in addition.

What about calorie counters? If you need to watch your weight, don't try to keep from gaining weight by omitting or reducing your breakfast. It's much better to eat a good breakfast and count the calories still required in the other two meals of the day. You'll feel better and you'll work faster.

Some current good choices for breakfast are: (1) Fruits, oranges, grapefruit, frozen or canned citrus juices, canned tomato juice, prunes. (2) Protein: Milk, cheese, eggs (large ones), ham, bacon, sausage. (3) Cereals or bread: Ready to eat or to be cooked, toast from a variety of breads, muffins, biscuit, cornbread, hot cakes, waffles, hot rolls.

Have you ever noticed the large variety of breads in the bakeries and food stores? There's French bread, Mother's bread, salt rising bread, whole wheat, cracked wheat rye, potato. The varieties of rolls and sweet rolls are so numerous it would be impossible to list them. There's no need in having monotonous breakfasts.

News In The Food Field ... Cheese In A Tube

Relaxed entertaining with informal snacks or "little" meals is a part of our present day manner of living. And here's a perfect food to serve for a gathering of just family or of family and guests included. This food is really making news. A rich, delicious cheese spread in a plastic tube is now being introduced in our markets ... or will be here presently. So ... homemakers ..be on the alert for this convenient snacktime delicacy. Cheese in a tube comes in 3 varieties ...Mild, Sharp, and Bluelle. The cheese on crackers or potato chips is so handy for minute-quick snackin'. And what fun it is to squeeze the smooth ribbon of cheese from the tube! Children and grownups alike take equal delight in squeezing the cheese from the tubes. The children can fix their own midmorning after - school, or before - bedtime snacks. Then a good idea for an in formal gathering is to have all 3 varieties ... the Mild, Sharp, and Bluelle ... on a tray together with crackers or potato chips and perhaps some celery sticks. Let folks help themselves as they'll take pleasure in both the squeezing and the eating. AROUND THE HOUSE

When you do your ironing, and you don't want to take a chance of ruining those fancy buttons on that very special blouse or jacket, try this suggestion. Invert the bowl of a small spoon over each button as you iron. This way you can iron around the buttons without damaging them.

Say! Bubble gum will not put Junior's T-shirt out of commission. Here's a sure-fire way to remove it. First, rub the gum with a piece of ice and then scrape it off. If a slight stain remains, sponge it off with carbon tetrachloride or other solvent. (Can buy at drug store).

No matter how careful you may be when applying nail polish, accidents will happen. When it does get on a fabric, it's best to have this stain removed by an expert, and just as quickly as possible.

Acetate fabrics may be ruined by applying polish remover in an attempt to remove the stain. In addition, if the polish isn't completely removed, the stains will sometimes ignite when heat is applied in pressing.

Say! When entertaining a large group and finding yourself short of ash tray and removing the foil, a jiffy. Make them from aluminum foil by shaping the foil around an ash tray and removing the foil. These can be thrown away for easy disposal.

Here's a hint that may interest you. Chill candles to be used on the dinner table, in the refrigerator 24 hours before using them so they'll burn evenly, without dripping.

Handkerchiefs for both men and women are being made out of a new fabric. It's a combination of dacron and cotton. The fabric is sheer, yet the weave is firm. And —it's easy to care for. Men's handkerchiefs come in plain ribbed borders. Those for women are appliqued and have embroidered floral designs.

March And April Club Demonstrations

If you have scratched or furniture with white spots, attend a home demonstration club and learn how to remove them. This demonstration is being given in group II Clubs this month, group I clubs in April.

If you have an electric appliance with a frayed cord, you can learn how to replace it at a club meeting. The local power company's home economist will teach you.

The agent's demonstration will be "Managing Family Money". No one is born with a knowledge of handling money. One must learn this just as we learn to manage other things of life. These demonstrations are being given in Group I Clubs this month—Group II clubs in April. Get in touch with the club nearest you if you are not a club member. The club will be glad to have you attend.

BAKARAMA APRIL 2, 3, 4 and 5

Ouachita Parish Home Demonstration Council is sponsoring a bakarama. The bakarama is a cake baking contest. On electric range will be the prize given for the best cake, a mix master, second; and a set of aluminum cooking vessels, the third. This contest is open to any woman or girl in Ouachita and surrounding area. It's not confined to home demonstration club members. The rules are as follows: Each person will pay fifty cents to enter a cake on April 2, 3, 4, or 5 until 12:00 a.m. This cake becomes the property of the council and will be sold immediately after judging is completed. The cake is to be brought Friday morning, April 5 between the hours of 9-12 a.m. Cakes must be on cardboard, covered with foil or waxed paper doilies (no plates.) The cake you bring is to be made by your favorite recipe. Judging will begin at 1:00 p.m. Prizes will be awarded Friday night after 7:00 p.m. Several door prizes will also be given away. Demonstrations in baking will be given Friday and baked products will be given away at drawings. So plan to take part in this bakarama and if you can't bake a cake — you can buy one. The funds raised will be used in furthering home demonstration work.

IMPORTANT DATE

March 16 will be Council meeting — all Home Demonstration club Council members are urged to attend.

CONTRIBUTORS TO WORLD PEACE

An interesting view of the depth and breadth of the home demonstration club work in which so many thousands of Louisiana women take part has been presented by Miss Frances Scudder of Washington, D. C., director of home economics for the Federal Extension Service. Speaking at the recent annual northeast district meeting of the Louisiana State Home Demonstration Council, Miss Scudder pointed out that the Home Demonstration clubs have a link with ther groups throughout the free world. These groups, like the home demonstration clubs, are devoted not alone to spreading better methods of homemaking but to the creation of a better home life, to the improvement of living standards, and to promotion of better citizenship and greater participation in community activities.

This international link of the home demonstration clubs consists of affiliation with the Associated Country Women of the World, an international organization with members from other nations where organizations exist that are similar to the clubs in this country. Indeed, many of these organizations in other countries are modeled after the home demonstration clubs, whose good work has caused them to be very widely copied.

Probably not all the home demonstration club members themselves find it easy to realize the contribution that such an organization can make toward international understanding and world peace. But the stability and progress of nations begins with the stability and progress of home and community. And world peace depends on a closer acquaintance and better understanding among the people of the world.

There are home demonstration clubs in every parish. Membership is open to every homemaker.

GOOD BREAKFASTS START BETTER DAYS

March has been named Good Breakfast month. What are the qualifications of a good breakfast? You should eat as much as one - third of the food you need each day at breakfast time. People who eat a balanced breakfast regularly find that they feel better during the morning and work better during the day. The pattern for a good breakfast includes enriched bread, whole grain cereal in some form; milk, fruit and fruit juice, eggs and meats.

Garden Center Notes

By Mary M. Jardine

Garden Center Is Aglo In Varieties

It's camellia time and the Garden Center has been algow with the many beautiful varieties on display.

Dr. and Mrs. Dewitt Milam of Monroe exhibited twenty name varieties and W. O. Corley, Jonesboro exhibited a large silver tray of "Dr. Tinsley." This variety is becoming one of the favorite pinks. Semi - double in a light pink, edged with darker pink. The petals have a distinctive crepey texture and the leaves are a bright glossy green. Corley also exhibited Thelma Dale, rose pink, Iwane Shibora and Madame Chiang Kai-shek.

Our exhibitors this week were members of the Jonesboro-Hodge Garden club. All exhibits were point - scored by an accredited judge. In the horticulture section, blue ribbons were awarded as follows: Mrs. G. S. Farmer for Blue Dutch hyacinth, Miss Valerie Barnum, Dutch iris, variety Wedgewood, Mrs. W. O. Corley, camellia, Lady Jane Grey.

In the arrangement section, high score blue ribbon was awarded to Mrs. W. O. Corley and Mrs W. W. McDonald. They designed a triangular arrangement in a sand colored bowl, rectangular in shape. The pattern was formed with branches of pussy - willow. Secondary placements were of iris foliage. The line was enhanced with soft pink camellia buds and lavender pink hyacinths. A large pink camellia was used as the center of interest with camellia foliage placed over the rim of the container. The colors in this design were exquisite and it was staged against a soft pink background

Mrs. Charles Barnum was awarded second place ribbon. For her crescent design Mrs. Barnum chose a crescent container in dark green. The line material was arborvitae. Beautiful yellow double narcissus completed the crescent. This arrangement would be lovely for a living room or hall table.

Miss Valerie Barnum designed a very unusual composition which was awarded third place. This design was staged against a yellow - green background. The rectangular container was dark green with its own brass base. The background was formed with clipped palmetto in a fan-shaped triangular design. Within this setting was placed a manzanita branch, with buds and blooms of Wedgewood blue Dutch iris. A most effective combination of materials, and would be suitable for a large entrance hall or living room table.

A new book has just been received in our Garden Center library. Foliage Arrangements by Emma H. Cyphers. It is devoted to making arrangements with leaves. Foliage picked from the garden, backyard shrubs, trees and houseplants, found in the woods or along the road, or bought inexpensively from florist and nursery. It illustrates the exciting textural contrasts, subtlety of color, and variety of form and shape which distinguish foliage arrangements. This book was presented to our library by Mrs. John P. Lewis in memory of Mrs. George Jardine.

Monroe Garden club members remember Monday, March 11. Registration begins at 9:45 a.m. for Dr. Hubert Owens lecture-clinic.

Gardening Fun Lies In Talking Over Problems

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y., March 9 —Much of the fun of gardening lies in talking to other gardeners. But gardeners, like every other group, have a language all their own, which unfortunately is likely to silence a beginner whose enthusiasm has confined him too much to the hoe and too little to the garden books.

It is unthinkable that there should be a second-year gardener who doesn't know his potash from his pH value, and as a matter of fact, a nodding acquaintance with both is right handy in both gardening an reading about gardens.

For conversation purposes, there are two basic chemical facts of life to learn. The first is one which is concerned with the amounts of nitrogen, phosphorus and potash in fertilizers. This is invariably set down in a formula such as 5-10-5. And if you have trouble remembering which figure stands for what, the trick is that they are listed alphabetically.

Sweet and Sour

Now then, about this much-discussed pH scale. Nowadays it isn't enough to decide that your garden has "sweet" soil or "sour" soil. The horticultural experts have learned, for instance, that beets and parsnips have decidedly different soil preferences. Beets —and forget-me-nots and English ivy — enjoy a neutral soil, if anything slightly on the "sweet" side. Parsnips — and potatoes and heather — like it strongly on the "sour" side. In the lexicon of gardening, sweet means alkaline while sour means acid.

The pH scale (pH is the universal symbol indicating hydrogen ion concentration — an for goodness sake don't get into that unless you want to show off at a cocktail party) runs between zero and 14. The zero stands for absolute acidity, 14 for absolute alkalinity, seven for neutral soil. The problem is to remember which way the scale runs. Most plants flourish in soils testing between 6½ and 7½ on the pH scale —around neutral.

THE HOME SHIFT—

With Mildred Swift

Ornamental Foliage Proves Very Pretty

Have you ever tried growing vegetables as ornamentals? Some of them are very pretty. Parsley with its lacy foliage can be as beautiful as many ferns, and the same with carrot foliage. Both can be planted now, as soon as the soil dries out some. Beets also have attractive foliage, especially the varieties that have red coloration.

Other Gardening

Here's a tip about seed with hard shells that you have difficulty to get to germinate. Soak them. just barely covered with water, overnight. The soaking is supposed to soften the coat. Plant immediately after the soaking period. It's easy to plant seed too thick. If you get good germination, then you'll have to do some thinning out and that can be quite a job.

Up and down every street in the Twin Cities, somebody is pruning trees. If you have a tree surgeon doing the work, he'll seal the open wounds. If you're doing the pruning, don't forget to cover the cut with tree seal. An open cut is an invitation to insects and diseases.

Remember the Burgomaster giant yellow bulb I told you about planting two years ago? Well — they came up again this year, for the third time, and have not decreased in size. I did fertilize with bone meal last year, just as they quit blooming. It's good to know the varieties that don't decrease in size. And — by the way — don't forget to fertilize your other bulbs with bone meal, now.

As your bearded iris cease blooming, divide and transplant if the clumps are too thick. Work bone meal in the soil and plant very shallow.

If you want to save disappointment, buy camellias and azaleas when they're in bloom. Azaleas need to be planted shallow since their roots come to the top of the ground for food. When planting azaleas, either balled and burlapped or bare rooted, use plenty of peat moss, some sand (if soil is heavy) and good loam. These small roots cannot go through heavy soils.

Prune azaleas while they're blooming and use the blossoms in your churches or homes. If you have a plant that has two or three long, bare woody branches with a topknot of leaves and blossoms at the end, cut off those limbs way back where they join the main trunk. New shoots will come out in place of the old ones. The plant will be better shaped and you'll have more blossoms next year.

Flowering quince does better with a little pruning. Cut the oldest canes where they put out from the ground. Pop corn spirea can be pruned the same way. Old wood in any spring blooming plant is not going to bloom after it gets woody. That's the part you want to keep cut out of your plants.

Hi-Fi Aid In Creating Mood For Dinner

By WILLIAM D. LAFFLER

NEW YORK, March 9 (UP) — The marvel of high fidelity has permitted pianists to create an intimate supper club mood in the home. It also has given them a medium for creating a beer-hall atmosphere.

Roger Williams became an overnight sensation with his rippling version of "Autumn Leaves." And an unknown German named Fritz Schulz-Reichel started a new piano craze as "Crazy Otto."

Both Williams and Crazy Otto could have been concert pianists. In fact Otto was until he elected to clown with his player - piano stylings. But the gentle, soft - spoken Roger chose to reach a less serious yet discriminating audience with brilliant interpretations of popular songs.

Williams' latest recording for Kapp is "Songs of the Fabulous Fifties," a two-volume package containing 24 of the top numbers of this decade as only Roger can play them.

"Not So Crazy Otto" (Decca) is a fine album, too. Otto doesn't play so crazy, concentrating more on dance styles than on the beer-hall rhythm. The result is a pleasant record.

'WINGS OF THE EAGLE'—John Wayne is hoisted via breeches buoy from an aircraft carrier to a destroyer in one of the scenes of M-G-M's "The Wings of Eagles," the story of Commander Frank (Spig) Wead, one of the U. S. Navy's great modern heroes. In the inset, Wayne is shown with Maureen O'Hara, portraying Mrs. Wead. Dan Daily and Ward Bondalso star in the picture which starts Friday at the Jim Theatre.

AN EXCEPTION?

Show Business Is Murder On Marriages—So They Say

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (UP) — Show business is murder on marriages. But Shirley Jones and Jack Cassidy, a couple of honeymoonless newlyweds, figure there's one way to whip the problem — by working as a husband and wife team.

Among the younger entries in the tandem field, we already have Peter Lind Hayes-Mary Healy, Robert Sterling-Anne Jeffreys and Ernie Kovacs-Edie Adams. But the Cassidys, married since last August, hope to shape themselves into the most versatile of the family duos.

"The others do nightclubs or TV or occasionally, both," said Cassidy today. "But I think we'll be the only couple who'll work continuously together in all the mediums. We're even doing shows together."

WORKING ON NIGHTCLUB ACT

Jack, 29, and Shirley, 22, currently are in rehearsal for "The Beggar's Opera," a musical they teamed up in last summer in Cambridge, Mass. It's set for a two-week jaunt here beginning March 13.

The couple are working on a nightclub act and have just finished an album of show tunes for Columbia records. Over the past few months, they also have done three TV shows together — a "U.S. Steel Hour" and two for "Lux Video Theatre."

TOO SEXY?

Luscious Blonde Has Her Problems

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD, March 9 (AP) — Can a girl look too sexy for matrimony?

Barbara Nichols is the luscious poser for that question. Blonde Barbara, who comes equipped with sex appeal to spare, has had a remarkable first year in Hollywood.

Her figure, one of the best proportioned since Betty Grable, plus a natural comedy talent has landed her good movie roles opposite such stars as Clark Gable, Dana Andrews, Anthony Quinn, Tony Curtis and Burt Lancaster. That excludes a block of television credits.

She naturally is happy about her career but unhappy about the lack of marriage proposals since she came to Hollywood from New York.

"Lack? That's not the word" she laments. "There have been exactly none."

And Barbara, 23, and never married, admits that her main reason for coming out here was to find a husband.

She has had plenty of boyfriends including such famous names as author William Saroyan, British actor Michael Rennie, Ronnie Burns, actor son of George and Gracie, and bobby-sox idol John Smith.

"But none of them even talk about marriage — not even as an institution for other people," she says.

Several times she has invited dates over for a home - cooked meal.

"I know it sounds corny but it just shows how desperate a girl can get," she comments. "I love to cook but whenever I suggest it to a date, I get some answer like: 'Honey, let's eat out. Girls that look like you aren't meant for kitchens'."

So far she has had no takers on the free, home-cooked meal offer.

"And I am a very good cook, too," she claims.

Barbara, a Huntington, Long Island, N. Y., product, says her film roles are a clue to the lack of proposals. She was a stripteaser in "Miracle in the Rain," a dance hall hostess in "The King and Four Queens," a showgirl in 'Pajama Game" and a hatcheck girl, with skimpy costume, in "Sweet Smell of Success."

IN TELEPLAY — Farley Granger will star in "The Bottle Imp," a haunting teleplay about voodoo and magic in the West Indies, on the United States Steel Hour Wednesday evening. Calypso music, sung by Geoffrey Holder, will weave in and out of the Robert Louis Stevenson story, adapted for television.

'Oh, Men! Oh, Women! Is Playful Poke At Analysts

"Oh, Men! Oh, Women!", a comedy hit on Broadway last season, has been transferred to the screen in CinemaScope and Deluxe color by Twentieth Century-Fox and will have its local premiere today at the Paramount Theatre. Dan Dailey, Ginger Rogers, David Niven, Barbara Rush and Tony Randall are the star in this spoof on psychoanalysis.

Nunnally Johnson, who directed such important films as "How to Marry a Millionaire" and "The Man in the Gray Flannel Suit," acted as producer, director and writer for this sophisticated comedy and gave it a handsomely mounted production. He chose for the shipboard scenes the luxurious liner Liberte of the French Line and transported his company to New York to film the exterior scenes. Later, the ship's grand salon and promenade deck were re-created on the studio sound stages for interior scenes.

The decor of the picture is strictly in the modern style, suggesting richness and charm. The psychoanalyst's office, the apartments of Miss Rogers and Mr. Dailey and Miss Rush are the epitome of all that is correct in modern living, including the inevitable couch.

For the style-conscious ladies, Charles LeMaire, multiple-Academy Award - winning stylist, personally designed stunning wardrobes for Miss Rogers, Miss Rush and the other feminine players in the film. The outfits give a glimpse of what 1957's high-fashion styling will be and include everything the well-dressed woman needs for daytime and evening wear.

In this setting of luxury the story of Edward Chodorov's play, which Cheryl Crawford produced on the New York stage last year, is unfolded in hilarious style. Miss Rogers plays the smart wife of Dan Dailey, a movie star, and Mr. Niven is the psychoanalyst.

THE WORLD OF BOOKS AND MUSIC

IN CONCERT

Record French Opera First Time

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK, March 9 — (UP)— The French "Orpheus and Eurydice" has been recorded for the first time, and it has to be a matter of much interest. Gluck composed it, too, some years after he composed the Italian "Orpheus and Eurydice" which is the one that is almost always meant whenever the Gluck masterpiece is mentioned.

The differnces are not crucial nor numerous. They have to do with transposing the role of Orpheus downward from the range of the contralto in the Italian to the range of the tenor in the French. Since you're accustomed a contralto singing Orpheus, it sounds off to hear a tenor singing it.

Yet it must be acknowledged that it adds a reassuring authenticity because, after all, Orpheus was masculine of sex. In the recording Leopold Simoneau sings it with unostentatious masculinity, and the effect is almost startling. Suzanne Danco is the Eurydice and conductor is Hans Rosbaud, with a French chorus and orchestra (Epic-SC6019).

Ballet Music

Igor Markevitch's fine conductorial art is strikingly defined in the first in what is going to be a series of three records called "Russian Ballet" — he holds the Philharmonia Orchestra on his finger ends, causing it to glow, crackle, and sparkle. The works are those of Satie, Weber-Berloiz, Debussy, and Ravel composed for the old Ballet Russe. The remaining records will be more of that company's repertoire (Angel-35151).

The first Micha Elman record in some time has the venerable violinist with the matchless tone playing little - known but most worthy music — short pieces of Korngold, Achron, Josten, and Bloch, all living and senior composers. It doesn't need an Elman to give this music vitality, but having an Elman play it helps (London-1467).

Bloch fills up another LP, with another first-rate performer, William Primrose, Viola, setting him f rth most impressively. The pieces are his Suite for Viola, Suite Hebraique, Meditation, and Processional (Capitol-P8355).

For drama fans: there is a recorded performance of Synge's "The Playboy of the Western World," starring Siobhan McKenna and Cyril Cusack (Angel-3547B)

BOOK BRIEF'S

By JACK GATES

THE ODYSSEY OF THADDEUS BAXTER By Robert Lund (John Day Books, 256 pps, $3.50). Thad Baxter wanted "to see green grass growin', and clear rivers aflowin', and mountains that reached right up to the gate of heaven." So he left the parched Pecos country of Texas and set out with his little mare named Hundred Dollars for Wyoming. The story of that long journey is the actual tale of Thaddeus Baxter who made the trip in the 1870's.

THE DARK STRANGER By Dorothy Charques (Coward - McCann, Inc., $3.95). This thrilling novel combines exciting plot and characters with a fascinating portrayal of one of the most dramatic periods of English history. It is a worthy successor to Men Like Shadows.

THE OBSESSION OF EMMET BOOTH By Martha Albrand (Random House, $3.50). Turning away from her accustomed field of the suspense novel, Miss Albrand now writes a fascinating psychological novel of a man's single-minded pursuit of a woman. Emmett Booth falls in love with beautiful Miranda Page and ruth lessly sets about winning her. His obsessive search takes him from New York to London and back again as he carries out his calculated campaign of conquest.

ONIONHEAD By Weldon Hill (David McKay). We've had the soldiers, sailors and marines, and now it's the turn of the Coast Guardsmen; and believe it or not, they come out practically on top in this first novel. Al Woods seemingly has what it takes to be the universal interests of the grown boy — food and sex.

PICTURES IN PERIL By H. H. Pars. (Translated from German by Kathrine Talbot. Oxford). Did you ever take a picture? There are ways and ways of taking one — by camera, for instance, or tucking it under your arm and running like sixty. This author writes about theft, and the endless other misfortunes which dog not only painting but all the arts.

THE LISBON EARTHQUAKE By T. D. Kendrick. (Lippincott). On Nov. 1, 1755, a disastrous earthquake shook the rich city of Lisbon. Kendrick, who is director of the British Museum, tells the story of the catastrophe, the rescues, the suffering, the looting and so on. But mostly this is the record of the effect of the quake not just on Lisbon, but on the civilized world.

THE BRIDGE AT ANDAU By James A. Michener. (Random House). On Oct. 23 last, the Budapest revolt broke out. It seemed by Oct. 29 to have succeeded. But after an ominous calm, the Russians rallied overwhelmingly on Nov. 4 and crushed the rebellion. Michener, who saw war in several Pacific areas and who wrote the novel "The Bridge at Toko-Ri," sped to Budapest to new scenes of violence and a new bridge — a small sod structure actually within Hungary yet the escape route for 20,000 refugees.

THE CULTURAL LIFE OF THE AMERICAN COLONIES By Louis B. Wright. (Harper, $5.). This is an excellent study of the little - known but surprisingly diverse cultural interests of colonial Americans the latest in Harper's New American Nation Series.

INCUBATOR WON'T HOLD THAT TIGER — Marlin Perkins, Chicago's Lincoln Park zoo director, gets a laugh out of trying to fit one of a set of tiger triplets back in an incubator it occupied seven months ago. The tiger weighed two pounds then, but now weighs in at 75 pounds. (AP Wirephoto.)

IT COULD BE YOU

'Manhunt' Story Ordinary Human Caught In A Trap

MANHUNT By Donald MacKenzie (Houghton Mifflin, $3.50).

This is the frightening story of Paul Gregory and the dragnet a city cast for him.

The hero of the story is first encountered as he plans and executes a daring escape from London's Wandsworth prison. From these first thrilling moments the pace quickens steadily as he struggles with all his wits and stamina to keep his freedom, while his pursuers draw near, while he is betrayed by those who might help him, while one by one, the various avenues of escape close to him.

The reader sees these events Through the eyes of the quarry. That is the most singular thing about the book: Gregory is no thug. He is a clever man — a Canadian with a wife and child and a desire to amount to something.

As you get to know him it becomes painfully clear that there is but the subtlest difference between one's own mind and his— the imperceptible taint that makes a normal mind criminal.

Donald MacKenzie — like his hero, is a native of Canada who has been a professional thief for over 25 years. He has now retired from the profession to devote himself more fully to his writing. He has already published several articles written while he was at Sing Sing, as well as an autobiography.

Another recent book by Houghton Mifflin is the Crack in the Picture Window by John Keats. It is an angry, brilliantly funny but deadly serious report about the housing developments that are blighting the landscape and souls of America's suburbs.

The misfortunes of John and Mary Drone, who "bought" a nothing - down, life-time-to-pay box on a slab in Rolling Knolls, are simply extensions of the problems that beset nearly everyone who exists on the fringes of a city.

'The Believers' A Novel About Ky.

THE BELIEVERS, by Janice Holt Giles, Houghton Mifflin Company, $3.75.

In her historical novels about Kentucky, Janice Holt Giles, author of "The Kentuckians" and "Hannah Fowler," has become known for the integrity with which she handles her materials and for the realism with which she writes

Rebecca Fowler, daughter of Tice and Hanna, was only seventeen when she married Richard Cooper. She could not remember the time when she had not loved and trusted him and followed where he led. At first they were very happy; it was not until after their child was stillborn that Richard showed the preliminary signs of religious fanaticism in his insistence that this was God's punishment visited upon them. The Shaker missionaries to Kentucky found him an easy convert.

When Richard joined the Shaker community, Rebecca went with him, hoping that her love might prevail, and win him back to her. She became a part of the strange world in which men and women—even husbands and wives—lived apart, coming together only for meals and prayer. As time passed and she watched Richard's affection and interest recede farther and farther, only her stubborn honesty gave her strength to deny lip service to a doctrine she could not truly accept, and, at the last, courage to follow the dictates of her heart.

SUSPENSE

New Novel Is About Murder

THE WIFE OF THE RED-HAIRED MAN By Bill S. Ballinger (Harper, $2.95).

This is a novel of suspense —about the hunters and the hunted, and a love story with an Enoch Arden twist.

It is a story of a red - haired man and a woman named Mercedes who had been in love and had married secretly.

During the war, the red-haired man disappeared, and when Mercedes had not heard from or about him in many years, although she still loved him, she got an Enoch Arden divorce and married a wealthy New Yorker.

Then the red - haired man turned up — having just escaped from prison. He had not known that his wife was remarried and on the first night he met her new husband, he killed him.

Then he and Mercedes tried to get away.

From this point on Ballinger has written an exciting and tense novel — told from the viewpoints of the hunters and the hunted.

It is an excellent story if you go for this kind.

New Religious Book Setting In Shreveport

THE JOURNAL OF A SOUTHERN PASTOR by J. B. Gremillion (Fides Publishers, $3.95).

The book has as its setting a Roman Catholic parish in Shreveport. It deals with what the author calls "the new South" and is about the day - to - day hopes and struggles of a "hard working" pastor and his people who are trying to make their parish "a family of families in Christ."

Guide To Good Reading Now At The Ouachita Parish Public Library

BY FRANCIS FLANDERS

In the past few weeks many people have commented on this column and have told me that they enjoyed reading it. Of course I am delighted that it is helpful as a guide to the best in new books. I would like to make clear that the books which I discuss are in the collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. Now the book may not be in the library when you ask for it, but if you read about it in this column, you can be sure that we do have one or more copies of the book and that if you have your name put on the waiting list you will be able to get it soon. We are not able to buy all of the books published and we attempt to be selective in our choices and get the books which we think will be most popular with our readers.

HISTORICAL NOVELS

Among the new books added in the past week there are several interesting titles. If you like a good historical novel, you will want to read "The Tall Captains" by Bart Spicer. This is a story of Duncan Crosbie and his hatred of the English. It has its scene in Canada and its culmination is the battle between Montcalm and Wolfe on the Plains of Abraham.

A strictly adult novel is Stephen Longstreet's new book "The Promoters." It has its setting in the southwest and gives us a memorable cast of characters. "Best Seller" by William Murray is a take off on all of the modern best sellers. It is a book for those who have a sense of humor and are not afraid to laugh at themselves.

Ruth Painter Randall is an expert on the subject of Abraham Lincoln and has written several books on the subject. Her latest one is called "The Courtship of Mr. Lincoln." This is the delightful story of his courtship of Mary Todd and of a romance that lasted a lifetime.

One of the most popular of modern authors is Jesse Stuart, who has given us novels, poetry and an interesting biography, all dealing with life in the Kentucky Hills. His latest book is called "The Year of My Rebirth" and is a dramatic story of his struggle back to life from a near-fatal heart attack. In this book we see how he drew his strength from nature and how he never gave up the struggle to win and live again. Like all of his books it is beautifully written. It contains hope for others who have had heart attacks and it will be of special interest to those who have read his earlier books and feel as if he is a personal friend.

ARCHEOLOGY

More and more people are becoming interested in archeology and our collection of books on this subject is growing rapidly. The latest book in this field is "The Lost Pyramid" by M. Zakaria Goneim. This is a fascinating account of the discovery and entry of a "new" pyramid built 4,500 years ago. This book is a step-by-step story of the uncovering of the Pyramid of King Sekhem-Khet (Third Egyptian Dynasty, 2780-2720 B. C.) This is the first definitive book describing a momentous discovery and reading it almost makes the reader feel as if he had been there.

Books written to help the weary or discouraged are always popular and this week we have two new books of this type, both written by masters of the field. One is "A Lift for Living" by Ralph W. Sockman and the other is "Prescription for Anxiety" by Leslie D. Weatherhead. Dr. Sockman says that his book is designed to keep the reader growing. Every individual who longs for freedom from anxiety will find it in Dr. Weatherhead's book.

Whatever your reading need, call on the Ouachita Parish Public Library and we will do our best to help you.

SERIES CONTINUES

Latest Novel Deals With Life & Love

THE STRANGLED QUEEN By Maurice Druon (Charles Scribner's Sons, 216 pps, $3.50).

The Iron King was the first in a series of novels called The Accursed Kings. The second — The Strangled Queen — appears to be a worthy successor.

The new one in the series takes up where the other one leaves off — in the year 1314 when Louis X succeeds his father, Philip the Fair, known as the Iron King.

When Philip dies, Louis' wife who had been convicted of adultery by her late father - in - law, is imprisoned in the fortress of Chateau - Gaillard.

The new king is anxious to be freed of her so that he may marry again and assure the succession. In the ordinary course of events the king would have had the Pope annul the marriage, but at this particular time there was no Pope. Clement V was dead, and the Cardinals gathered at Avignon and subject to wily and powerful political maneuvering, had failed to elect a new Pope.

Thus the stage is set for one of the lesser - known dramas of the Middle Ages. The young King ardently desires to wed Clemence of Hungary, the Princess of Naples who is renowned throughout Europe for her beauty. But with one wife on his hands and no Pope to help him out, Louis X finds himself in a quandary indeed.

But his position is the same as that of many men and some of them had their problems solved in a similar fashion; but only a very few can have been monarchs of such powerful countries as France of the 14th century.

This series is exciting because the characters come alive and the detail is authentic.

So he left the parched Pecos country of Texas and set out with his little mare named Hundred Dollars for Wyoming. The story of that long journey is the actual tale of Thaddeus Baxter who made the trip in the 1870's.

THE DARK STRANGER By Dorothy Charques (Coward - McCann, Inc., $3.95). This thrilling novel combines exciting plot and characters with a fascinating portrayal of one of the most dramatic periods of English history. It is a worthy successor to Men Like Shadows.

THE OBSESSION OF EMMET BOOTH By Martha Albrand (Random House, $3.50). Turning away from her accustomed field of the suspense novel, Miss Albrand now writes a fascinating psychological novel of a man's single-minded pursuit of a woman. Emmett Booth falls in love with beautiful Miranda Page and ruthlessly sets about winning her. His obsessive search takes him from New York to London and back again as he carries out his calculated campaign of conquest.

ONIONHEAD By Weldon Hill (David McKay). We've had the soldiers, sailors and marines, and now it's the turn of the Coast Guardsmen; and believe it or not, they come out practically on top in this first novel. Al Woods seemingly has what it takes to be the universal interests of the grown boy — food and sex.

PICTURES IN PERIL By H. H. Pars. (Translated from German by Kathrine Talbot. Oxford). Did you ever take a picture? There are ways and ways of taking one — by camera, for instance, or tucking it under your arm and running like sixty. This author writes about theft, and the endless other misfortunes which dog not only painting but all the arts.

THE LISBON EARTHQUAKE By T. D. Kendrick. (Lippincott). On Nov. 1, 1755, a disastrous earthquake shook the rich city of Lisbon. Kendrick, who is director of the British Museum, tells the story of the catastrophe, the rescues, the suffering, the looting and so on. But mostly this is the record of the effect of the quake not just on Lisbon, but on the civilized world.

THE BRIDGE AT ANDAU By James A. Michener. (Random House). On Oct. 23 last, the Budapest revolt broke out. It seemed by Oct. 29 to have succeeded. But after an ominous calm, the Russians rallied overwhelmingly on Nov. 4 and crushed the rebellion. Michener, who saw war in several Pacific areas and who wrote the novel "The Bridge at Toko-Ri," sped to Budapest to new scenes of violence and a new bridge — a small sod structure actually within Hungary yet the escape route for 20,000 refugees.

THE CULTURAL LIFE OF THE AMERICAN COLONIES By Louis B. Wright. (Harper, $5.). This is an excellent study of the little - known but surprisingly diverse cultural interests of colonial Americans the latest in Harper's New American Nation Series.

INCUBATOR WON'T HOLD THAT TIGER — Marlin Perkins, Chicago's Lincoln Park zoo director, gets a laugh out of trying to fit one of a set of tiger triplets back in an incubator it occupied seven months ago. The tiger weighed two pounds then, but now weighs in at 75 pounds. (AP Wirephoto.)

'Manhunt' Story Ordinary Human Caught In A Trap

MANHUNT By Donald MacKenzie (Houghton Mifflin, $3.50).

This is the frightening story of Paul Gregory and the dragnet a city cast for him.

The hero of the story is first encountered as he plans and executes a daring escape from London's Wandsworth prison. From these first thrilling moments the pace quickens steadily as he struggles with all his wits and stamina to keep his freedom, while his pursuers draw near, while he is betrayed by those who might help him, while one by one, the various avenues of escape close to him.

The reader sees these events Through the eyes of the quarry. That is the most singular thing about the book: Gregory is no thug. He is a clever man — a Canadian with a wife and child and a desire to amount to something.

As you get to know him it becomes painfully clear that there is but the subtlest difference between one's own mind and his—the imperceptible taint that makes a normal mind criminal.

Donald MacKenzie — like his hero, is a native of Canada who has been a professional thief for over 25 years. He has now retired from the profession to devote himself more fully to his writing. He has already published several articles written while he was at Sing Sing, as well as an autobiography.

Another recent book by Houghton Mifflin is the Crack in the Picture Window by John Keats. It is an angry, brilliantly funny but deadly serious report about the housing developments that are blighting the landscape and souls of America's suburbs.

The misfortunes of John and Mary Drone, who "bought" a nothing - down, life-time-to-pay box on a slab in Rolling Knolls, are simply extensions of the problems that beset nearly everyone who exists on the fringes of a city.

'The Believers' A Novel About Ky.

THE BELIEVERS, by Janice Holt Giles, Houghton Mifflin Company, $3.75.

In her historical novels about Kentucky, Janice Holt Giles, author of "The Kentuckians" and "Hannah Fowler," has become known for the integrity with which she handles her materials and for the realism with which she writes

Rebecca Fowler, daughter of Tice and Hanna, was only seventeen when she married Richard Cooper. She could not remember the time when she had not loved and trusted him and followed where he led. At first they were very happy; it was not until after their child was stillborn that Richard showed the preliminary signs of religious fanaticism in his insistence that this was God's punishment visited upon them. The Shaker missionaries to Kentucky found him an easy convert.

When Richard joined the Shaker community, Rebecca went with him, hoping that her love might prevail, and win him back to her. She became a part of the strange world in which men and women—even husbands and wives—lived apart, coming together only for meals and prayer. As time passed and she watched Richard's affection and interest recede farther and farther, only her stubborn honesty gave her strength to deny lip service to a doctrine she could not truly accept, and, at the last, courage to follow the dictates of her heart.

SUSPENSE

New Novel Is About Murder

THE WIFE OF THE RED-HAIRED MAN By Bill S. Ballinger (Harper, $2.95).

This is a novel of suspense —about the hunters and the hunted, and a love story with an Enoch Arden twist.

It is a story of a red - haired man and a woman named Mercedes who had been in love and had married secretly.

During the war, the red-haired man disappeared, and when Mercedes had not heard from or about him in many years, although she still loved him, she got an Enoch Arden divorce and married a wealthy New Yorker.

Then the red - haired man turned up — having just escaped from prison. He had not known that his wife was remarried and on the first night he met her new husband, he killed him.

Then he and Mercedes tried to get away.

From this point on Ballinger has written an exciting and tense novel — told from the viewpoints of the hunters and the hunted.

It is an excellent story if you go for this kind.

New Religious Book Setting In Shreveport

THE JOURNAL OF A SOUTHERN PASTOR by J. B. Gremillion (Fides Publishers, $3.95).

The book has as its setting a Roman Catholic parish in Shreveport. It deals with what the author calls "the new South" and is about the day - to - day hopes and struggles of a "hard working" pastor and his people who are trying to make their parish "a family of families in Christ."

Guide To Good Reading Now At The Ouachita Parish Public Library

BY FRANCIS FLANDERS

In the past few weeks many people have commented on this column and have told me that they enjoyed reading it. Of course I am delighted that it is helpful as a guide to the best in new books. I would like to make clear that the books which I discuss are in the collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. Now the book may not be in the library when you ask for it, but if you read about it in this column, you can be sure that we do have one or more copies of the book and that if you have your name put on the waiting list you will be able to get it soon. We are not able to buy all of the books published and we attempt to be selective in our choices and get the books which we think will be most popular with our readers.

HISTORICAL NOVELS

Among the new books added in the past week there are several interesting titles. If you like a good historical novel, you will want to read "The Tall Captains" by Bart Spicer. This is a story of Duncan Crosbie and his hatred of the English. It has its scene in Canada and its culmination is the battle between Montcalm and Wolfe on the Plains of Abraham.

A strictly adult novel is Stephen Longstreet's new book "The Promoters." It has its setting in the southwest and gives us a memorable cast of characters. "Best Seller" by William Murray is a take off on all of the modern best sellers. It is a book for those who have a sense of humor and are not afraid to laugh at themselves.

Ruth Painter Randall is an expert on the subject of Abraham Lincoln and has written several books on the subject. Her latest one is called "The Courtship of Mr. Lincoln." This is the delightful story of his courtship of Mary Todd and of a romance that lasted a lifetime.

One of the most popular of modern authors is Jesse Stuart, who has given us novels, poetry and an interesting biography, all dealing with life in the Kentucky Hills. His latest book is called "The Year of My Rebirth" and is a dramatic story of his struggle back to life from a near-fatal heart attack. In this book we see how he drew his strength from nature and how he never gave up the struggle to win and live again. Like all of his books it is beautifully written. It contains hope for others who have had heart attacks and it will be of special interest to those who have read his earlier books and feel as if he is a personal friend.

ARCHEOLOGY

More and more people are becoming interested in archeology and our collection of books on this subject is growing rapidly. The latest book in this field is "The Lost Pyramid" by M. Zakaria Goneim. This is a fascinating account of the discovery and entry of a "new" pyramid built 4,500 years ago. This book is a step-by-step story of the uncovering of the Pyramid of King Sekhem-Khet (Third Egyptian Dynasty, 2780-2720 B. C.) This is the first definitive book describing a momentous discovery and reading it almost makes the reader feel as if he had been there.

Books written to help the weary or discouraged are always popular and this week we have two new books of this type, both written by masters of the field. One is "A Lift for Living" by Ralph W. Sockman and the other is "Prescription for Anxiety" by Leslie D. Weatherhead. Dr. Sockman says that his book is designed to keep the reader growing. Every individual who longs for freedom from anxiety will find it in Dr. Weatherhead's book.

Whatever your reading need, call on the Ouachita Parish Public Library and we will do our best to help you.

SERIES CONTINUES

Latest Novel Deals With Life & Love

THE STRANGLED QUEEN By Maurice Druon (Charles Scribner's Sons, 216 pps, $3.50).

The Iron King was the first in a series of novels called The Accursed Kings. The second — The Strangled Queen — appears to be a worthy successor.

The new one in the series takes up where the other one leaves off — in the year 1314 when Louis X succeeds his father, Philip the Fair, known as the Iron King.

When Philip dies, Louis' wife who had been convicted of adultery by her late father - in - law, is imprisoned in the fortress of Chateau - Gaillard.

The new king is anxious to be freed of her so that he may marry again and assure the succession. In the ordinary course of events the king would have had the Pope annul the marriage, but at this particular time there was no Pope. Clement V was dead, and the Cardinals gathered at Avignon and subject to wily and powerful political maneuvering, had failed to elect a new Pope.

Thus the stage is set for one of the lesser - known dramas of the Middle Ages. The young King ardently desires to wed Clemence of Hungary, the Princess of Naples who is renowned throughout Europe for her beauty. But with one wife on his hands and no Pope to help him out, Louis X finds himself in a quandary indeed.

But his position is the same as that of many men and some of them had their problems solved in a similar fashion; but only a very few can have been monarchs of such powerful countries as France of the 14th century.

This series is exciting because the characters come alive and the detail is authentic.

Shriners Miss Cotton Handicap

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 9 (UP)—Several busloads of Shriners from the Karabuh Temple in Shreveport, La., didn't get to see the $5,000 King Cotton Handicap here today.

The handicap was shelved when Oaklawn Racing secretary Kenneth McIntosh said there were insufficient eligible entries.

The Shriners were expected to be on hand to witness the six furlong event.

Shriners Miss Cotton Handicap

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 9 (UP)—Several busloads of Shriners from the Karabuh Temple in Shreveport, La., didn't get to see the $5,000 King Cotton Handicap here today.

The handicap was shelved when Oaklawn Racing secretary Kenneth McIntosh said there were insufficient eligible entries.

The Shriners were expected to be on hand to witness the six furlong event.

TV notes

Laura Bridgman, the woman has been Helen Keller's great inspiration, is the central figure in "The Key" which will be seen again today on Telephone Time over CBS network. "The Key," first seen on July 15 of last year, is being repeated as one of the outstanding productions in the Telephone Time series.

CBS Television's "Look Up and Live" today will present Hungary: Moment of Decision" as the second of its four - part special programs dedicated to the lasting love for freedom of captive peoples behind the Iron Curtain. The program is a dramatic insight into Hungary's historical love for liberty and the inter - relationship between faith and freedom.

Cartoonists Milton Caniff, Walt Kelly, Al Capp and Allen Saunders will appear on "Odyssey" today and will tell of the way "comics" affect and reflect the American life.

Bette Davis will portray a middle aged spinster and business woman when she appears on the General Electric Theatre tonight. Appearing as a woman bent on revenge against a publisher (John Baragrey) who has ridiculed her manuscript during a writers' conference, Miss Davis will play the lead in "With Malice Toward One." Introducing the program will be host Ronald Reagan.

Claude Rains stars as an unemployable, alcoholic actor who turns to blackmail when credit at his favorite Broadway bar is cut off, in "Cream of the Jest", on "Alfred Hitchcock Presents" tonight.

Also featured are James Gregory, Paul Picerni, Joan Banks, Johnny Silver, and a host of others.

A program with both an excellent story and providing understanding of the association with retarded children will be presented Monday on "Studio One." It revolves around a successful career woman who tries to forget her son, who lives in a home for retarded children.

The story "A Child is Waiting" stars Pat Hingle, Mary Fickett and Marian Seldes.

Tuesday the DuPont Theatre pays tribute to the two men who founded the Alcoholics Anonymous which incidentally observes its 22 anniversary this week. James Daly stars in the true story, "One Day at a Time."

Two alcoholics, a finaicial genius with six months to live and a doctor who nearly drowns his medical career in whiskey, found the organiation that is to save thousands from the road to destruction.

Spider Webb will tangle with Randy Sandy for the "Fight of the Week" Wednesday evening over the ABC-TV network. The ten - round middleweight bout is expected to be one of the best of the season.

William and Jean Eckart, the distinguished scenic designers for more than a dozen Broadway musicals and plays, are creating the costumes and sets for Rodgers and Hammerstein's hour-and-one-half musical "Cinderella," starring Julie Andrews. The program will be shown on Sunday, March 31.

Jonathan Lucas, the award-winning dancer and choreographer, will stage the dance numbers for the special color program, including the elaborate "Cinderella" ball

Young Man With A Horse Now Has Become Industry

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK, March 9 (AP)—A year ago Hugh O'Brian was a young man with a horse and a couple of guns. Today, still a young man, he's an industry.

This is thanks in part to frontier marshal named Wyatt Earp. It's even more thanks to the way O'Brian has played the role of Wyatt Earp on ABC-TV Tuesday, 8:30 p.m. — EST.

Popular as Earp is with adult and young viewers, O'Brian is beginning to transcend the character he plays — which is smart business for O'Brian as well as Earp.

"Doing two filmed shows a week for six months is a tough grind," O'Brian said the other day. "But it does leave me six months to get out and meet people."

He's certainly been doing that recently. Personal - appearance tours have been taking him to many cities. Three weeks ago he was found singing on the Ed Sullivan Show CBS-TV. "Playhouse 90" CBS-TV has seen him playing a heavy dramatic role in "Invitation to a Gunfighter." He is being sought for a movie to be filmed in Europe. There even comes word from Washington that he has accepted chairmanship of the National Rifle Assn. firearm safety program.

Now, says O'Brian, he has formed his own Western variety show which will play theaters in many cities. The tour will be managed by Col. Tom Parker, who also manages Elvis Presley.

TV notes

Laura Bridgman, the woman has been Helen Keller's great inspiration, is the central figure in "The Key" which will be seen again today on Telephone Time over CBS network. "The Key," first seen on July 15 of last year, is being repeated as one of the outstanding productions in the Telephone Time series.

CBS Television's "Look Up and Live" today will present Hungary: Moment of Decision" as the second of its four - part special programs dedicated to the lasting love for freedom of captive peoples behind the Iron Curtain. The program is a dramatic insight into Hungary's historical love for liberty and the inter - relationship between faith and freedom.

Cartoonists Milton Caniff, Walt Kelly, Al Capp and Allen Saunders will appear on "Odyssey" today and will tell of the way "comics" affect and reflect the American life.

Bette Davis will portray a middle aged spinster and business woman when she appears on the General Electric Theatre tonight. Appearing as a woman bent on revenge against a publisher (John Baragrey) who has ridiculed her manuscript during a writers' conference, Miss Davis will play the lead in "With Malice Toward One." Introducing the program will be host Ronald Reagan.

Claude Rains stars as an unemployable, alcoholic actor who turns to blackmail when credit at his favorite Broadway bar is cut off, in "Cream of the Jest", on "Alfred Hitchcock Presents" tonight.

Also featured are James Gregory, Paul Picerni, Joan Banks, Johnny Silver, and a host of others.

A program with both an excellent story and providing understanding of the association with retarded children will be presented Monday on "Studio One." It revolves around a successful career woman who tries to forget her son, who lives in a home for retarded children.

The story "A Child is Waiting" stars Pat Hingle, Mary Fickett and Marian Seldes.

Tuesday the DuPont Theatre pays tribute to the two men who founded the Alcoholics Anonymous which incidentally observes its 22 anniversary this week. James Daly stars in the true story, "One Day at a Time."

Two alcoholics, a finaicial genius with six months to live, and a doctor who nearly drowns his medical career in whiskey, found the organiation that is to save thousands from the road to destruction.

Spider Webb will tangle with Randy Sandy for the "Fight of the Week" Wednesday evening over the ABC-TV network. The ten - round middleweight bout is expected to be one of the best of the season.

William and Jean Eckart, the distinguished scenic designers for more than a dozen Broadway musicals and plays, are creating the costumes and sets for Rodgers and Hammerstein's hour-and-one-half musical "Cinderella," starring Julie Andrews. The program will be shown on Sunday, March 31.

Jonathan Lucas, the award-winning dancer and choreographer, will stage the dance numbers for the special color program, including the elaborate "Cinderella" ball

IT'S SPARTAN LIVING FROM NOW ON, SINCE I WENT ON MY DIET YESTERDAY...

IS THAT ALL HE EVER WATCHES? GUNPLAY! KILLINGS! MASSACRES! IT'S TERRIBLE! WHY CAN'T HE WATCH SOMETHING LESS GRUESOME?! WHERE DOES HE LEARN... ETC..

MURDER THE BUM! KILL 'IM! TEAR HIM APART!!
